YOU MUST SEE AGUA CALIENTE MEXICO IF YOU WOULD BE MODERN

(Special To The News)

Talk about "having to see Paris" and "So This is London" and "Must Visit Claremore," but till you have seen Agua Caliente, Mexico, you have just grown up in ignorance. A beautiful spot, with the most sober and original of all the resorts. Why, you wouldn't hardly believe they were Americans. Every nation must have its legalized form of gambling. We have our Wall Street.

Mexico gives you a more even break—they have "roulette." Also a percentage of your losses go to the government. They are a primitive race. They put government above broker. Folks will take a chance. Old Noah gambled on not getting the "foot and mouth" disease in there with all those animals, and old King Solomon bet a hundred women he wouldn't pay 'em alimony and won his bet. "Viva la Mexico."

Yours,

WILL.

PA NEW OBSERVES

There have been a slew of robins reported seen during the past several months, but Pa New remembers that the first robin reported was seen by Mrs. McCord Smith of Edinburg R. D. 7. That was in December or January.

Certainly looks like spring today, but tomorrow or next week, perhaps it will snow again—who knows?

Many shiny automobiles, like groundhogs, are coming out of their holes to see if spring is really here. Many roadsters, with tops down, were trying out the highways yesterday.

Quite a number of motorists are using the New Castle-Volant road via East Brook for an enjoyable little ride. That is—until the pavement ends.

The lawns having dainty yellow, white and purple crocuses peeping out certainly add the spring-like atmosphere.

Saw a Ford of early vintage rambling along Washington street yesterday. It bore a Massachusetts license and if it ever held together to get back there some miracle would have to be performed.

Farmers who own fields that are up on hillsides or are situated so that they drain easily, are taking advantage of these spring-like days. Quite a large amount of acreage has already been plowed in this locality.

Gas stations must have experienced a business boom yesterday. Thousands of motorists were out enjoying the delightful weather conditions.

Makes no difference if there are reports of business depression, it is a fact.

TROUBLE STARTED OVER BEER PRICE

(International News Service)
MANILA, P. I., March 17.—Five sailors of the United States Navy were recovering from injuries today and a group of Filipino civilians were under arrest as the aftermath of a pitched battle fought yesterday afternoon during a baseball game in Kettle Park.

Native police and B. K. West, a United States police officer, quelled the riot after a sharp engagement in which brickbats and clubs were the chief weapons.

Warnings from naval officials were read to the seamen last night forbidding them to engage in any meetings or discussions which might lead to further racial friction.

Only meager details were given the press, civil authorities choosing to term the clash as "insignificant."

Crowd Gathers In Philadelphia To See "Al" Capone

MORBIDLY CURIOUS CROWD PEN GATES

Persons In Every Walk Of Life Are Anxious To Get Glimpse Of Famous Gangster

PHILADELPHIA, March 17.—"Scarface" Al Capone, widely publicized racketeer and gunman, was due to walk out of Eastern penitentiary here today, a free man, after having done a "stretch" of ten months for carrying a "rod." The exact time when the big iron gate of the prison would swing open for "Al" was not known, that being dependent upon how soon Governor John S. Fisher would sign his release papers. The governor returned to Harrisburg last night from a trip to the West Indies.

A large crowd of morbidly curious stood across from the forbidding walls of the prison for hours, waiting for Capone to come through the big iron gate. Automobiles were parked for two blocks along Fairmount avenue and a score of policemen camped in the vicinity to maintain order.

Have Long Wait.

Newsreel machines were set up atop motor cars and trained photographers milled about among the crowd or sat in parked cars, waiting. Persons on their way to work stopped and joined the throng. In the crowd were school boys and girls, stenographers, teamsters, chauffeurs, a scattering of business men and quite a few tough-looking customers.

When Capone failed to emerge at 12:01 a. m., the spectators outside were visibly disappointed. They waited until the wee hours of the morning. By 3 a. m. only a dozen or two remained, mostly newspaper men. By 3 o'clock the crowd had grown steadily. At 9 a. m. word came from inside (Continued On Page Two)

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, March 17.—The gangland torture murder of John "Billiken" Rito, bootleg racketeer and bodyguard for the "Bugs" Moran gang, confronted police today after his body was fished from the Chicago river where his killers had taken care to conceal it.

The body, beaten, stabbed and shot, bore evidence that Rito had been tortured before he was finally killed. The arms were wired across the breast as though in prayer and the tips of the fingers indicated they had been cut or seared away.

The pockets of his coat had been filled with stones and a large rock was wired to the body to keep it submerged, proving that his slayers took (Continued On Page Two)

CELL-MATE OF IRENE IN JAIL AT PHOENIX TELLS OF HER BOASTING

Says Mrs. Schroeder Related Whole Story Of Shooting Of Corporal Brady Paul—Deputy Sheriff Coor Tells Of Capture Of Irene And Dague—Commonwealth Is Near Conclusion Of Case.

Like Banquo's ghost, Irene Schroeder's words came back to haunt her this morning in court room number one. The story she told in bravado, if bravado it was, to her cell mates in the Phoenix jail was told this morning by one of those cell mates, Mrs. Mattie Jackson, a colored girl who was incarcerated in the cell in which Irene was placed. In her testimony she told of Irene's boasting that she had killed an officer in Pennsylvania, wounded another, robbed a lot of chain stores, battled with a policeman in St. Louis and later battled with officers in Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Jackson was a prisoner at the time, but subsequently was acquitted by a jury on the charge of the possession of opium. She is here, not as a prisoner, but as a citizen who has agreed to come across a continent to repeat the words of a woman who Mrs. Jackson says, confessed to murder and robbery.

Story Clearly Told

Mrs. Jackson's story was told simply, and intelligibly. The story she told this morning, coincides with a story which the New Castle News published shortly after the return of the party of officers from Phoenix, Arizona, with Irene and Glen Dague. This story was written as a result of a conversation in Phoenix, between the representative of the New Castle News and a Phoenix newspaper man.

The story told by the former cell mate of Irene's appears in the article below. It needs little explaining. It is the story of an humble colored girl who knew nothing of the case before the capture of Irene, and had read nothing of it since. As she sat up in the witness chair, Irene's eyes hardly left her.

The story of the capture of Irene Schroeder, Glen Dague and Joe Wells came from the witness stand this morning from the lips of Deputy Sheriff Hance Coor, the deputy who was in active charge of the group that went into the mountain fastness and brought out Irene, Glen and Joe Wells.

Columns have been written about that colorful capture of the bandits. Long eulogies have been penned of the fearless manner in which they braved the bullets of the trio, but Hance Coor, big and brawny and bronzed, made no attempt at coloring the episode. To him, an officer of Maricopa county, Arizona, it was just another day's work. Not for him to tell how those westerners crept down the rocky incline of the Estrella Mountains, not for him to depict in glowing terms the capture that caught the fancy of a nation. His job was to tell just what happened and he did.

Perhaps to Hance Coor the capture was just another day's work, but to the world at large it was a daring piece of work, a valorous deed that ranks with the work of those old timers who captured Billy the Kid and the Earps.

Two High Spots
The testimony of Mattie Jackson and Hance Coor were the high spots of the morning's testimony. They came as the capstone of a pillar of evidence that has been piling, piling.

Before tonight it is expected that the commonwealth will be through, or at least by tomorrow morning. Then comes the turn of Irene Schroeder to attempt to break down the mass of testimony that has been offered.

What her defense will be is still a mystery. The testimony of the morning session follows:

Morning Session

Two robberies were reported to the police as occurring Sunday night. unusual care to conceal his fate. Police are convinced Rito was slain as an outgrowth of the war between the Capone and Moran gangs for control.

Capone Menchman.

A prayer book bearing Rito's name had been marked at an underlined passage reading:

"One of you is about to betray me." Although Rito was known to have been in the employ of the Moran gang two months ago, a silver belt buckle, studded with four diamonds, showed that he has been a member of the Al Capone gang, as such buckles were presented by "Scarface" Al to his chieftains.

At first believed to have been put on the "spot" by election rivals, the body of Mrs. Ida M. Doyle, a second ward Republican election judge, was found yesterday with the skull crushed.

A rifled purse and missing rings indicated she had been killed when she tried to fight off a robber, police said.

STAR LORE

LOCATING THE PLANETS
By Arthur Dev. Carpenter
R. H. Scranton, Pa., writes: "What is the easiest way to locate the different planets?" A planet is easily distinguished from a star by the fact that its radiation appears steady, while the stars twinkle; planets are always found in the belt of the zodiac, so become acquainted with the 12 constellations of the zodiac. As the planets wander through the zodiac, it is important to consult an almanac of the American Ephemeris and Nautical Almanac, Government Printing Office, Washington 25 for the constellation in which planet may be found at a particular date. Mercury, Venus, Mars are the only planets that shift about rapidly.

CROWD GATHERS IN PHILADELPHIA TO SEE "AL" CAPONE

that Capone would not emerge before noon but the crowd remained.

Guards Are Alert

High up in a tower armed guards looked down into the interior of the prison. They paced to and fro ceaselessly. The night shift of guards came out at 8 a. m. The day guards went by slowly—and still the crowd waited for the appearance of the beer baron.

At 10 a. m. Joseph Le Strange, assistant superintendent of police, came out of the prison. He said Capone was still inside and that his release papers had not yet been signed. He indicated that it would be late today before the papers arrived.

"You are wasting your time around here," Le Strange said. "No one will see Capone when he comes out."

May Spirit Capone Aways

Numerous trucks passed in and out of the prison during the forenoon. It was conceivable that Capone would be quietly taken away in one of the trucks.

Police officials were inclined to scoff at rumors that enemies of Capone planned to "say it with bullets" when "Al" comes out. The authorities, however, checked up on recurring reports that a large group of Capone's friends—as well as some of his enemies—had gathered in Philadelphia in the last 48 hours.

Any attempt on the part of Capone's friends to meet their chieftain and escort him to a train in triumph and armed caution will be discouraged by the police. And hostile action on the part of Capone's enemies who may be lurking in the vicinity of the prison will be promptly dealt with.

The authorities are not expecting trouble but they are prepared for it should any develop.

START MARTIN TRIAL FOR MURDER OF REA; NOW SELECTING JURY

rected to stand up and raise his right hand while the arraignment was read by Deputy Probationary John Edgar. At the close of the reading, Edgar asked: "How will you be tried?"

"By God and my country," responded Martin.

"God send you a safe deliverance," responded Edgar.

Martin is represented by Attorney Clarence Patterson, who was appointed by the court to look after his case. The prosecution is represented by Special District Attorneys Walter E. Braham and George W. Muse.

Selection of a jury was started from the panels called this week.

All of the jurors called had either read about or discussed the case, and the most of them had formed opinions. Some said that they would be able to lay their opinions aside.

Most of the questions which were asked by the commonwealth were whether or not the juror could bring in a verdict of first degree murder with death penalty against the defendant, even should it be shown that his hand did not actually fire the fatal shot. Most of them said they could if the court allowed it to be the law.

First Juror Examined

Harry Stoner, a farmer of Slippery Rock township, was the first juror called. He had read about the case and formed an opinion which it would take evidence to remove. He was challenged peremptorily.

William H. Shubert, single, of the seventh ward, employed at the post-office, had formed an opinion of the case. He was uncertain as to whether or not he could bring in a verdict of first degree if it were not shown that the defendant had actually fired the shot. He was challenged for cause.

John H. Elliott, married, resident of the first ward and employed at the Shenango oil plant, had formed an opinion, but believed that he could lay it aside and try the case on the law and the evidence. He was accepted as the first juror.

Clyde Hackett, farmer of Big Beaver township, married, wife and three children, had formed an opinion but believed he could lay it aside. He was challenged peremptorily.

Woman Has Scruples.

Mrs. Aletha Wallace of Union township believed that she could lay her opinion aside, but she did not believe she could bring in a verdict of first degree murder with the death penalty. She was challenged for cause.

Earl Flanagan of the first ward was acquainted with Martin and McDevitt. He had known Martin for some time. He was challenged for cause.

John W. McHattie, seventh ward, married, three children, was acquainted with Clarence Patterson, attorney for the defense, but did not believe that would interfere with his trying the case impartially. He was accepted as the second juror.

Bertha Hainsworth, Taylor township, wife of Arthur Hainsworth, was not sure that she could bring in a death penalty. She was challenged for cause.

John Sample, New Wilmington, had formed an opinion from what he had read, but he believed he could lay it aside and try the case on the law and the evidence. He was accepted as the third juror.

Other jurors examined were Hattie Forbes, South New Castle; C. J. William Gustafson, Neshannock; Katherine Johns, Slippery Rock; Louis Matland, Neshannock; William Matlocks, Jr., Ellwood City; Dora Marshall, Perry; William Whieldon, fourth ward; Ida Wooten, Neshannock, and Eli Yoho, Wayne. From this list Dora Marshall was selected as the fourth juror and William Matlocks, Jr., as the fifth.

death was a distinct shock. There being no Sunday newspapers in Spain, the general public learned it only through reports in the streets. Then it was announced in the churches.

Jose Antonio, the only son of the general now in Madrid was so stricken that he was unable to see any of the hundreds of visitors to his father's modest apartment and Maria, the former premier's sister received the visitors for him. Jose Antonio sent a note to Jose Antonio, which though not made public, was said to be a sincere message of regret at the death of the man who had ruled the country for six years.

Funeral Escort

A large delegation of the general's friends left this morning for the border, to meet the funeral train which leaves Paris late this evening and escort the body to Madrid. The train will leave Paris, on the border, Tuesday morning, arriving here Tuesday night.

Arrangements for the funeral will not be made until after today's meeting of the council of ministers. Military funerals may not be held, according to the Spanish law, when the king is in Madrid, but it is believed that this rule may be waived by the council so that the former premier may receive the honors due a captain general of the armies.

FIVE SAILORS ARE SEVERELY INJURED IN MANILA RIOTING

in the battle was severely beaten about the head and received several fractured ribs, it was learned today.

The riot is said to have begun when Filipino beer purveyors demanded more pay and were refused by the sailor.

Edward Mecklenburg, of the U. S. S. Parrott, was the most seriously injured.

The others were not hurt enough to require hospital treatment.

A second outbreak occurred Sunday night when sailors and Filipinos engaged in a tree-for-all fight, with about fifteen participating in the melee. No injuries were reported and no arrests were made.

Three Filipinos seized are to be arraigned today.

No complaints have yet been filed as the result of the Sunday riots.

Governor General Davis, who is far inland in the Province of Mindanao, has not been notified of the outbreaks.

The chief of police here stated that city police were capable of handling the situation.

March, which came in like a lion, is already betraying weakness of the roaring apparatus.—The Des Moines Tribune-Capital.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Mrs. C. S. Manor of Pittsburgh to Rev. C. J. Williamson, D. D., pastor of the Highland United Presbyterian church of this city. HAITI

SO FAIR, honest and promising is the program drafted by the Haitian commission and approved by President Hoover and the Haitian leaders that the senate will hardly dare reject it. Public opinion here and in Haiti is behind the program.

This program is a genuine triumph for the spirit of goodwill and for the American genius for diplomacy and getting things done.

Five salient points in the program call for abolition of the office of American high commissioner, election of a provisional president, selection of a legislature by a popular election of a president by the new legislature and a new treaty with the United States.

This program involves no sacrifice of American pride or power; in fact, it simply carries out the terms of the treaty whereby we entered Haiti.

But it would prove to Haiti and the world at large that Washington is not imperialistic and show the sincerity of American protestations of belief in self-determination and self-government of nations.

Whether the Haitians are intellectually and socially prepared for complete independence and self-government they may soon have a chance to prove. With or without American occupation, Washington cannot guarantee that the Haitians will live happy forever after like the lovers in the fairy tale.

LIMITING WESTERN HEMISPHERE IMMIGRATION

In view of the objections that have arisen in some quarters to the proposed legislation regulating immigration from the Western Hemisphere, including Canada, it is worth while to consider the following facts:

Regulating of admission from Canada is already in operation. Every Canadian who comes over the line to reside already has to account for himself and pay a tax, and must conform to numerous immigration requirements as to character, freedom from disease, liability to become public charge, etc. Moreover, we make no objections if Americans have to do the same when they go to Canada. There is, therefore, no principle violated in further regulating Canadian immigration and there are several good reasons for doing so.

The relations between Canada and the United States are a model for the rest of the world, and Canadians, when they come over the line, make our best citizens. Nevertheless, we are two separate and independent countries, and friendly relations are going to be helped, rather than hindered, by a frank recognition of that fact, and of its consequences.

It is not desirable to regulate immigration from the Western Hemisphere except in terms applying to all countries, and some regulation is necessary.

We have a most serious unemployment problem affected especially by Mexican immigration. The whole standard of living of our working population and the prosperity of many of our industries, are being seriously affected, both directly and indirectly, by the unlimited importation of Mexican labor. This labor, penetrating into nearly all parts of the country, is driving down wages and is causing widespread and increasing unrest, and unemployment. It is desirable to limit this immigration, as we have limited European immigration, in a way that will not appear to cast any stigma on our southern neighbor. A bill has, therefore, been introduced applying quotas to all countries of the entire Western Hemisphere.

By allowing to any country in this hemisphere, to which Americans emigrate, an addition to its quota based on the numbers of Americans so emigrating, the bill introduced accomplishes what is needed without materially affecting the amount of Canadian immigration, for Americans go into Canada in large numbers and they do not go into Mexico to any great extent.

No piece of legislation is more needed, and those who may be inclined to oppose it should remember that by doing so they are not helping Canada, but are playing into the hands of certain interests who are seeking to profit by the exploitation of cheap labor at the sacrifice of all the rest of us, whether workers or employers. Our friendship with Canada is in no danger.

OH, THESE WOMEN!

By LEOLA ALLARD

I receive another earnest plea from a man who tells me to let the subject of bachelors alone and stick to the women.

But the bachelors it seems to me, know more about women than even I do, and I'll admit that's something. Every bachelor letters letters in light. And you will have to admit that the woman who wrote this letter retaining her perfect balance and her superior sense of humor, contributes something to the subject of both women and bachelors. I haven't the heart to let you miss her observations: She lives in the country, and her first name is Margaret. I won't give her away.

"You're wrong for once Leola, bachelors are not pink. They're purple. I have known several bachelors from the lean, purposeful type to the Falstaffian gentleman of ebullient point. You say you find them fascinating, amusing, but you should feel sorry for them. Do they ever get any of those biscuits you wrote about? And if so, WHERE? Far be it from me to pry into the past, present or future of any bachelor. I have fed them everything from biscuits to cream puffs, dumplings, shortcake, (I'm some cook Leola) and PIE. They have admirable digestions. They are appreciative. One finds one that is careful, but they CAN be domesticated. And how! Have you never had a bachelor around underfoot? They are not dangerous. I've fed them right out of my hand. Of course they are set in their ways and cats make much nicer pets.

"Anyway I know a terrible secret about bachelors. They are not monogamous. If polygamy were allowed they would start getting married tomorrow. As for their being 'contented cows'—I admire esteem cows.

"Did you ever see a gentleman cow on a rampage? There are bellows and showers of mud. Walking along a country road in Colorado I came upon some cows grazing—and among them the largest, ugliest looking bull with horns a foot long. 'Good-night,' I said. 'I see my finish.' I was wearing a red flannel skirt and khaki blouse. Coming alongside of the bull he didn't look at me, but through me. Apparently he didn't see me. I proceeded unmolested. He ruminated. There are bulls and bulls, Leola, but believe me contented bulls are more important than contented cows. Cows can be stampeded too. A herd of 200 yearlings were turned out to graze in the park through which I must walk to get the mail. They were a quarter of a mile away when curiosity propelled them in my direction—with speed. I was scared stiff. When they were close, I charge them, yelling and waving my sombrero. In about three minutes the last yearling has disappeared around a hill.

"My husband and I riding horseback stopped at a farmhouse where a number of small children were playing about. A wizened shrimp of a man came to greet us. Enquired this colloquy: 'Are these your children?' sez politely. 'My children, are looking out of other peoples windows', sez he. When we rode on I asked my husband 'Was that fellow drunk? What did he mean?'

"Husband answered: 'That was old M. K., an old bachelor who lives on faux pas or his? In that bachelor infested neighborhood I should have been wary.

Going through Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona, and on to the Pacific for the hundredth time, is as interesting as on the first journey. You feel that you are in a BIG country.

A. L. Wathen of the Interior Department of Indian irrigation service, in connection with looking after the Coolidge dam, says with conviction, "no place East of the Rocky Mountains is fit to live in." He would not have said that when in the army, across the ocean a while ago. He is sure of it now.

On both sides of the track, just now, is desert country, waiting for water to make it magnificently fertile. Plenty of water goes to waste in the ocean and gulf. A perfect cement road runs through the desert back the track. Going up grade a small automobile easily passes the train the driver waving his hand in triumph.

An old Indian with a bright orange ribbon tied around his hair, sits high on a load of baled alfalfa, driving two white horses. He does not wave his hand and probably has no high opinion of trains or white men. But his horses are hauling about three tons. He could not have hauled half that on the old desert road. It will take him three or four days to deliver that load and get home with about sixty dollars. A low-priced automobile truck would do the work for him in a forenoon carrying a bigger load.

Dante tried to describe heaven but couldn't. In face his description is rather dull and doesn't compare with his description of hell. It is impossible to describe this western country. The sky is different from other skies, as the ceiling of St. Peters dome in Rome, is different from the ceiling of a bungalow.

At Albuquerque, N. M. Pickrell is at the station. He is editor, T. M. Pepperday, is publisher of the Albuquerque Journal which is a success. Wants you to know that the Rio Grande conservancy project, nothing to do with Boulder Dam, will soon irrigate 120,000 acres of fertile land above and below. Albuquerque, providing jobs and prosperity. A natural gas main, on its way to Albuquerque, will secure the establishment of a big glass factory. Albuquerque, "heating" place in the world and 17,000 population a little while ago, has 35,000 now, and will soon double that.

"Such an editor is Pickrell is a whole Chamber of Commerce in himself.

The value of an energetic local editor is not often fully appreciated by his community, nor is the value of his advertising columns appreciated by national advertisers as they should be. His readers buy everything from paint on the roof to cement in the cellar floor, buy more automobiles per capita than city dwellers, have time to read about the latest products, clothes, foods, time-saving devices etc. and buy them. An Indian sitting on the ground beating a little tom tom to attract attention is indifferent to population glass works or irrigation projects. He sells you for 25 cents, a pipe with a face in front of it as good as anything that Hoya ever dyed. That sale makes his day a perfect success. Everything is comparative.

How grateful a nation should be that has for its chief worry the fact that it possesses TOO MUCH of everything. Too much oil is the oil problem. Too much wheat is the wheat problem, too much water ready to irrigate thirty acres, too much wealth in the soil is the farm problem. To say that he hath not dealt so with any people" is putting it mildly.

Unfortunately we haven't too much INTELLIGENCE, therefore we don't know enough to bring in millions more of the kind of people that created this country, to conserve the wheat, use the gasoline, buy second-hand cars that are the automobile industry problem and later buy the most expensive new cars.

This nation is great because it has 120,000,000 people with more than they need. It would be 10 times as great if it had 240,000,000 people to consume the surplus, creating at home the markets for which we struggle abroad.

In the dining car, early, you look at the paper and read that, at about that hour, keepers and witnesses in San Quentin prison will climb two flights of stairs outside an old brick building, take Alphonse Reilly 22 years old, from his death cell and strap him in the electric chair in a room adjoining. He killed a man, the state will kill him.

You see from the window of the car a high tableland reaching for miles, without population, white clouds floating above it. And you believe that a better civilization in another age will find a way to eliminate crime, as disease germs are eliminated by sunshine.

TEACHING MARRIAGE

More than companionate marriage, easy divorce, or any other new-fangled ideas, the country needs a marriage school or a marriage course in our established schools to teach boys and girls how to make a success of matrimony. Kathleen Norris, writing in Smart Set, says there is nothing in today's education of girls and boys to prepare them for the supreme adventure of married life. Code and duty, distribution of income, cooking, parenthood, self-denial, and consideration of one another can all be taught. Successful marriages rarely make news while the most unsuccessful ones frequently do. And so the attention of young folks is generally directed to matrimony at its worst rather than at its best.

WHAT THEY DO NOT LEARN

Ask the average high school senior fairly simple questions about his government, about the trend of current events, how to spell, or ask him the true significance of a few of the most vital events in the history of his country and he will probably astonish and discourage you by the little knows. He will probably not be able to give you a clear idea of the court system of his state and of the United States. He will probably not know how congressmen are provided and may indeed not know to how many senators each state is entitled. And of course there are many questions, simple enough but much more important than these, which he will not be able to answer.

Don't be too quick to blame schools, the teachers, the curriculum or the system. Part of the trouble is in the lack of concentration-power in youth. If parents only knew how to keep the average youngster from letting his mind get away from him and go wool-gathering, they would make the greatest possible contribution to training that can be made. The business of education is not so much to teach folks things as to teach them how to use their minds. If we could only be drawn out of reverie and brought into the way of thinking, something wonderful would have been done for our minds.

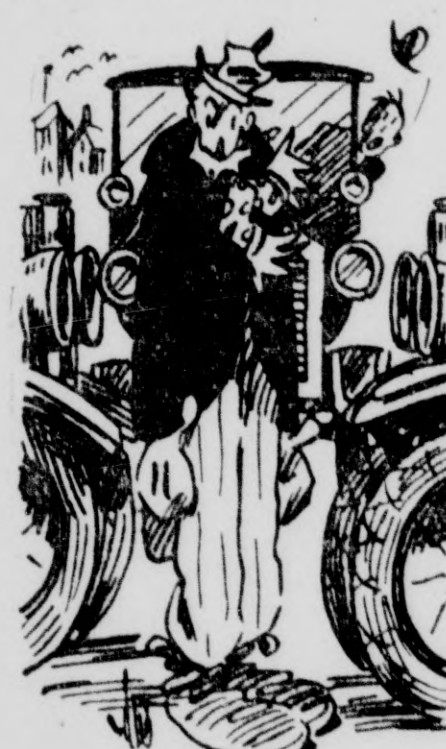

If you know how to teach concentration you know how to bring your boy or girl right into the path of education. It isn't then, that they don't teach things in school. That isn't the cause of ignorance. The curriculums provide knowledge and the teachers know how to impart it—at least some of them do—but nobody seems to have learned how to teach even a fair amount of concentration.

Prayer In Congress

The house met at 12 o'clock noon. The chaplain, Rev. James Shera Montgomery, D. D., offered the following prayer.

Teach us, O Heavenly Father, that we can have nothing everlastingly good unless Thou dost grant it. Fill our minds, our hearts, and our hands with thoughts and deeds of loving service. Teach us the beauty and the glory of the Christian graces, and when the dark days come teach us to wait and listen for Thy voice. Urge us to live in the common cause and help our fellow men while in the world we stay. At Thy footstool we bow and confess our failures. O may we hear Thee say: "Thou didst thy best; that is success." In the name of Jesus our Saviour. Amen.

Ruling Of Freedom Of Press Lauded As Public Safeguard

Ohio Appellate Court, By Overruling Lower Decision On Contempt, Declared To Have Established Great American Principle

The safeguards of liberty were reinforced when the Ohio appellate court overruled a lower court which held two newspaper editors in Cleveland in contempt. This is the conclusion of editors who comment on the case which arose over criticism of an injunction against a sheriff's interference with a race track where gambling was alleged.

We live in an age of pitiless publicity," says the Ohio appellate judges, "an age when freedom of speech and a free press are paramount issues. People should be allowed to say what they please, and newspapers to print what they please, always making themselves liable under the laws of slander or the laws of libel."

"If it has seemed," according to the ST. LOUIS GLOBE-DEMOCRAT, "that judges have of late been increasingly inclined to make an improper use of their authority in such cases, doubtless this appellate decision will serve wholesome purposes. There is a well-defined offense constituting contempt of court, for which fitting remedies are available. To extend its scope to include acts not only authorized but encouraged by law, is to invite a prevalence of great abuses. That, for sound reasons, the press is reluctant to criticize the bench is well known to newspaper readers, and when it does offer criticism, it is seldom harshly, and almost always expresses deep public conviction. Should it be unfair or based on distortion of the facts, judges have their remedy in the law, as well as other citizens."

"The courts are entitled," declares the RICHMOND NEWS LEADER, "to the respect and sympathetic cooperation of the press in the performance of their difficult duties. But when judges step beyond the limits of power conferred and use their official positions to bring men to book because of criticism, it is only fair that persons who are the objects of the judges' anger should be given a trial before an impartial tribunal. Not to permit this is to ignore the demands of justice and to display a lamentable lack of sportsmanship."

Judges are men, subject to the same prejudices as other humans," says the HARTFORD DAILY COURANT. "Because they are, they can scarcely be expected to render impartial verdicts in cases which they themselves have initiated and in which their own interests are at stake."

Thus ends another attempt on the part of constitutional authorities," remarks the ROANOKE WORLD-NEWS, "to misuse that power for the sake of upholding personal dignity against criticism before the public. Either the judge's armor was not very thick or he was not altogether sure that his granting of the injunction was fully justified to begin with. His attempt to bridge the freedom of the press, guaranteed in the constitution, has met with a well-deserved rebuke. The BIRMINGHAM NEWS holds that 'there is what may be characterized a landmark in the struggle to insure the freedom of the press,' and that 'the decision handed down by the appellate court deserves praise beyond words.'

Welcoming the decision as "a good court precedent," the GRAND RAPIDS PRESS states that "any other precedent merely places a muzzle of legal intimidation on the telling of what newspaper readers as the truth about judicial officers." That paper asks: "Why should the elective judiciary be exempt from the power of publicity which protects and enlightens the public in the case of every other public servant they choose?" The YAKIMA DAILY REPUBLIC, asserting that the case "involves a principle of free speech which newspapers have jealously guarded in their functions as spokesmen of the people," points out that "the appellate division stressed the fact that the editorial could not be construed as an attempt to subvert or obstruct justice since it appeared after the judgment had been handed down."

The upper court's suggestion that a judge is a person of temperament and that there would be danger in his "setting himself above the rest of mankind" inspires the comment from the MILWAUKEE JOURNAL: "It is tremendously significant that a court, sitting in judgment on another court, lays down as its own opinion the very platform on which the press has stood." The BOSTON TRANSCRIPT feels that "the least the offended judge should have done would have been to ask to be relieved of conducting the trial of his own complaint." The ASHEVILLE TIMES contends:

"The Grey Hill tribe of the Navajos have the most valuable sheep and make the finest rugs. The colors of a 'Grey Hill' are four and each color is the natural color of the sheep's wool. The bucks of the tribe are grey sheep men and they herd the flocks of the grey, the black, the white and the brown sheep separate and apart from each other.

They have been known to pay as much as $1500 for a blooded buck sheep.

WORTH
 To be rich is not enough.
 For rich men may be cold.
 One can be with manners harsh and rough.
 Fill up the purse with gold.

The maudlin, foolish tipster rich
 Is just a great a boor
 As is the drunkard in the ditch
 Who happens to be poor.

Man must have more than cleverness,
 And more than strength or skill.
 One may in trade achieve success
 And be a failure still.

True splendor out of trifles springs,
 In manners, morals, mirths.
 In all life's countless little things,
 A man must prove his worth.

LET US REMEMBER—

That greatness is really usefulness—that fame is only opinion.
 That character is eternal—that reputation is vapor in the wind.
 That honor is the foundation—that advertising is the flag on the pole.
 That love is strong enough to forgive—that jealousy is decayed love.
 That the patriot lives for his country—that the profiteer lives for himself.
 That success must keep on growing—that graves only need not grow.
 That religion is a personal experience—that church membership is an expression.

Senate Committee To Hear Plans Of Dry Enforcement

Administration's Plans For Improving Prohibition Enforcement To Be Revealed

MILITANTS PLAN WITNESS GRILLING

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff
WASHINGTON, March 17.—The Hoover administration's detailed plans to improve prohibition enforcement may be disclosed to the senate judiciary committee, meeting in secret session today to hear Attorney General Mitchell and Chairman George W. Wickersham of the law enforcement commission.

They were called to aid the committee in determining whether to recommend a senatorial investigation of prohibition enforcement, as demanded by Sens. Norris (R) of Nebraska and Wheeler (D) of Montana.

Opposition Seen.
Both Mitchell and Wickersham are understood to be opposed to opening the whole question of enforcement by an investigation while the congress is considering the administration's reorganization program and the Wickersham commission is still delving into the crime situation in the nation.

Despite the refusal of Mitchell and Wickersham to appear in a public session of the committee, Sen. Borah (R) of Idaho and other members were insistent that a stenographic record of the proceedings be made.

Militant dries and wets alike on the senate committee were prepared to grill their witnesses.

Unveil Cross At Croton M. E.

Impressive Service At Sunday Evening Meeting In Croton Avenue Church

An immense crowd heard Rev. G. S. Joshua, pastor of the Croton avenue Methodist church, preach his seventh sermon in the commandment series Sunday evening, when he spoke on "Thou Shalt Not Commit Adultery." Supplementing the service was the ceremony of unveiling the cross, which is hung at the back of the pulpit and which is illuminated by 24 lights. The church was in total darkness, and as Rev. Joshua pressed the switch the cross stood out in all its glory and Helen Twaddle and Gladys Thompson, robed in white, stood at attention at each side of the cross, bearing the Christian and American flags. The ceremony was most impressive with the choir softly chanting "Rock of Ages" throughout.

Illinois Men After Effecting New Organization Await Speech By Green

(International News Service)
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., March 17.—Sponsors of the "reorganization" convention of the United Mine Workers of America after bringing the sessions to a close Saturday with formal organization of a "new" international union, settled back today and cast an anxious eye in the direction of Indianapolis eagerly awaiting the speech of William B. Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, to the delegates attending the 31st constitutional convention of mine workers.

Green is expected to express his views on the internal dissension in the ranks of the mine workers and many labor leaders here will not be surprised if he hands out a verbal spanking to the faction which met here last week. Others look for him to adopt a "hands off" policy in the hope that the coal diggers themselves eventually will bring order out of chaos, especially so far as Illinois is concerned.

Before bringing the "reorganization" convention to a close, delegates here endorsed a proposal to send a letter to Green "most earnestly" requesting him to "bring to the attention of the delegates at Indianapolis the proposals for the reorganization and upbuilding of the U. M. W. of A., embodied in this communication."

Committee Reports Favorably On Bills

During council session today several measures were reported favorably from committee. One calls for the widening and establishment of a building line in North street between Shannango street and Neshannock avenue. The width will be increased five feet. Another widening ordinance extends the width of Cascade street between Croton avenue and the paper mill road to 50 feet.

Council also favored the ordinance which provides for the construction of sidewalks in Scott street between Court street and Croton avenue. The measures were ordered printed pending passage.

Bids Asked For Epworth Church

Must Be Submitted By April
7; Excavation Work Completed

Bids for the construction of the super-structure of the new Epworth M. E. church, for which excavation work is about completed at the East Washington street and Butler avenue site, are being asked for at the present time, according to an announcement today. These bids will cover only the building itself and not the foundation work.

Contractors planning to submit estimates on the building must have them in the office of the W. G. Eekles company, architects for the work by Monday, April 7, it was stated. Weather favorable to excavation work has been prevailing and it is believed that if it continues work on the foundation might get under way later in the week. It is the hope that work on the super-structure may be commenced as soon as time permits.

FILMS PROVE GAMBLE WITH STAGE STARS

By LYLE ABBOTT
International News Service Special Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 17.—The silver screen is a gamble which few stage players can take without deep thought.

One bad picture undoes an entire career.

That is the consensus among observers who have watched Hollywood invaded by numberless notables from Broadway. And the score is heavily against the stage folk.

To those who have followed the footlights, each performance, if not each production, offers a new chance to make good. The camera is not so easy on its devotees. The inexorable record of the lens can no more be changed than that which is written.

Violet Heming, one of Broadway's favorite blondes ever since "Three Faces East", was in Los Angeles to play in "legitimate."

Miss Heming, unlike many others from her eastern show capital, was not leaning toward Hollywood with languishing glances.

"It is such a big risk," she said. "On the stage even when the play is bad, you can maintain whatever prestige you may have earned by giving a good performance."

"But in the movies you give your performance and then things start happening."

"By the time they are through cutting and editing your picture, you may not recognize your work. Then add bad recording or a bad amplifier and you are threatened with extinction."

Miss Heming is not irremediable, however, only cautious. She made a short film subject once, and admitted that if a good role came her way she would try it.

U. S. STUDENTS CORRESPOND WITH FRENCH

(International News Service)
MILFORD, Mass., Mar. 17.—Cheerful, friendly letters exchanged by high school boys and girls of the United States and France are going a long way toward establishment of a foundation of good will between the peoples of the two nations.

While statesmen study ways and means of more closely knitting the many nations of the world, young students, by exchanging letters with those in foreign countries, learn the whims, ideas and hopes of their neighbors across the water, and in return give theirs.

As part of a plan sponsored by the French Ministry of Education and the United States Bureau of Education, high school pupils in both countries have established correspondence contacts across the Atlantic. French pupils studying English write to American students in French and English, and receive replies in the same languages.

This gives the students an opportunity of "practicing" the languages they are studying and a more intimate knowledge of the country and people separated by the broad Atlantic. Pictures and photographs make

Gallows Gold Enriches Mother

When Robert Blake, under the influence of dope, committed murder in Texas, he spent his last hours writing the true chronicle of what men say in the death house just before they "burn." As he walked to his own doom he gave the manuscript to the prison chaplain as his sole estate, bequeathed to his mother. The chronicle was printed in a magazine and John Wexley was so moved by its stark emotion that he wrote a play "The Last Mile."

At the same time, Roger Wethered (below), veteran English linksman, will captain the British Walker Cup team against the American team led by Bobby Jones.

FRENCH PEOPLE FLOCK TO MYSTIC TO LEARN FUTURE

(International News Service)
PARIS, March 17.—More and more French men and women are daily visiting clairvoyants and seersesses to learn what the future holds for them.

"I have never, in all my career, had so many clients of both sexes as at the present moment," says Madame Bertillon, one of Paris' best-known voyantes. "Contrary to the little boy in the old nursery rhyme, they begin to stream in at ten o'clock in the morning, while they used to come at noon."

The prophetess believes that the general unrest is the main cause of this great influx of visitors, the general lack of confidence in the future and the necessity of knowing what is coming, if that is possible.

Life, she finds, has become a dream since the war. Novels, theatre, cinema, etc., all tend more and more to put everyone as near as possible to Fairyland. The rich and many intellectuals resort to "dope" and thus reach an artificial paradise.

"A large number of my clients," the seeress says, "are those who believe only in luck and need a strong helping-hand such as I can give."

"Others are undecided and need instruction and advice."

"The Freudists talk of 'sexual pre-occupation,' but I am inclined to believe in the more simple 'pre-occupation' of the morrow which brings men and women to my door."

Most Children's Hair Can Be Made To Curl

It May Take Time And Training, Says Writer Who Tells How

Seventy-five per cent. of straight-haired heads can be made curly if the proper steps are taken at the proper time, according to Helen L. Kaufman, who gives valuable advice to the care of children's hair in the Parents' Magazine.

Start training the baby's hair early, she says. Brush the soft hair the wrong way, wetting it just enough to hold it and curl the longer hair on top of the head over the finger. Then as the child grows older, never miss an opportunity to coax along whatever natural wave appears. Do not let the hair grow too long, for its weight pulls down and lessens the tendency to curl. When it is cut, instruct the barber to cut it unevenly. An even cut all around adds to the weight and again militates against the desired curls. After each shampoo, set the hair in waves, firmly, with the fingers, or if it is obstinate, with combs. Then let it dry slowly and thoroughly, in the sun if possible.

Older children who run about should be shampooed every ten days to two weeks in winter and once a week or oftener in summer. The water used in shampooing should be lukewarm, the soap of unquestionable purity. If the hair comes out or is unresponsive to oil treatments and to regular daily brushing, the child should be examined by a physician.

CENTENARIAN DEFIES ILLS

The broken bone set as well as if he were a young man. A native of Kilberry, he went to work at the age of eight and worked regularly until failing eyesight compelled him to stop when he was 92. He expects to better by a few years the record of his grandfather, who lived to be 107.

Hangs Two Weeks, Dog Found Alive

LANCASTER, O., Mar. 17.—Major, a large police dog owned by Clyde Hyde, living near this city, disappeared from his home two weeks ago today.

The dog was a favorite of the children and his loss was not only advertised but an extensive search was made for him.

Two boys late today found the animal suspended from a wire fence some distance from the Hyde home. The dog's hind feet had been caught in the top strands as he attempted to jump over the wire.

Major was still alive and, when removed to his home, showed a loss of about twenty pounds in weight. A veterinarian declared the animal would live.

Costa Rican At 114 Still Rises At 4 A. M.

He Says He Never Gambled Or Danced, But Always Liked
A Little Drink

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, March 17.—By living 114 years and being ill only once in that time, Felix Alvarado Sandoval of Tobosi, a mountain village near Cartago, who goes to bed with the chickens and gets up at four a. m., has proved that the old adage about "early to bed and early to rise." He has had no desire to be wealthy, and so probably proves the part of the adage about "making a man wise."

In an interview for the Diario de Costa Rica he placed his birth as "six years before the earthquake of San Estanislao in 1822," when James Madison was President of the United States. His father was a post runner and Felix began following him over the trails at an early age. He doesn't care to ride a horse and would not dream of riding in an automobile or train. He has not visited Cartago, a few miles distant, for five years, because he says he is getting to old to walk.

Twenty years ago he walked to San Jose to see a trolley car.

"I never returned there and I never will," he said, "because I was disgusted with the noise, and, as my legs trembled from the long walk, I noticed a policeman watching me, believing I was drunk and hoping to take me to jail."

Discussing his life, he said: "I have cared only for my wife. I never gambled or danced, but I have always liked a little drink, and in my time I was a famous singer."

"Father has never had a special diet," one of his daughters added.

Lieutenant Cotter, accompanied by two enlisted men of his regiment, went through a violent bombardment of heavy caliber high explosive and gas shells, and in succession rescued three wounded comrades while conveyed to the dressing station. Keeps War Heroism Secret For Years

OMAHA, Neb., Mar. 15.—War heroism in France that he had carefully guarded even from his wife was revealed when dispatches from Washington announced the citation of James E. Cotter for bravery under fire more than 12 years ago when he rescued three stretcher bearers from almost certain death.

"There were about 250 fellows in the outfit who deserved the same thing," he said.

The Parent Problem

by GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

Jealousy In Children Only Can Be Reduced

"How may I cure my child of jealousy?" a parent sometimes asks. "Chloroform him," is my stock reply. "Either may be just as good."

Jealousy belongs to life. There is no such thing as a cure for jealousy. All we can hope to do is to decrease its force and frequency. We can reduce the number of situations which are likely to arouse it.

Be it known that all sorts of bad behavior and unhappiness in children often have their source in jealousy. One may suspect it as the cause of almost any kind of uncooperative conduct, although it is about the last thing which parents will look for.

See that the first baby does not get undue attention; let him early learn to wait upon himself and to develop independence. If he is the only child he then will not be so easily hurt by unfavorable comparisons which inevitably will come as he competes with other children. If a second baby is expected prepare the first child by telling him that another child is going to arrive. Speak of the expected child as "our baby." Make its coming a family interest.

Remember that the older child is going to experience a tremendous shock when he finds the baby getting nearly all the parents' attention and nearly all the adoration of the relatives.

Force yourself to devote considerable attention to the older child. Let Dad read or tell more stories to him than usual, play with him a great deal and lose no opportunity to celebrate successes in this older child. Persuade your friends not to neglect the older child.

As soon as baby is old enough to use a toy, give the older child money with which to buy gifts occasionally for the younger. Lead the older to do things for the baby in helping in its care. Approve such assistance very generously.

As the children older grow, avoid comparisons, and see to it that each has an opportunity to enjoy success and consequent approval. If one naturally attracts more attention than the other, help the other to find ways of winning worthily more praise. Never hold up one child as a model for the other.

Proceed in like fashion if the number of children is larger. Work out ways whereby all children earn as nearly as possible about the same attention from adults. Just as soon as you find any one child getting more punishment than another, expect jealousy. As he is punished relatively more he grows more jealous and, in consequence, does more bad things to be punished more, to grow more jealous and so on in the same bad direction. Discover ways, therefore, of reducing punishments.

See that individual property rights are respected and protected and that there are no over-lapping of home duties. Don't send one child with an unpleasant message to another child.

Let your children settle their own quarrels or separate them for a definite period of time without attempt to fix the blame. Don't punish one child upon the testimony of another child. When you command or request one child to do something, let not another voluntarily take his place.

Every time one does a kind thing toward another of whom he is likely to be jealous, reward him warmly by approval or by more substantial means. Celebrate success.

Thrills by the hundreds are yours when you see "The Bishop Murder Case," Capitol, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, this week. 15113

Tells Council He Paid Officer For Protection

BLOOMSBURG, Pa., Mar. 17.—Allegations that he had "paid for protection" and failed to get it were made by Peter C. Rupert, Central Hotel proprietor, before town council at its monthly session and will be investigated by the public safety committee of council.

Rupert said he appeared before council to substantiate statements made on the street alleging he had bribed the chief, the charges being made following his arrest recently on a charge of possessing liquor.

A day or two after the raid, Rupert met the officer on the street, and declared "If I go to jail, you'll go along."

Rupert told councilmen he had witnesses to back up his statements but President of Council Moyer, declined to turn council into a trial court and said he would inform Rupert when the committee would hear the charges.

Chief of Police Leonard Spaid when asked if he wanted to make a reply to the charges, said: Not at this time. Let him broadcast until he's through. Then I'll have my say."

Purim Party Plans Complete

Hadassah Will Present Mrs. A. H. Vixman Of New York, As Speaker Thursday

The New Castle chapter of Hadassah has completed preparations for its annual Purim party to be held Thursday evening, March 20th, in the assembly rooms of Temple Israel, in celebration of Hadassah's eighteenth birthday.

The gifts to be brought to this party will be in the form of muslin, "Milk bottle bags", whose cash contents will be devoted to Hadassah's Infant Welfare fund, through which the twenty-one health welfare stations are maintained in Palestine. Mrs. William Blau, local chairman of this fund, with her committee is in charge of contributions.

On this occasion the local chapter will be honored by having as its special guest Mrs. A. H. Vixman of New York City, national vice-president of Hadassah. Formerly of this region, Mrs. Vixman is known as the Mother of Western Pennsylvania, having organized many groups in this section. Mrs. Vixman spent last summer in the Holy Land and during the August riots gave invaluable assistance to the Hadassah Medical organization.

Infant Welfare work in Palestine is part of Hadassah's comprehensive program of preventive medicine. Its work over a period of eight years had reduced infant mortality and taught thousands of mothers how to care for their children properly. Two years ago about six thousand mothers and babies visited the centers monthly; while last year more than twice that number visited the stations every month.

To assist Hadassah, such an internationally famous philanthropist as Nathan Strauss presented Hadassah with the Strauss center in Jerusalem, which is the headquarters for Hadassah's health work and from which all of the activities of Infant Welfare are conducted. In a recent report the Department of Health of the government of Palestine commenting on the low mortality of infants among the Jews of Palestine said that the Infant Welfare clinics of Hadassah should be credited with this "economy of life."

Mrs. Eli Kaplan, chairman of music, is presenting Mr. M. Newman in a series of appropriate Purim and Palestinian music. Other novel arrangements in keeping with the occasion are being planned by Mrs. Charles Levine, chairman of hospitality.

How the date of Easter Sunday is determined interests many correspondents at this season of the year. The Council of the Christian Churches at Nicaea adopted the present rule for determining the date of Easter in A. D. 325. Easter falls on the first Sunday following the Paschal full moon which happens upon or next after March 21. The principal reason, says George Eastman, for placing Easter Sunday on this date was that pilgrims needed moonlight to travel on their way to the great yearly Easter festivities. The date of Easter may vary at present between March 22 and April 25. If a Paschal full moon falls on a Sunday, then Easter Day is the next Sunday. Easter this year is on April 20.

States, of white parents, presidentially eligible in this country?—or must his father, too, have been born an American citizen?

The answer to the first question is "yes"—if he is at least 35 years old, has "been 14 years a resident within the United States" and has not otherwise forfeited his citizenship. A girl also would now be eligible, and the United States constitution does not even specify white parentage. For instance, Vice President Charles Curtis, who might conceivably become president, is partly Indian.

Is the "installment plan" a benefit to the people or not?

The "installment plan" simply is "credit," which is a great convenience to some people and the ruin of others. Judiciously used, it permits the supplying of needs in advance of income. Overworked, it ends in bankruptcy.

Why are the people of the United States called Americans, but not Canadians or Mexicans?

Simply because the people of the United States were so called first, and the habit having become too strong to break, the others had to be called something else to distinguish them.

Is population increasing or decreasing?

Woman Is Killed By Lion's Claw

(International News Service)
CASSEL, Germany, March 17.—A woman lion tamer's heroic attempt to separate a battling lion and bear in a circus menagerie wagon proved fatal to herself and to the beasts today.

The tamer entered the cage, armed only with a wire whip and succeeded in wrenching the bear from the lion's deadly claws. Suddenly the lion leaped upon the woman and clawed her fatally. Her dying cries attracted attendants, who dragged her from the cage only after shooting the lion. The bear also died from his injuries.

The battle between the beasts started after the lion had crushed a wooden partition in the cage.

Shower Of Cards Acknowledged By Dr. Harry Wilson

Greetings Mailed Former Resident On 80th Birthday Appreciated

Acknowledgment of the shower of congratulatory birthday cards which he received from scores of New Castle friends on the occasion of his 80th birthday, was made by Dr. Harry R. Wilson, one-time resident but now of Burgettstown, in a recent issue of the Burgettstown Enterprise.

The congratulations he received on March 5, not only by birthday cards but by other gifts of remembrance is evidence that he has a host of friends who have not forgotten him.

Dr. Wilson is a native of Lawrence county, having been born in New Wilmington in 1850 and had resided and been a practitioner in this county, New Castle in particular. Five years ago he retired and left to make his home with a sister, Mrs. Bessie Wilson of that place.

Dr. Francis, Famous Discoverer

Be Stricken

WASHINGTON, March 17.—The eighth victim of parrot fever in the ranks of the public health service laboratory was reported Sunday.

Dr. Edward Francis, discoverer of Tularemia or rabbit fever, and a vital figure in the present research, is the latest to be stricken by the baffling psittacosis.

Considerable alarm was felt in medical circles today because of the strange fact that none of the eight persons afflicted to date have had any actual personal contact with the infected birds. Scientists stated that the germs may have been carried out of the laboratory by roaches, waterbugs or rodents.

Publication Of Story Of Irene Is Protested

PITTSBURGH, Pa., March 17.—The Congress of Clubs and Club Women of Western Pennsylvania passed a resolution protesting the publication of the story of Irene Schroeder, who is now on trial at New Castle, accused of slaying Highway Patrolman Brady Paul.

The resolution said that the stories had a vicious effect on the community and that many papers are glorifying the deeds of the blond.

This community club of Leesburg, composed of men of that district, is one of the best organizations of its sort around.

Dr. M. G. Yeager is expected to arrive home today from a vacation in Panama, where he visited with Mr. and Mrs. Preston Mercer. Lieutenant Mercer is stationed at the present time in Panama.

The Reznor Manufacturing plant hopes to open soon, but can not say yet as to what date it will be possible. The salesmen that have returned from their trips state that business is good considering the condition of the country. It is the uncertain outlook of other businesses that keeps the Reznor officials from completing their plans. They hope to be able to say in a week or so as to what the outlook for the business year will be, and get the plant started at work again.

Tuesday and Wednesday are the days for the voters of Mercer to go to the voting place of their precinct. The registration assessors will be present and those who are not enrolled should register, and anyone wishing to change their party affiliations may do so.

If you are in doubt as to whether you are registered correctly or not be sure and inquire on Tuesday or Wednesday, don't wait until time to vote.

Penna. Forest Fire Precaution Planned

Snow Absence And Early March Winds Start Fighting
Preparations

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, March 17.—Steps are being taken by the Department of Forests and Waters to prevent any widespread forest fires during the coming spring season. Absence of any snow blanket and drying March winds may bring the season earlier this year than usual.

While the season usually opens during March most of the fires are reported in April. The fire-fighting programme of the department is being expanded to keep step with the acquisitions of forest lands made to the State's domain during the last three years. Thousands of acres of land have been purchased and set aside for forest purposes. In addition the state is planting an increasing number of young trees on forest lands.

Byrd's Penguins To Live At Zoo In Philadelphia

(International News Service)
DUNEDIN, New Zealand, March 17.—Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, has been leading a very busy life since arriving here from the Antarctic. He has been attending innumerable public and private functions given in his honor, and arranging details regarding his party which returned from the far south last week. Four members of the expedition will return to America on the whaler C. A. Larsen, in charge of the dogs. A Czechoslovakian named Vojtech, who made the trip to New Zealand to appeal to Admiral Byrd to sign him for the expedition will take charge of the penguins. The birds, which were brought here in crates arrived in very poor condition, but the survivors will be taken to the Philadelphia zoo. Ashley Mc-

Kinley, aerial surveyor for the party will sail for America in the Makura in order to lose no time in printing his air films and making a mosaic map of the territory surveyed during the party's flights.

Had Difficulty Getting Into Court For Trial

It's a tough racket getting into the court house this week if you don't have any business there.

And it was just as tough last week. Even if you had business there it still took a good old college try to crash your way through that wall of deputies.

Which is why Carrie Landrum had a complaint Saturday.

Carrie is not a blonde which may have something to do with it. She did have business in the court house. Not monkey business either. Carrie was due to stand trial for this or that, over in court room number two. Her attorney was waiting at the bar for her. Carrie didn't show up. Which was rather peculiar for she always had before.

Down stairs Carrie was having no luck at all. The deputies on the doors weren't going to let her in.

"But," said Carrie, "I have to get in there, I'm on trial this morning."

"That's a new reason for getting in," said the deputy, "but even that one is out."

In the meantime Attorney Edwin K. Logan was notified that his client was down stairs trying to get in and finally after a note was written by him, Carrie was allowed to come in and have her trial.

Famous Chain Bridge Over Thames Passes

Structure At Lambeth Followed Old Ferry That Paid Archbishop's Fees

Demolition of the old chain bridge at Lambeth is almost complete. In its place will stand a beautiful and substantial structure, stretching across the Thames between the Archbishop's Palace of Lambeth and the gardens west of the Houses of Parliament. There has been a crossing of the river at this point for thousands of years. The shallowness of the stream allowed for a horse ferry, the only one permitted in London. The name, Horseferry road, is still used. The profits of the ferry went to the Archbishop of Canterbury, says the Detroit News.

When Westminster bridge was opened the Archbishop had to be compensated for the loss of ferry fees to the amount of more than $10,000, but the ferry, with sadly diminished traffic, continued until 1862, when the Lambeth bridge, now being removed, was built by Peter William Barlow.

Queen Mary of Modena, wife of James II, cross the ferry one dark night with her infant child, in her flight to France. Shortly afterward her royal husband, in fear of William of Orange, followed her, and threw the great seal of England into the Thames as he went. It was retrieved a few days afterward in a fisherman's net.

Murder Saves 2,000 Dogs From Death

VIENNA, Mar. 17.—The murder of Joefine Weber in her little store on Gumpendorfer street saved the lives of about 2,000 dogs.

Newspapers pointed out that had the woman possessed a watch dog, she might have escaped her tragic fate. The result was that the Society for the Protection of Animals received 2,000 applications for dogs.

The society was glad to fill the orders, for it had 14,000 stray canines on its hands and had planned to do away with at least 6,000 of them.

HOW STARS FIGHT FAT

NO STARVING

MOVIE stars must stay thin. That's a part of their contract. But they dare not starve to do it, for that might wreck their health.

They consult the best physicians. And those physicians know that a common cause of excess fat is an under-active gland. In treating obesity or fighting obesity, they supply that lack as they find it.

The method they employ is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. A famous medical laboratory prepares them to serve the purpose in an ideal way. The formula is in every box. All the good results are explained. Thus this modern method is brought to the masses at a modest cost.

Marmola has been used for 22 years—millions of boxes of it. Users have told the results to others, until Marmola has long held the top place in its field.

Excess fat blights youth and beauty, health and vigor. It is often caused by a lacking gland secretion, easily supplied. Why not learn—and at once—how much this scientific method can serve you. There are people in every circle who can tell you what it does. Go try Marmola, and watch the results for a little while. You will be delighted.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists and chemists. Any druggist who is out will gladly order for you.

Nature Sends Its Heralds Of Spring

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Mar. 17.—Although snow flurries are still interspersed with showers, spring arrives on Friday well heralded by nature. Professor G. R. Green, head of nature education at the Pennsylvania State College, said today. Winter birds, the horned lark and pine grosbeak, have reluctantly made their way northward before the arrival of the earliest robins and bluebirds. The downy little song sparrow has been here for several weeks, and the earlier flowering trees have shed their pollen.

Most of the spring wild flowers, trailing arbutus, hepatica, and anemone, may be found in sheltered spots, the Penn State naturalist said. The arbutus buds appearing on the south-eastern slope of a mountain perhaps a month before it blossoms in other places. The spring beauty, blood root, marsh marigold, and early trillium are all making their appearances, while the buds of cultivated flowers, the lilacs and spiraea, have also burst into bloom in many sections.

Hibernating animals of the woods and fields are coming from their winter retreats, the warm weather having brought out the groundhog and the porcupine. Although the turtles are still buried in mud, and frogs have not yet been heard, the early spring peepers have started their chorus and salamanders have become active along some of the streams.

No. "13" Figures In Rivera's Fall

BARCELONA, Mar. 17.—The late Spanish dictatorship and the number 13 are involved in a numerous series of relationships. Among the most important aspects which relate to numerology are the following compiled by a local fatalist:

The name Primo de Rivera has 13 letters.

The name of Martinez Anido, the "iron" ex-minister of Interior, also has 13 letters.

The dictatorship came into being in the reign of King Alfonso XIII, on September 13.

The dictatorship lasted for 76 months, and 7 plus 6 equal 13.

Counting by days, its length was 2,326 days, and adding these figures together one obtains 13.

The dictatorship ended in 1930; these figures also total 13.

The dictatorship was in power six years, four months and 13 days.

The number of living ex-ministers of the dictatorship is 13.

Bo-Broadway by JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

By CENTRAL PRESS

NEW YORK March 17.—Most of the music masters in New York are admitting that jazz music is dead—and by jazz they mean the old familiar orchestral explosion, with each player rollin' his own.

Two reasons are advanced: Radio and long skirts. Music, it seems, had to be played down and sandpapered to meet the peculiar exactions of the "Mike," and the lengthened skirt naturally called for slower and more dignified dance tempo.

Rudy Vallee admits the passing of jazz but says it's because Penelope, prancing the polished parquette, wants lyrics interspersed with her dance melodies. "And," says The King of Croon, "you can't race through your lyrics."

Be the reason what it may, the old ankle-breaking turgid syncopation is as dead as yesterday's newspaper.

STILL THE BEST SELLER.

They're selling Bibles in New York, now, in colored bindings—reds, blues and purples replacing the conservative black of long usage.

The Pastor is the last man on earth ever to kick against "brightenin' th' corner," but in the case of The Bible, a flossy jacket is just so much waste.

The Bible is the one notable and outstanding exception to the psychology of the attractive package. Practically everything else in the world, from the Park Ave. Deb, stepping out on the Marriage Block, to the latest package of breakfast food, gets an extra merchandising impetus by virtue of a pleasing wrapper.

But not so The Bible. Send it forth, year after year, in the deepest of funeral black bindings and it still retains its place on the publishers' catalogue as The Bonniest of Best Sellers.

You sometimes hear tell of "The Bible Belt." The name's all right. The trouble is, and it's usually applied by some smirking young clinic whose characterization doesn't embrace sufficient territory.

There's hardly a nook or corner of the United States where, one time or another, I haven't stuck my patrician snoot; and from experience I make this statement:

The Bible Belt in the United States comprises a strip of land bounded by the Atlantic on the east, Hollywood on the west, The Dominion on the north and the Gulf on the south.

Fourteen million of The Good Books were sold in this territory last year. I'm not arguing with you. I'm tellin' you.

EMINENT POACHERS.

Roark Bradford scribbled a volume some time ago called "Ol' Man Adam an' His Chillin'"—a wistful narrative of life in a Jim Crow corner of the New Jerusalem.

Marc Connolly, the scrivener, came

The Connolly play sent them squealing into each other's arms, drooling hyperbole; and all you hear now, night and day along Broadway, is chatter about the Connolly play.

Despite the fact that he got the idea from Bradford, Connolly is going to bring out the piece in book form, and Brother Bradford, taking advantage of the Bull Market in Negro Spirituals, is having Harper & Brother rush through a companion piece to his first effort, called "Ol' King David an' th' Philistine Boys."

The "Philistine Boys" should have heard of the lit ty game as it's played in New York today.

THERE was Doris at the front door—she came home from the party coughing and sneezing. "Poor kid—believe me, I was scared. I bundled her up nice and warm, kept her in the house and gave her Smith Brothers' Cough Syrup. By seven o'clock she felt much better and ate her dinner. The cough cleared up. In two days she was back in school again..."

Two Bandits Left

(International News Service)
DETROIT, March 17.—Two bandits today are "holding the bag." It is an empty school bag which they took in an attempted robbery of Charles and Joseph Miramontin, brothers, who are partners in the wholesale grocery business.

As they came from their store they were halted by three holdup men who grew up in an automobile. One bandit covered Charles and another Joseph, who was carrying the bag which had been left at the store by his son, Frank. As bandit No. 1 said to Charles: "Give me your money or I'll kill you," bandit No. 2 seized the empty school bag and shouted: "Come on, boys, I've got it." Then they fled.

Millions read the book, millions will see Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's talking picture of "The Bishop Murder Case." See the picture at the Capitol, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, this week.

Sweeten the stomach—instantly

About two hours after eating many people suffer from sour stomachs. They call it indigestion. It means that the stomach nerves have been overstimulated. There is excess acid. The way to correct it is with an alkali, which neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

The right way is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia—just a tasteless dose of water. It is pleasant, efficient and harmless. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

It is the quick method. Results come almost instantly. It is the approved method. You will never use another when you know.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drug store.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

J. Crawford White Tells Dramatic Tale Of Father's Underground Railroad Station

Four score years ago, in the days preceding the Civil War, when whites were the masters and blacks the slaves, the old Joseph S. White home, located on North Jefferson street, was a haven of safety for desperate slaves who fled from their brutal masters in the South.

The sturdy old brick stands a few rods north of Grant street. It was a station of the underground railroad route, which led from the South, to the safety of Canada, and was conducted by Joseph White, owner of the house.

There are most dramatic tales connected with this house, during those never to be forgotten days of slavery. There is, in New Castle, a man who remembers vividly the thrilling trips made from the White home to the next underground railroad station, carrying groups of fugitive, slave fugitives in a covered wagon.

This man is J. Crawford White, of Euclid avenue, the son of Joseph S. White.

Although he is near the four score mark, J. Crawford has an excellent memory, and his description of the underground railroad days is most gripping. He was a very young lad, when this method of aiding fugitives to make their way to freedom, was carried on by his father, but remembers every detail.

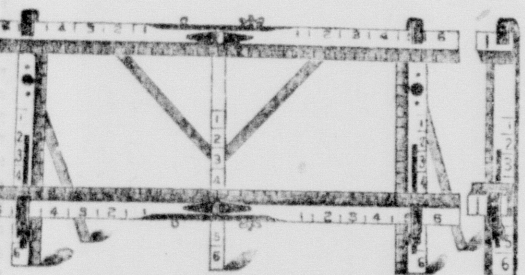

"During the past years," Mr. White remarked, smilingly, to the writer, "I was informed of the open eyed wonderment of the scholars of Martin Gantz school at the stories told them by their teachers, about New Castle's station on the same side of Jefferson street, and that, beginning at the Shenango river, then used as the Erie and Pittsburgh canal, there was an underground tunnel that led eastward to the aforesaid station!"

"I couldn't endorse all that, it made quite an interesting story."

The truth was, the station had been built for a special purpose, to secret fugitive slaves hoping and trying to make the land of freedom, when pursued closely by their masters. My father, Joseph S. White, was the so called station agent during the later 50's.

The earliest fugitive slave, I think, did not follow the regular line North. She became the maid of Andy Lewis, proprietor of a tavern then standing on the present site of the St. Cloud building.

On a certain day, a gentleman stopped for dinner. He kept eyeing the maid that waited on him. When he had finished his meal, he laid hold of her. When she screamed, Lewis' daughter, who had been sweeping, rushed in and hit him with her broomstick.

A burly blacksmith, hearing the noise, rushed in and, asking no questions, laid Mr. Man low. The maid was spirited away and he never got her.

Mr. White remembers that there was a station in Butler county, then in New Castle and the next north was at Indian Run, Mercer county. The agent at Indian Run, according to White, was named Mr. Minick.

When asked about the trips from New Castle to Indian Run, with slaves, J. Crawford White told of two migrations which were most vividly impressed in his memory.

"The first I mention," said Mr. White, "was from way down in the coast town, Savannah, Georgia. This was a very valuable slave, a ship carpenter. He had tried different times to make his escape, but in using blood-hounds, the tracking had always caught him, until this last mentioned one. After each time he was caught, his master would put a ball and chain on his legs."

At dusk of a certain day, the poor fellow came up Jefferson street, casting furtive glances to right and left, like a hunted bird.

When he got opposite my father's home, he thought he had found the place he had been directed to. He was kindly received by father, and was kept in the old brick house until he passed on to Indian Run. The case of this slave so moved the citizens of Indian Run, that a public meeting was called in the district school house.

The poor slave turned up his pants legs and showed where those cruel iron bands had cut into the fellow's muscles. Two fingers could have been placed in those dreadful creases. It made a lot of sentiment in Mercer county against the curse of slavery.

At another time, "J. Crawford White continued," "there occurred one of the most remarkable escapes from slavery that I have ever known of, there being ten in the company. The escape of only one was seldom made from slavery."

In this party, were 5 powerfully built men, 3 women and 2 little children. They were held in slavery in Virginia. I think it was in Westmoreland county, Pennsylvania, that their masters caught up with them. The whites, having pistols, attempted to take the fugitives, but the five powerful huskies waded into them with corn cutters, so that the masters fled back to the nearest town for re-enforcement.

During the fight, the women had fled, they knew not where, with the children. The poor fugitives had a few friends in the north and at this occasion, they came to help them. They "zigzagged" the men, or back tracked them, so that when the "hick spittles" (friends) led the masters along what they knew as the regular route, they ran on and never found the slaves.

It was in Butler county, I think, where the men and women found each other. When they got to our station, in New Castle, they were indeed, a happy bunch.

A part of them stayed with others, and part of them at my father's, during the night, after arriving.

I forget the name of the man at the Butler county station, who brought them in a big covered wagon to New Castle. Father had a powerful big team, but had no covered wagon. This agent of Butler county let him have the covered wagon to take the blacks to Indian Run.

Long before daylight, the next morning, they all assembled at the station on N. Jefferson street. Myself, then being a small boy, accompanied my father. We started north in the dark. There were two whites and ten colored people in the covered wagon."

J. Crawford White told the writer of a dungeon, in the cellar of the Joseph S. White home, which was built to secrete the escaped slaves.

There was no ingress or egress to or from this dungeon, except through a secret trap door, hidden beneath a rug, in the pantry of the home. The dungeon is in the southwest corner of the house.

Speed King Of Navy, Who Has Broken Many Records, Is Alleged To Have Been Forced Out By "Battleship Admirals."

A controversy which is expected to line up the aircraft vs. battleship men has developed over the resignation from the navy of Lieutenant Al Williams, some of whose achievements are sketched above. Senator Millard E. Tydings of Maryland, a member of the senate naval affairs committee, has introduced a resolution for a congressional inquiry into charges that "battleship admirals" had forced the navy's speed king out of the service to block the proper development of aircraft. Lieutenant Williams resigned following orders transferring him from experimental flying to plane carrier.

Rentz Has Memorable Birthday Celebration Out At Los Angeles

In his letter, written at Los Angeles, California, and printed here, with Fred L. Rentz, president of The News, tells of the celebration of his birthday in the west, and of the large number of former New Castleites or Lawrence county residents out there for a visit, who aided him in celebrating. Other interesting news for New Castle is also contained in the letter, which follows:

Los Angeles, Cal. March 13, 1930.
George W. Conway,
Editor The News,
New Castle, Pa.

Dear George:
Yesterday was March 12 and it sure was a great birthday for me out here. I do not know how many babies had birthdays back in good old Lawrence county.

The day started off by a friend of ours, Maude McGurn, a young woman who lived in New Castle for some years and whose name before her marriage was Maude Moore brought in a fine birthday cake. It had sixteen candles on it and when I asked her the reason for sixteen, she replied "For sweet sixteen." I asked her if she saw anything about me that looked like sweet or sixteen. She laughed and said I was sweet anyhow. And just think of that, me SIXTY-TWO YEARS OLD.

Then the visitors began to come to say nothing of the huge bostons. When I came in from lunch at noon I thought someone had died while I was out.

About thirty people called at our room No. 6203 in the Biltmore yesterday. And such visiting I never saw before. The first people to come were Mrs. Laura Linton, Miss Carrie Crawford, Mrs. Carrie Baldwin, Mrs. Walter N. Leslie of Pueblo, Colorado. They brought good wishes and a large bouquet followed later.

My good old friend, George A. Dickson came up from Oceanside, Cal. He said he had come up to see two things, me and grand opera. He saw a lot of high and low comedy during his stay. We were here until 5:30 and enjoyed seeing many of his old school scholars. And he remembered every one of them and named them when they came in during the day.

Mrs. George Bassett, formerly Mrs. Charles Mehard of New Castle, but married again since coming to the coast called and paid her respects. She had been in California a year and a half.

Mrs. Wilbur H. Wilcox of Los Angeles, a friend of ours called and visited awhile. She is taking us to the great Huntington library tomorrow.

A good old friend of ours paid us a surprise visit. It was Mrs. Harriet Cochran, who was for some years superintendent of the Shennango Valley hospital. We were sure glad to see her. She has charge of the Los Angeles school nurses, a very important position and has held the job for many years. She looks good and is doing fine. Many nurses and others will remember her most kindly.

My old school chum of fifty years ago Wm. D. Clark, dropped in and had a piece of the birthday cake, which was stabbed right at the beginning of the day. "Bill" and his good wife are leaving in a few days for his home at Everett, Washington. He is here with Mr. and Mrs. Bohn. Mrs. Bohn will be remembered in New Castle as Miss Nettie Stephenson, where she lived some years ago.

Will Waddington, who has been here for some years, was here and he said he always thinks of me on my birthday, as it was his father's birthday also. His father was John Waddington, a former sheriff of Lawrence county. We had a real visit with "Bill," he is doing fine out here.

Mrs. Margaret Rice and her daughter Margaret called in to see how things were going. They are here for the winter.

Mrs. John C. Offutt called and renewed an acquaintance of some years ago. She has been in Pittsburgh and just got back to Los Angeles a few days ago. She is a permanent resident here.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry G. Euwer and their little daughter Nannette called when the most people were here. Their contribution of a great big bouquet of flowers added to the occasion. They live at Santa Monica and are permanently located there. Harry is still greatly interested in New Castle and it's people.

Mr. and Mrs. Alf Williams of Long Beach came in. Alf lived in New Castle for some years and went there from Braddock when the steel mill was started. He is in the real estate business in Long Beach and has a fine business and is one of the prominent citizens there, having lived there over twenty years.

Mrs. Carl Wright of Glendale, Cal., was among the visitors. Mrs. Wright was Miss Marie Johnson, when she lived in New Castle. She has lived here a number of years and is a sister of Mrs. Wm. L. Aiken of Sharon. Mr. and Mrs. Sam G. Linderstein, formerly of New York, but now located here also called. Mr. Linderstein was for over twenty years the New York representative of The News. They have been in New Castle many times and are known to a lot of people there.

Our good friends Mr. and Mrs. James G. Fleming of Santa Anna said they just had to drive the forty or fifty miles to see us on this momentous occasion. They have been living out here for some years and seem to be permanent residents. They were back home in New Castle last summer.

Mrs. Margaret McKee, formerly of New Castle, but now located at Glendale, Cal., called. Five years ago today we had our March 12th birthday dinner at her house in Glendale. She was not at home at the time but Mr. and Mrs. Fleming were living in her home at the time. She is the sister of Fred March in New Castle.

Mrs. Percy McNab and her daughter Louise came in late in the afternoon and had a visit with us. We have seen the McNabs a lot and they sure have been fine to us.

Wm. J. Bigley called. He has been in Los Angeles a year and a half and it looks as if "Bill" was going to make it a stay here. He has a good job and looks fine. We were glad to see him as we have known him all his life. Dr. Leonard Gagey and Miss Lena Hurlie also visited us late as they had tire trouble.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Armstrong of Long Beach called on the telephone and extended kind greetings.

At six o'clock this evening a dinner was given in honor of Wm. D. Clark and his wife of Everett, Wash., and us. It was in Mrs. Joseph D. Clark's hotel, "The Bore," assisted by Mrs. Fannie Norris and Miss Rachel Hamilton. Mrs. Norris is here with her sister Miss Myra McBride, for an extended stay. Miss Rachel Hamilton is a former school mate of mine in the Reynolds school and has been here for some years and is going to stay. These at the dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Wm. D. Clark, Miss Rachel Hamilton, Miss Myra McBride, Mrs. Fannie Norris, Mr. and Mrs. George Kennedy and son George, Mr. and Mrs. James Abbott, Mrs. J. D. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Rentz. The menu was fine chicken and all that goes with it. The decorations were green in honor of St. Patrick and the neckties were mostly red. There was some fine music and a lot of visiting. Most of the conversation was about New Castle and New Castle people, but all kindly.

Mr. and Mrs. Claire Sweet are the happy parents of a girl baby. Grandpa Harry Dunlap and Grandma Mrs. Harry Dunlap are here and their joy is great—first grandchild. This little lady came on March 9th. Mrs. Rentz's birthday and she was given five dollars by her. It was not my birthday, but the birth being so near it and as we like Harriet, the mother of the little lady so well, I stretched a point and also contributed five dollars to her first bank account. It was a great day in the Dunlap family and we rejoiced with them.

On Monday evening of this week we were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Chambers at a turkey dinner at their fine home in Santa Monica. Those present were Mrs. Robert Flemming, mother of Mrs. Chambers, and her daughter Dorothy; Mr. and Mrs. Harry G. Euwer; Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Chambers. Two business associates of Mr. Chambers, Mr. Frayer and Mr. Abbott and Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Rentz. After the dinner the time was up discussing things in California and New Castle of course. We had a fine time and were taken out to the Chambers home and back to Los Angeles by Mr. and Mrs. Chambers in the family car. Cliff Chambers was a contractor on the new News building and we hold a warm spot in our bosom for him.

We saw a field of Irish potatoes about a foot high yesterday. We saw MacNab and I attended the Burbank Rotary club meeting on Tuesday at the Sunset Country club. The club has held sixteen 100 per cent meetings up to now. The San Fernando Rotary club had 100 per cent attendance meetings for one solid year.

Burbank, the plant wizard, never lived at Burbank. His home was at Santa Rosa, near San Francisco.

From what I see in The News the political pollwogs of Pennsylvania are going to have a great time between now and the November election. No doubt they will make things worse if such a thing is possible. Right now I will say fervently "God save the commonwealth." We have been paid many times for printing that in The News, but this time it costs the taxpayers nothing, but comes from the heart and past experience. From the way the good people have been treating us in California it makes me think I could be elected to something out here if I remained here. That is something that could not happen to me out in Lawrence county as at least the pin head alleged political politicians so well know now.

A long distance telephone call from Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Treadwell of San Diego wound up the birthday. Diego wound up as we were going to bed happy but tired. They called to say good-bye and a safe journey back home.

This afternoon we had the pleasure of visiting the great Huntington library at Pasadena. It is one of the finest places of the world, we are told. We were taken out by a good friend, Mrs. Nancy Wilcox. Prof. George Dickson of Oceanside was with us and we sure did enjoy looking at the wonderful paintings and are treasures, to say nothing of the beautiful flowers and shrubbery.

One day recently while paying our bill at the hotel with a hundred dollar bill the cashier noticed the name John H. Lamb, president of the City National bank, on it. She said she was from Moberly, Mo., and a president of a bank in that city had the very same name. It was the last $100 bill we had at that.

I noticed where a well was drilled at the Y. M. C. A. camp and it is called "Jacob's Well." I would rather have a well named after my son than a saloon or race horse at that.

I noticed in a Los Angeles newspaper the following, which gives the building permits issued here since 1925. Each year is given and you will notice how building has fallen off since 1925.

Want to Look Young?

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must have your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Lindbergh Exploits Glider Advantages

By JOEL Y. RICKMAN
International News Service Correspondent
PEBBLE BEACH, Calif., March 17.—What is the importance to aviation of the development of the glider and sailplane?
What are their practical uses?
What are the hazards of operating them?
The answers of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, America's ace of aces, to these questions today shed an interesting light on some of the major developments which may be expected in aviation in the early future.

His answer to the first question, in effect, is that it will permit "mass production" of airplane pilots at a greatly lower cost than the existing one.

Important Factor
His discussion of gliders, in this connection, would also strongly indicate that sailplanes may well prove to be an important factor in the training of pilots in time of national emergency.

To the second question, the answer is, that although they afford a novel form of sport, their greatest value, aside from their use in training schools, will be their adoption by colleges.

"It is my belief that ultimately they will come into use in schools and universities, not alone for practical training, but for the designing and construction of aircraft and for the study of meteorology and aerodynamics," Colonel Lindbergh declared.

His reply to the third question is: "There is practically no danger in operating a sailplane of the type, with which I am now experimenting."

NEW ENGLAND YOUTHS PULL CARS WITH TEETH

(International News Service) PROVINCETOWN, Mass., Mar. 17.—Business for garages specializing in towing disabled automobiles is going to take a slump if the latest diversion of young men here progresses to the point where it can be made of commercial value.

The aforesaid young men are practicing at pulling cars with their teeth. Things started when Alfred Flores, formerly of this town and now a professional strong man, towed a machine laded with nine men along Commercial street with the aid of a light rope held in his teeth.

It was a challenge to youth and the boys promptly decided that if one man could do it others could. They did.

Manuel Souza, fisherman, nearly pulled an automobile load of his friends into the harbor when they allowed him to tow them toward the seaward end Skaroff's pier, using, as the strong man did, only his teeth in which was clenched a line.

Further to show his prowess the man with the twin eight molars demonstrated his accomplishments on a pair of dice, biting them into four pieces.

About the same time John Souza was towing a fish truck over on Railroad wharf for several feet. Frank Enos did the same thing when Souza had taken his curtain call.

Man Arrested In Connection With Death Of Woman

Mrs. Ida M. Doyle, Election Judge In Chicago, Brutally Slain By Robbers

(International News Service) CHICAGO, March 17.—Police today were questioning James Taylor, 35, in connection with the death of Mrs. Ida M. Doyle, 59, Second Ward Republican election judge, who was brutally beaten and robbed Saturday night while returning home from City Hall with pay she had received for election work.

The police said they had been told that Taylor was seen Saturday night in the vicinity of the spot where Mrs. Doyle's body was found. Taylor denied knowledge of the killing, and said he had not been away from home after 3 p. m. Saturday.

Meanwhile, all inquest was to be held today. Mrs. Doyle's skull was fractured and her face was battered apparently with a heavy weapon.

Mrs. Doyle's purse was missing, and her wedding ring, blood-stained and apparently torn from her finger, was found in an empty house near the body. The amount of money taken was not revealed.

Why be Sick, Tired Out and Nervous All the Time

Gain In Health, Energy
And Vitality

You can take Cod Liver Oil for the vitamins it contains—the greasy oil without the vitamins has no medicinal value.

By a special process McCoy's able chemist has extracted these precious vitamins (A and D) from pure Vitamin-tested Norwegian Cod Liver Oil and put them into sugar coated tablets.

So why take fishy tasting Cod Liver Oil when you are sure of getting all the vitamins you require in these new tablets.

For every ailment, malady or run-down condition for which Cod Liver Oil is prescribed, the new and improved McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Extract Tablets are equally as good. Bear in mind that we would not be allowed to make this statement if it was not true.

Two tablets equal in Vitamin potency one teaspoonful of pure Cod Liver Oil. Druggists everywhere dispense them—60 tablets, 60 cents. No drugs—Vitamins only.

HIGHLIGHTS OF HISTORY

By J. Carroll Mansfield

America In The 20th Century
Important Acts Of Wilson's Administration

OCTOBER 3, 1913, THE UNDERWOOD TARIFF ACT WENT INTO EFFECT UPON ITS SIGNATURE BY PRESIDENT WILSON. THE UNDERWOOD ACT WAS INTENDED AS A TARIFF FOR REVENUE ONLY, THE AVERAGE OF ITS RATES BEING MORE THAN ELEVEN PERCENT LOWER THAN THE PRECEDING TARIFF. THERE WAS LITTLE OPPORTUNITY TO OBSERVE ITS EFFECT ON BUSINESS AS SHORTLY AFTER IT WENT IN FORCE CAME THE OUTBREAK OF THE WORLD WAR, WHICH PRECLUDED FOREIGN COMPETITION.

HAVING DISPOSED OF THE TARIFF QUESTION, PRESIDENT WILSON DEVOTED HIS EFFORTS TO SECURE THE PASSAGE OF LAWS TO CONTROL THE "TRUSTS" IN AN ADDRESS TO CONGRESS (JANUARY 20, 1914), HE URGED THE ADOPTION OF MEASURES THAT SHOULD FORM A "CONSTITUTION OF PEACE" IN INDUSTRY. TWO IMPORTANT LAWS REGULATING THE ACTIONS OF CORPORATIONS AND PROTECTING COMPETITION WERE ENACTED.

THE FIRST OF THESE WAS THE "COVINGTON BILL". IT CREATED THE FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION, COMPOSED OF THREE MEMBERS APPOINTED BY THE PRESIDENT WITH THE APPROVAL OF THE SENATE. THE CHIEF FUNCTION OF THE COMMISSION WAS TO INVESTIGATE ALL PERSONS OR CORPORATIONS ENGAGED IN INTERSTATE TRADE, WITH THE EXCEPTION OF BANKS AND COMMON CARRIERS.

THE SECOND WAS THE CLAYTON ANTI-TRUST ACT, SIGNED BY THE PRESIDENT ON OCTOBER 15, 1914. THIS ACT WAS DESIGNED TO BRING ABOUT A STRICTER ENFORCEMENT OF THE SHERMAN ANTI-TRUST LAW OF 1890.

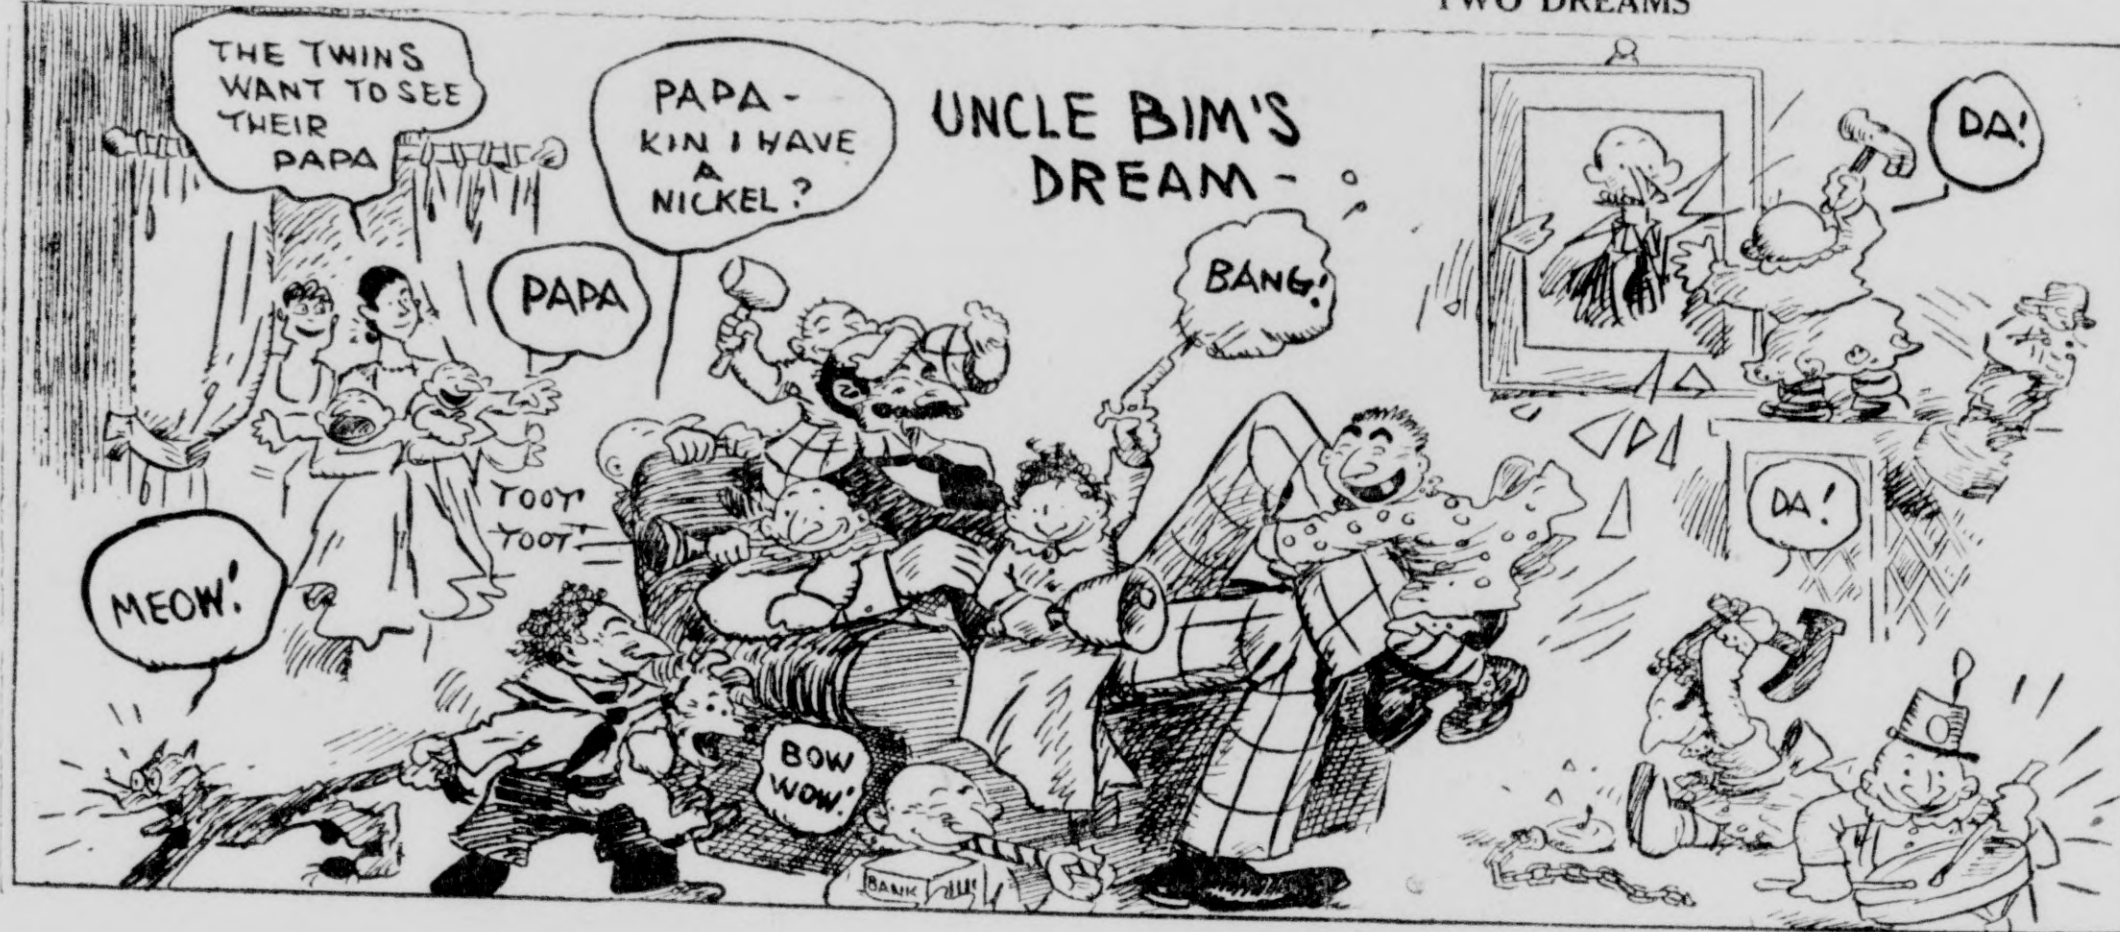

TOMORROW—THE FEDERAL RESERVE BANKING ACT.

New Castle Loses To Duquesne High 22-14

Duquesne Too Good For Locals Saturday

Harapas Stars For Winners
With Five Field Goals
And Four Fouls

New Castle Plays Poorest Basketball They Have Played
All Season

PITTSBURGH, Pa., March 17.—Playing the poorest game of basketball they have enacted all season the New Castle high school floor combination finally lost a game when they were defeated by Duquesne High on Saturday night at the Pitt Stadium in the semi-final round of the W. P. I. A. L. title race.

Close to 4,000 fans saw the Coach Phil Bridenbaugh machine crumble and as a result return to Lawrence County with a 22-14 defeat. The defeat was the first in 19 games since when the team was defeated by any New Castle floor team. Inability to make fouls from the free line cost New Castle the game and probably the schoolboy tourney. Out of 17 tries from the charity line New Castle made 4 count.

Too Much Harapas
Saturday night was a case of too much Harapas a lanky fast rager. He called it a night with 5 field goals and 4 fouls out of 4. He scored a total of 14 points. Captain Beck was the other star performer for Duquesne. He was small but mighty. He scored twice from the field and tossed 2 out of 2 fouls tries. Francis Wainio seemed to be the only Castleite in the game. He tallied three times for the losers. Captain Alexander and Hannon managed to sneak in the scoring column with one field goal each.

Locals Miss 13 Fouls
One of the reasons New Castle lost was that they couldn't make the fouls count. A team that can't make fouls than 4 out of 17 free throws is certain to lose. And this is one of the main reasons why Duquesne is playing on next Tuesday night in the finals instead of New Castle. Another factor that sent the Lawrence County home "without the bacon" is that defense that had molested 18 other school teams previous to this. It didn't harmonize on Saturday. Duquesne got through the defense numerous times—the result being field goals. The Red and Black quintet broke the winning team's defense time and again but the ball wouldn't go through the cords.

It was a case where Duquesne had an "on night" while New Castle was off. We aren't here to offer any alibi or any "if" New Castle did this and that they would have won. But on Saturday night the best team on the floor was Duquesne. They were much faster than New Castle. They passed better and made the foul tries count. They only missed four out of 12.

First Quarter 5-4
New Castle lead twice during the game. Both times by one point. That was at the start of the first quarter and at the start of the second. McAuley started the scoring by making good a foul try. Hannon had a chance to give New Castle a two point lead but missed his first foul of the game. Harapas made good a foul to tie the score. A minute later he made a nice goal from the side and 2 fouls. A pass Alexander der to Wainio resulted in New Castle's first goal.

McAuley attempted two shots from the center of the court which hit the rim went around a couple of times and decided to come out. Alexander made one of two fouls as the first quarter ended with Duquesne leading 5-4. In this chapter New Castle started just like a week ago against Wayneburg. They missed numerous shots from all angles that would have won the game by a mile. But they couldn't locate the hoop. The quarter was fast and both teams were tired.

Captain Beck missed a foul for the winners at the start of the second quarter. New Castle lead for the second time when Wainio made one of his famous side shots. The score was 6-5. This lead didn't last long as Duquesne made two goals and a foul in rapid order to give them a 4 point lead. Beck, scored twice and Harapas counted a foul as New Castle called time out. Play was fast and both quiet. appeared tired. Harapas dribbled to the foul line and scored from there to give Duquesne a 6 point lead. New Castle had a chance to gain some ground on foul tries but failed. Wainio missed one, and Hannon missed two. McAuley made a foul as the second quarter ended with the Dukes ahead 12-7.

Third Quarter Ends 14-11
The third quarter was just another case where New Castle could have been the lead but those fouls were being missed miserably. At the start of the third quarter Hannon missed one foul. McAuley missed another and Captain Alexander missed 2. Service annexed two points for his team from the charity line. Wainio cut the Dukes lead down to 5 points when he registered his second goal of the quarter. Rowe was injected into the game replacing Hannon. With this last goal going into the game the local high boys seemed to harmonize better. Shortly after he got in the game he made a pretty pass from one end of the court to the other to Wainio who made a goal and cut the lead down to three points at the third quarter ended. The score was Duquesne 14, New Castle 11.

Harapas started the final canto by making another goal. Alexander missed two more fouls. The Dukes commenced freezing the spheroid at this early stage of the quarter. Coach Bridenbaugh again sent Hannon in for Rowe. Dorik was removed from the game via the four personal fouls method. Meir replaced him. Harapas just about put the game on ice as he came through with his fourth tally of the game.

Hannon came through with one from the side for New Castle as Duquesne called time out. Play was resumed again and Harapas made his fifth and final foul of the game. Beck registered a foul to give the Dukes a seven point margin. Wainio missed a foul. Johnny Uram replaced his brother Nick at guard for New Castle at this time. Harapas fouled Hannon and as a result was removed from the game with four personal fouls. He had already done the damage. Hannon made his first foul of 6 tries count to give the Lawrence County their 14 points. Beck made one foul out of two fouls for Duquesne's 22 points. With but 40 seconds of play remaining Duquesne took things easy and it was not long until the gun sounded ending the tilt. The final score was New Castle 14, Duquesne 22. Most of the fans from Duquesne crowded the floor to congratulate Coach Henry and the boys for the basketball performance. Despite the win Duquesne did not look so impressive. But they were better than New Castle Saturday night. The win marked the third time a team from the steel city has sent a local high team down to defeat in the tournament. New Castle appeared to be like the New Castle of 2 years ago which couldn't locate the hoop.

The summary of the game follows:

Rocco-Friedman Ready For Gong

Managers Obvise Heavyweight Fight May End In Knockout; Cautious Battles Huske; Two Other Bouts; Expect Crowd To Swarm Into Bowl To See Battles Which Start At 8:30 P. M.

Emmett Rocco, heavyweight idol of Western Pennsylvania and Eastern Ohio will make a Herculean bid for fistic prominence when he meets Al Friedman, Boston, in a 10 round heavyweight extravaganza tonight at Jolly Bowl. Should Rocco score a knockout his name will be emblazoned on every sport page in the country and he'll occupy a berth alongside Maloney, Griffiths, Paolina, Campolo, Risko, Carnera, a clique which is in pursuit of Max Schmeling and Jack Sharkey.

Rocco has been training here and is in the "pink." Friedman polished off yesterday at Jimmy Dime's gym and fans who have witnessed both in training believe that the bout will be one of the most gruelling tilts staged at the bowl and here isn't a fan who has visited that place who will not agree that "fighters fight" in that "palace."

Recently Friedman received a lot of "scareheads" when he fought Tuffy Griffiths at Boston. They gave Tuffy the award but the newspapers maintain he didn't deserve it as Friedman had him practically out in the seventh and all the news associations said the bell probably saved him from a knockout.

Seized Opportunity
Up until that time Friedman had been galavanting around the country smacking boxers right and left but he availed himself of the "big opportunity" by tackling Griffiths and that fight is now history. As a result he has been offered bouts with Walker, Maloney, Paolina, Carnera, Risko, Campolo and all the "big shots."

Naturally Rocco realizes that a victory over Friedman will steal Al's thunder and he's going into the ring tonight determined to win by a knockout, if he can put over the sororific. Of 39 fights he has scored 14 knockouts and lost only five times. Included in this is a defeat by Risko whom Rocco beat in their first encounter.

Al Lippe, manager of Friedman opined today that Friedman will win by a knockout. "He had Griffiths grabbing, holding and stalling to escape a knockout at Boston and I figure that if Friedman can do that to Griffiths, one of the 'big shots' he most certainly can get to Rocco. At any rate, it is going to be a mighty sweet fight," said Lippe.

Rocco's Pilot Confident
"There is no question to what Friedman did to Griffiths isn't Rocco" said Al Zill, manager of Rocco, in reply to the information carried to him. "This boy Rocco is stronger than the ordinary heavyweight, punches like a friend and if Friedman will exchange punches I believe that Rocco will bring home the 'bacon'."

Friedman is more clever than Rocco but he does not 'sock' as hard according to fans who have seen them in fights and also in training. Rocco depends upon rights to the chin at long range and punches like a friend and if Friedman will exchange punches I believe that Rocco will bring home the 'bacon'."

Rocco depends upon rights to the chin at long range and punches like a friend and if Friedman will exchange punches I believe that Rocco will bring home the 'bacon'."

Frankie Lands, New Castle and Don Morse, Jamestown, N. Y., 122 pounders are listed for a six round preliminary. Tommy Carnold and Billy Murphy, local junior welterweights are scheduled for the first six rounder and if all the fighters carry out managerial opinions there may be four knockouts. The show will start at 8:30 p. m.

Interest in the Rocco-Friedman tilt is widespread and today when they weighed in at the Jolly Bowl, promoters from many cities were present. They report that delegations of fans are coming from various points in Eastern Ohio and Western Pennsylvania and a crowd that will tax the capacity of the bowl is anticipated. The bowl can seat 5,000 fans.

College Town Firemen Winners By 22-20 Score

Special to The News
NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Mar. 17.—The basketball game of the age transpired in New Wilmington Saturday evening. A revival of players rules and old time actions was witnessed by some 600 fans, when the Volunteer firemen tackled the Minter Construction team.

The final score of the game was 22-20 in favor of the volunteer firemen, but just the same, there was little left in the minds of the fans to warrant the game not being a triumph for either team.

"Red" Anderson, former Westminster college star, was the hero of the game with 11 points to his credit. He was just as good as he was ten years ago when he played for the college and set more than a few modern players on their heads. Playing with a style not to be surpassed by any one on the floor, he was by far the best player in the game.

Jim Pitzer, Ballhawk Skillin and Karsten were the best for the winners with H. Eagleson contributing seven points to the victory. During the time that Skillin was in the game, he was in every play, assisting the others to score. Pitzer started the scoring and Karsten pulled the game out of the fire in the closing minutes of play with a pair of fouls.

Ben "Bunny" Elliott handled the game in an approved style.

The old scholastic team of New Wilmington started the game for the firemen but were replaced by other players. Jim Pitzer, old scholastic center played nearly all of the game, proving that he was able to stand the gauntlet.

RITTICISMS

Before the training season is over a lot of these rocks are going to find out that their proper position is on the bench.

At that it's a better place to be than riding the green plush back to Sauerkraut Center.

A big league manager calls spring training a success if he finds at least two peaches on the annual lemon tree.

Many a March home run sensation finds himself back of the pickle counter calling up for the scores on opening day.

At that, being a rookie isn't so bad. Many a lad has been satisfied just to have his picture taken in a second-hand Yankee uniform.

And then think of the sensation when the rook tells the home boys that Florida isn't really pink as it appears on the map.

After all, life could be worse. In training camp they pay off with three squares and a pillow and that's the pre-season salary of everybody, including Babe Ruth.

"YOU WOULDN'T TURN A DOG OUT ON A NIGHT LIKE THIS!" wailed NELL

"But father, with his slick city ways and perfumed hair, he turned my head . . ."

Big League Teams Having Hard Time In Finding Cobbs

None Of Present Day Crop Of Rookies Can Make One Forget About Ty-rus, The Great

Plenty Of Rookies Up For Trials, But Reports From South Are Not Encouraging

By DAVID J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, March 17.—If Mendelsohn had been a baseball writer he probably would have written his Spring Song about a young man from Fort Wayne who was going to make posterity forget Cobb, so there is something almost ominous about the fact that, to date, the silence on this subject has been well nigh deafening. Somehow the matter dribbling in from the press boys at the training camps lacks the pompos note of other years; it is almost austere. If one didn't know better he would suspect that baseball has no confidence in its ability to produce another Cobb at every training camp.

Lot Of Milk Weed
As a matter of fact, the flowers that bloom in the Spring seem to have turned out to be a lot of milk weed. The press boys haven't been writing about them because you can't make anything heroic out of the third out. All you can hope to do in a case of this kind is to point with pride to the young man's outstanding love for his mother.

The Giants, for example, thought they were ready to go with Eddie Marshall at second base but, so far, Marshall hasn't hit anything except maybe the hay at night. Of course, this is all a bit premature and maybe the young man is only what they call a slow starter. But I notice that the slow starters in the training camp usually gather speed as they go. In fact, they go very rapidly when the times comes.

However, the Yanks have declared themselves for an opening game line up that includes Chapman and Cooke, the St. Paul recruits, at third base and in left field respectively and Berger, the Coast League hitter, seems to have caught on definitely in the outfield of the Braves. At that, this is only Boey for the course. If you don't catch on with the Braves, you go on back to Council Bluffs and start all over again.

Rookies Fail To Hit
Neither Chapman nor Cooke is hitting, the latter being so inept to date that he has the press boys writing their eulogies about the great speed he shows in going from first to second on a single. The tip on Cooke is that he can't hit left handers but they have overlooked his consistency. Apparently he can't hit right handers, either. I suspect Cooke of being another slow starter, for a man can't hit up around 370 in the American Association without being a pretty fair "country" ball player.

Smead Jolley hasn't reported to the White Sox yet, so nobody knows whether he is as good as they say he is or as bad as a lot of misanthropists suspect. Finn and Slade, another Coast League combination, have done nothing with the Dodgers. Slade being out with a bad heel and Finn being out because of a very hard bench. They haven't given this young man a chance to show yet. The Dodgers, however, seem to have picked up a live one in Lopez.

Bonura On First
In the absence of Fonseca, the Indians are playing Bonura, from New Orleans, on first base and he seems to be something of a hitter. Unless I am mistaken, he used to be a javelin champion and I was going to say that he had better look out for the hammer throwers in the stands, but I won't.

The Pirates are too far away for anyone to get anything definite on another young first baseman, Gus Guhr, but all you hear from the Tigris is a paen on a youth by the name of Greenberg, who for some reason comes from the Bronx. He also is a first baseman.

Other good ones are Sigman, who hit .517 in ten games with the Phils last year; James and Moore, of the Braves; and McNair, a kid shortstop with the Athletics.

All in all, however, the situation is most disquieting. For once, there seems to be several training camps that have no Cobb and that naturally leads to the supposition that all of their good ones must be downright terrible.

Gerson Jewelers Trim Champions

Gerson Basketball Team Noses Out Akron Y. M. H. A. Champs 31 To 30

The Gerson Jewelers basketball team of New Castle made quite a name for themselves in a game played at Akron on Saturday night. The Akron Y. M. H. A. quintet, champions of northern Ohio, were the victims of an over-time period game. The final score was 31 to 30. It was one of the fastest and finest games played on the Akron court this year and drew a big crowd.

It was quite a feather in the cap of the locals to dust off the champions. Things looked bad for the locals in the first half when the Akron boys took the lead 20 to 14, but a last half rally that netted them 17 points to 10 for Akron gave the VanFossan coached boys a most deserved victory. The Akron team made eight field goals in the first half, but were cut to just half that many in the second half through great guarding on the part of Plant, H. Levine and Joe Solomon. Eph Solomon and Joe Levine did the scoring for the locals in the second half, both boys caging three field goals. Rogovin had one bucket.

"Sac" Levine Stars.
The end of the regulation game was 29-29. This was made possible through the fine work of "Sac" Levine, who caged one from mid-court to follow it up with a foul that deadlocked the count. In the over-time session the Akron boys made a foul, and Plant and Eph Solomon matched with two fouls and a victory for the locals. The entire Gerson team played a great brand of basketball and their followers are proud of them.

After the game Jack Gerson, local jeweler, who escorted the team to Akron, gave them a fine banquet in honor of their victory, and which they rightfully deserved. Both Mr. and Mrs. Gerson accompanied the Gersons to Akron and were interested spectators at the game.

First Fresh Fish 'In' At Sandusky

Tugs Bring In Gill Nets' Catch; Many Buyers Disappointed

SANDUSKY, O., March 17.—The first fresh fish of the fishing season, "on" in Ohio since Saturday morning, were brought into port here Sunday afternoon aboard the Schacht Fish Co.'s steam tug F. M. Wheeler from Lake Erie, off Kelleys Island.

They represented the yield of gill nets, as did the catches that followed aboard the oil-burning tugs Ethel S. Steve V. and Junior, other Schacht boats.

The fish were mostly of the perch and sauger varieties, although occasionally pickerel, ciscoes, bullheads and carp were found by the sorters.

The entire catch did not amount to much more than a ton but the fish men expressed themselves as satisfied that the fish are "running" and that getting them is, accordingly, but a matter of proper fishing.

The trap netters expect to make their first hauls Tuesday or Wednesday. The gill netters, however, are anticipating catches tomorrow considerably larger than they brought in Sunday.

There were buyers on hand today for all the fish brought from the lake—and then some. Several Cleveland wholesalers had trucks on the docks waiting for the boats to pull in. The most of them were disappointed, for the Schacht Co., already had booked plenty of orders.

Many motorists drove far from inland Ohio to find upon arrival that it was "too early" and that there were no fish to be had.

It is understood that the tug Wheeler was the first boat to bring 1930 fish from Lake Erie to an Ohio port.

American Matador Seriously Injured, Is Gored By Bull

Sydney Franklin, Only American Matador Is Gored By Bull In Madrid Arena

(International News Service)
MADRID, Mar. 17.—Sydney Franklin, the only American matador to fight in the bull rings of Spain, lies seriously wounded today, gored by a vicious animal in the first appearance of the Sunday spectacle in Madrid arena.

Waving his cape, Franklin had stepped aside and attempted to pivot to bring himself into position for a sword thrust. In the moment that the American's back was turned, the bull caught him on one horn and tossed him in the air. In the descent the other horn pierced the matador's groin.

Other members of the cuadrilla drove the maddened beast away and hurried Franklin to the hospital. Unhappily, complications develop he is expected to recover.

Governor Sampson of Kentucky is moving into the front rank. The Legislature has just overridden a veto.—The Pittsburgh Post-Gazette.

SAYS AVIATION INDUSTRY WILL ADVANCE IN 1930

By HOMER H. METZ
International News Service Aviation Editor
NEW YORK, March 17.—The aeronautical industry will show great progress in 1930—simply because engineering science is constantly improving the flying dependability of the airplane and is adding better ground equipment and more efficient communication between the two. So declares H. B. Crouse, President of the Crouse-Hinds Company of Syracuse, who believes that many who attempt to interpret the future of the airplane do so upon the basis of irrelevant facts. "Aeronautics is a science that always has progressed in direct ratio to its engineering achievements. The airplane was made possible by the genius of two engineers, and has been brought to us today through successive improvements that have evolved in the engineering laboratories. "Pioneers of the air have learned of the faults and shortcomings of the airplane—with many of them sacrificing their lives to do so—and the engineering laboratory has answered these needs, as they are discovered," Mr. Crouse stated.

doesn't seem to affect the number of autos that are to be found on the highways. This spring promises to see more traffic than ever in the history of this region, if the first few days of spring are any criterion, large numbers of shiny new autos are also to be seen in the line-up of tourists.

This is St. Patrick's day. Dirt roads in Lawrence Co. which have been in bad condition following the thaw and succeeding rains, are now rapidly drying up. Some of the roads need to be dragged while work has already been started on a number of them.

Another sign of spring was noticed Sunday afternoon, an airplane being noticed hovering over the city, presumably coming from one of the local airports.

Local people who motored to the game in Pittsburgh Saturday evening, report that a group of boys worked a neat racket, assisting them in parking their cars, after which they demanded some remuneration. Fearful that they might damage the cars or tires, most of them paid.

Several beds of flowers on the Kurtz property, East Washington street, are in bloom. The bright colors are attracting a lot of attention from passersby.

A fire-escape is being erected on the front of the Dollar Savings Association building, on East street.

Will Come To A Close On The Feast Of St. Anthony June 13th

Annual Novena to St. Anthony, better known as the bog novena of the year, will be inaugurated Tuesday at St. Vitus church and continue for thirteen consecutive Tuesdays until June 13, the Feast of St. Anthony. Indications are that as in former years, hundreds of people not only of this city but other places throughout the country and surrounding cities and towns will participate, as St. Vitus church is the only church in the county having a relic of St. Anthony and enjoying the privilege of conducting the special services from Rome.

It will open at 8:30 a. m. Tuesday with Solemn High Mass, when it is anticipated that many will take communion and participate in the devotion then and throughout the entire period of the novena. There will be special devotions each Tuesday night for thirteen consecutive Tuesdays at 7:45 o'clock and the blessing of the persons participating with the relic of St. Anthony. It is anticipated that many will be benefited especially those who are sick.

Moore's Estate To Total Near Million

Late Ambassador Alexander P. Moore Gives Spanish Queen $100,000 For Charity

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Mar. 17.—Alexander P. Moore, late ambassador to Poland who died in Los Angeles recently, left an estate worth at least $500,000 according to his will which was filed for probate here today.

Outstanding bequests in the testament were a gift of $100,000 to Queen Victoria of Spain for her charity work among the poor and sick of her country, and $25,000 to Mrs. Enrico Caruso, widow of the late Italian tenor.

Dorothy Russell Calvit, daughter of the late Lillian Russell, the ambassador's wife, receives a legacy of $1,000 under the terms of the will. While the personal property is valued at more than $500,000 and the real estate at $3,800, it is believed an inventory of the estate will increase the estimate of the personal property to possibly $1,000,000.

Scarecrow Cop Ties Up Traffic

(International News Service)
PARIS, March 17.—Suburbanites at Saint Cloud solved the speeder problem but only for a day.

Upon approaching the town automobilists take a flying start in order to climb the hill of Saint Cloud without shifting gears.

Inspired by the success of a lake policeman who presumably aided the kidnapping of General Koutieff the indignant pedestrians of Saint Cloud dressed a scarecrow in a cop's uniform and placed it at the foot of the notorious hill.

The effigy so impressed Parisian drivers that a traffic jam developed. When a real policeman came along to clear the road he saw the scarecrow and "arrested" it.

Aversion To Derbies Leads To Man's Death

(International News Service)
HOUSTON, Texas, March 17.—His aversion to derby hats led to Ike Calloway's sudden demise.

Seated in a restaurant here, Calloway made disparaging remarks about derbies in general. Jack Casey, who sat near him, owns a derby and resented Calloway's derogatory statements regarding them. They argued.

Carrying their difficulty into the street, Calloway was shot through the head. Casey was jailed.

EUROPE DEMANDS TALKING FILMS IN OWN TONGUE

(International News Service)
LOS ANGELES, March 17.—It will be a nip and tuck race from now on between American and European producers of talking pictures predicts Arthur Loew, foreign manager for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

"Europe will have a hundred per cent increase in sound wired theatres before the year ends," Loew declared. "There are now 3000 wired theatres 750 of them being in England. The need for foreign talking versions of American films is becoming more and more acute."

"Spanish speaking nations, which return the bulk of our foreign revenues, demand pictures in their own language. Titles no longer suffice."

The result will be, in Loew's opinion that the services of actors and actresses who speak several languages. Greta Garbo, for instance can speak Swedish, German and English. Ramon Navarro is a master of English, Spanish and German. Antonio Moreno's ability to speak Spanish is not doubted by anyone who saw him in "Romance" of the Rio Grande. Maurice Chevalier speaks English and French.

Examples could be multiplied. It is interesting to observe that whereas foreigners' prospects looked dark for a while, after the sound revolution, they now are brighter than are American hopes.

Scion Of Noble Line Arrested As Thief

(International News Service)
PARIS, March 17.—The name of a family that was raised to nobility in 1765 by Pepin the Short has found its way to a police court blotter.

It was brought there by Enguerant de Marigny whose forefathers knocked the crowns off would-be kings and gave the royal headwear to Pepin.

He went down the Marne Valley and after trying his hand at various enterprises became a private chauffeur.

It was in this last capacity that de Marigny cast a blot on the Carolingian name. Police say he stole his employer's limousine.

(International News Service)
CAIRO, March 17.—The inheritance law in Egypt is now under fire. This law, which is the Mohammedan canonical law, bestows double the inherited amount on the male as on the female.

It is argued by those against any change that the English custom which gives everything to the eldest son is less favorable than the Moslem law.

Dr. Hassan Fakhry, a political and social reformer well-known throughout Egypt, is making a strong attack on the Egyptian inheritance law, contending that there should be equality between the sexes in regard to inheritance.

Employees' Court Fee Bill Is Passed

Council By Three-Two Vote Passes Measure At Day's Session

Council met formally in city hall today and passed finally Councilman Louis Genkinger's bill which regulates the practice of city employees appearing in court as witnesses. The measure was passed by a three-two vote. Councilmen Genkinger, Reeves and Treser voted for the bill but Mayor Gillespie and Councilman Burns cast negative ballots.

According to the ordinance when city officers or employees are summoned as witnesses in civil or criminal action they are compelled to sign an order to the city treasurer to collect witness fees and the money is to be used by the city.

They are compelled under the law to give the order turning over the fees to the head of their department within five days from the time they appear as a witness unless they obtain permission from the head of their department for leave of absence, for which they will not receive pay.

Should any officer or employee refuse or neglect to sign such an order or procure a leave of absence for days he is engaged as a witness in court they shall be subject to immediate dismissal, the ordinance provides.

YOU MUST SEE AGUA CALIENTE MEXICO IF YOU WOULD BE MODERN

(Special To The News)

Talk about "having to see Paris" and "So This is London" and "Must Visit Claremore," but till you have seen Agua Caliente, Mexico, you have just grown up in ignorance. A beautiful spot, and the most sober and orderly crowd. Why, you wouldn't hardly believe they were Americans. Every nation must have its legalized form of gambling. We have our Wall Street.

Mexico gives you a more even break—they have "roulette." Also a percentage of your losses go to the government. They are a primitive race. They put government above broker. Folks will take a chance. Old Noah gambled on not getting the "foot and mouth" disease in there with all those animals, and old King Solomon bet a hundred women he wouldn't pay 'em alimony and won his bet. "Viva la Mexico."

Yours,
WILL.

Jesse Martin, charged with the murder of Clark Rea, Neshaanock township farmer, was placed on trial before Judge Chambers this morning. Martin is one of the young men who was with Charles Llewellyn, William Grimm and Jack McDevitt when the Rea home was robbed and Clark Rea was shot on the night of January 15.

Grimm was convicted of murder in the first degree with life penalty at court last week, while Llewellyn and McDevitt entered pleas of guilty. The court held them guilty of murder in the first degree with life penalty. Martin came into the court room with Llewellyn and McDevitt Saturday afternoon, and after the others had pleaded announced that he would stand trial.

Martin is a married man with a wife and one child. He is the young man who is alleged to have stood outside the Rea home while the robbery and murder were being perpetrated. According to the testimony in the Grimm case he had been outside the house from the time the young men reached it until they departed.

Plea Is Entered.

When Martin was brought into the court room this morning he was dismissed.

Five Sailors Are Severely Injured In Manila Rioting

(International News Service)
MANILA, P. I., March 17.—Five sailors of the United States Navy were recovering from injuries today and a group of Filipino civilians were under arrest as the aftermath of a pitched battle fought yesterday afternoon during a baseball game in Kettle Park.

Native police and B. K. West, a United States police officer, quelled the riot after sharp engagement in which brickbats and clubs were the chief weapons.

Warnings from naval officials were read to the seamen last night forbidding them to engage in any meetings or discussions which might lead to further racial friction.

Only meager details were given the press, civil authorities choosing to term the clash as "insignificant."

Persons In Every Walk Of Life Are Anxious To Get Glimpse Of Famous Gangster

PHILADELPHIA, March 17.—"Scarface" Al Capone, widely publicized racketeer and gunman, was due to walk out of Eastern penitentiary here today, a free man, after having done a "stretch" of ten months for carrying a "rod." The exact time when the big iron gate of the prison would swing open for "Al" was not known, that being dependent upon how soon Governor John S. Fisher would sign his release papers. The governor returned to Harrisburg last night from a trip to the West Indies.

A large crowd of morbidly curious stood across from the forbidding walls of the prison for hours, waiting for Capone to come through the big iron gate. Automobiles were parked for two blocks along Fairmount avenue and a score of policemen camped in the vicinity to maintain order.

Have Long Wait

Newsreel machines were set up atop motor cars and trained photographers milled about among the crowd or sat in parked cars, waiting. Persons on their way to work stopped and joined the throng. In the crowd were school boys and girls, stenographers, teamsters, chauffeurs, a scattering of business men and quite a few tough looking customers.

When Capone failed to emerge at 12:01 a. m. the spectators outside were visibly disappointed. They waited until the wee hours of the morning. By 3 a. m. only a dozen or two remained, mostly newspaper men. By 3 o'clock the crowd had grown steadily. At 9 a. m. word came from inside (Continued On Page Two)

Chicago Gangster Brutally Slain

CHICAGO, March 17.—The gangland torture murder of John "Billiken" Rito, bootleg racketeer and bodyguard for the "Bugs" Moran gang, confronted police today after his body was fished from the Chicago river where his killers had taken care to conceal it.

The body, beaten, stabbed and shot, bore evidence that Rito had been tortured before he was finally killed. The arms were wired across the breast as though in prayer and the tips of the fingers indicated they had been cut or seared away.

CHAIN OF EVIDENCE OF COMMONWEALTH NEARLY COMPLETED

Believe Final Testimony Will Be Given at Session Tonight or Early Tuesday—Newspaperwoman Comes Into Court and Answers Questions She Refused to Answer Saturday.

Sometime Tuesday, perhaps at the opening of the afternoon session of court in court room number one, Irene Schroeder, the Trigger Blonde should begin her fight to clear herself of the charge of murder of Corporal Brady Paul.

The case of the commonwealth against her is practically in, the main testimony has been heard, and from every indication the long chain of evidence against her, forged with painstaking care is now about completed.

Further developments in the story purported to be the life history of Irene Schroeder came in this afternoon's session of court when Mrs. Ella Kerber Resch of the Youngstown Vindicator came out of the county jail, where she had been sent for refusal to answer questions on Saturday and answered the questions propounded by Attorney Charles J. Margiotti.

Mrs. Resch said that the "life story" had been handed to her by the librarian of the Youngstown Vindicator after it had come through the mail. She said that the original manuscript of the story was in the hands of James Whittaker of the New York Mirror, and immediately after the adjournment of court Mr. Margiotti said that Whittaker had been subpoenaed to appear with the original manuscript.

Mattie Jackson Corroborated
Rosie Smith, a fellow cell mate of Irene Schroeder and Mattie Jackson in the Maricopa County jail, Phoenix, Arizona, was called this afternoon and corroborated the testimony of Mattie Jackson as to the confession of Irene Schroeder in the murder of Brady Paul.

Most of the testimony this afternoon was the tying in of short ends of testimony designed to make a complete case. At the adjournment at 5 o'clock, Judge Hilderbrand announced a recess until seven o'clock.

Afternoon Session
Mattie Jackson was recalled as the first witness at the opening of the afternoon session.

She explained the incidents of her arrest in Phoenix on a narcotic charge. It was a case of mistaken identity and she was acquitted by the jury in Federal court in Phoenix.

Sheriff Charles Wright was recalled to the stand.
Q Who was in the cell with Irene when she was in your jail?
A Mattie Jackson, Rose Smith and a Mexican girl.

Q Was Mattie Jackson tried in Phoenix?
A Yes, and she was acquitted by a jury.

Q When did you leave Arizona?
A In the evening of the 31st.

Q While Mattie Jackson was in your jail did she read newspapers?
A Prisoners in my jail are not allowed newspapers.

Q When did Mattie Jackson talk to you about this case?
A The evening the officers from Pennsylvania left on the next night I am not sure.

Q Did you talk to Mrs. Schroeder about extradition papers?
A Yes.

A I asked Mrs. Schroeder if she was willing to sign a waiver of extradition and she refused.

Mrs. Rose Smith another cell mate of Irene's was called.
Q Where is your home?
A Oregon.

Q Who brought you to Pennsylvania?
A Sheriff Wright and his wife.

Q Are you a prisoner in Phoenix jail?
A Yes.

Q Were you there when Irene Schroeder was there?
A Yes.

Q In the same cell?
A Yes.

Q What were you charged with?
A Petty larceny of a watch?

Q Were you convicted?
A I pleaded guilty.

Q What was your sentence?
A Five months.

Q Do you recall when Irene was brought into the jail?
A Yes.

Mrs. Smith then related the same story told by Mrs. Mattie Jackson in the morning session. This testimony is found in the account of this morning's session, in other columns.

Tells Of Flight
Witness described how Irene told of fleeing from New Castle, the flight in St. Louis, and the capture near Phoenix.

Q When did you first tell the story?
A To the officers from Pennsylvania.

Q Did you tell Sheriff Wright some of the story?

PA NEW OBSERVES

There have been a slew of robins reported seen during the past several months, but Pa New observes that the first robin reported was seen by Mrs. McCord Smith of Edenburg R. D. 7. That was in December or January.

Certainly looks like spring today, but tomorrow or next week, perhaps it will snow again—who knows?

Many shiny automobiles, like groundhogs, are coming out of their holes to see if spring is really here. Many roadsters, with tops down, were trying out the highways yesterday.

Quite a number of motorists are using the New Castle-Volant road via East Brook for an enjoyable little ride. That is—until the pavement ends.

The lawns having dainty yellow, white and purple crocuses peeping out certainly add the spring-like atmosphere.

Saw a Ford of early vintage rambling along Washington street yesterday. It bore a Massachusetts license and if it ever held together to get back there some miracle would have to be performed.

Farmers who own fields that are up on hillsides or are situated so that they drain easily, are taking advantage of these spring-like days. Quite a large amount of acreage has already been plowed in this locality.

Gas stations must have experienced a business boom yesterday. Thousands of autoists were out enjoying the delightful weather conditions.

Two Robberies Sunday Night

Coal Office And Gas Station
Are Entered Last Night

Two robberies were reported to the police as occurring Sunday night. A call was received from the Maxwell & Gibson coal office at 7 o'clock this morning and Officer Criswell, making investigation found that entrance had been gained by prying loose a board at the rear of the office building.

Articles taken included a McCaskey register of the adding machine type, a victrol adding machine, a Remington typewriter and a check protector.

Gas Station Robbed
Jesse Jenkins of the Sutton Gasoline company reported that the company's station, South Mill and Lutton streets, had been entered during the night of the 16th.

Officer Kennedy made the investigation and found that entrance had been gained by breaking a light of glass from a window, reaching in and unlocking the window.

A window was found broken in the rear of the counter. The loss sustained was 25 cents in cash, a box of cigars, a considerable quantity of candy and a large sized fire extinguisher.

unusual care to conceal his fate. Police are convinced Rito was slain as an outgrowth of the war between the Capone and Moran gangs for control.

A prayer book bearing Rito's name had been marked at an underlined passage reading:

"One of you is about to betray me." Although Rito was known to have been in the employ of the Moran gang two months ago, a silver belt buckle, studded with four diamonds, showed that he has been a member of the Al Capone gang, as such buckles were presented by "Scarface" Al to his lieutenants.

At first believed to have been put on the "spot" by election rivals, the body of Mrs. Ida M. Doyle, a second ward Republican election judge, was found yesterday with the skull crushed.

A rifled purse and missing rings indicated she had been killed when she tried to fight off a robber, police said.

Takes Precaution To Save Sidewalk

Councilman Stanley Treser today reported to colleagues during council meeting that street department employees had imbedded posts on a small strip of city owned ground on the south side of Union High street at East Washington street to keep persons from driving over city laid sidewalks.

SECRETARY DAVIS
FOR SENATORSHIP

friend and ally, Governor John S. Fisher.

Was No Surprise.
Davis' announcement did not come as a surprise. The cabinet member has been in close touch with leading political figures of the state—aside of course, from those in the Grundy camp—and his entry into the Keystone arena had been predicted for weeks.

With the first triumphant trumpet note of the Davis candidacy echoing through Pennsylvania, political leaders in the western part of the state placed attentive ears to the ground today for the rumblings, favorable or unfavorable, portending possible success or sure defeat in the May primaries.

May Divide State.
The Davis candidacy may find the state divided into warring camps when the battle of ballots is fought on May 20. Grundy has become a figure of almost mythical and military power in the Republican party with that power centering in the eastern half of the state. Should Davis ride to victory in the primaries, and again in the general election, western Pennsylvania would have two representatives in the United States senate.

To make it even closer, Davis' success would mean Allegheny county, western Pennsylvania stronghold of Republicans, would enjoy the prestige of two United States senators. Both Davis and Senator David A. Reed are Allegheny county men.

Protective Tariff.
In his announcement, the man who came to this country as a poor Welsh emigrant at the age of seven and rose to serve in the cabinets of three successive presidents—Harding, Coolidge and Hoover—emphasizes his stand for a protective tariff and in favor of limited immigration.

"Since the days of President McKinley I have constantly supported the principles of a protective tariff for the American farmer and American industry, as the best way yet devised to insure the prosperity of our farmers, business men and workers," Davis said. "I have favored limited immigration, because it is a protection to the American worker, both native and foreign-born against a competition which would lower the present high standard of wages, and result in a greatly increased unemployment."

Uncertainty Exists.
Now that Davis has clarified the maze of reports and rumors that preceded his entry with a definite announcement, political lieutenants in western Pennsylvania awaited a pronouncement of allegiance from their leaders. Joseph G. Armstrong, chairman of the Allegheny county Republican committee, was expected to make known that he looked with favor upon Davis' candidacy with other western Pennsylvania leaders assuming a like position.

Considerable uncertainty attached to the position of Melion, the former Republican state chairman, and Mayor Charles Kline would take in regard to Davis' candidacy. Melion has been rated as favorable to the Grundy-Samuel S. Lewis combination but has yet issued no public statement to that effect.

STAR LORE

By Arthur Dev, Carpenter
R. H. Scranton, Pa., writes: "What is the easiest way to locate the different planets?" A planet is easily distinguished from a star by the fact that its radiation appears steady, while the stars twinkle; planets are always found in the belt of the zodiac, so become acquainted with the 12 constellations of the zodiac. As the planets wander through the zodiac, it is important to consult an almanac of the American Ephemeris and Nautical Almanac, Government Printing Office, Washington 11 for the constellation in which planet may be found at a particular date. Mercury, Venus, Mars are the only planets that shift about rapidly.

CROWD GATHERS IN PHILADELPHIA TO SEE "AL" CAPONE

that Capone would not emerge before noon but the crowd remained.

High up in a tower armed guards looked down into the interior of the prison. They paced to and fro ceaselessly. The night shift of guards came out at 8 a. m. The day guards went in through the gate. The hours went by slowly—and still the crowd waited for the appearance of the beer baron.

At 10 a. m. Joseph Le Strange, assistant superintendent of police, came out of the prison. He said Capone was still inside and that his release papers had not yet been signed. He indicated that it would be late today before the papers arrived.

"You are wasting your time around here," Le Strange said. "No one will see Capone when he comes out."

Many Spirit Capone Away.
Numerous trucks passed in and out of the prison during the forenoon.

It was conceivable that Capone would be quietly taken away in one of the trucks.

Police officials were inclined to scoff at rumors that enemies of Capone planned to "say it with bullets" when "Al" comes out. The authorities, however, checked up on recurring reports that a large group of Capone's friends—as well as some of his enemies—had gathered in Philadelphia in the last 48 hours.

Any attempt on the part of Capone's friends to meet their chieftain and escort him to a train in triumph and armed caution will be discouraged by the police. And hostile action on the part of Capone's enemies who may be lurking in the vicinity of the prison will be promptly dealt with.

The authorities are not expecting trouble but they are prepared for it, should any develop.

START MARTIN TRIAL FOR MURDER OF REA; NOW SELECTING JURY

rected to stand up and raise his right hand while the arraignment was read by Deputy Prothonotary John Edgar.

"By God and my country," responded Martin.

"God send you a safe deliverance," responded Edgar.

Martin is represented by Attorney Clarence Patterson, who was appointed by the court to look after his case. The prosecution is represented by Special District Attorneys Walter Braham and George W. Muse. Selection of a jury was started from the panels called this week.

All of the jurors called had either read about or discussed the case, and the most of them had formed opinions. Some said that they would be able to lay their opinions aside.

One of the questions which was stressed by the commonwealth was whether or not the juror could bring in a verdict of first degree murder with death penalty against the defendant, even should it be shown that his hand did not actually fire the fatal shot. Most of them said they could if the court explained it to be the law.

First Juror Examined.
Harry Stoner, a farmer of Slippery Rock township, was the first juror called. He had read about the case and formed an opinion which it would take evidence to remove. He was challenged peremptorily.

William H. Stubbs, single, of the seventh ward, employed at the post-office, had formed an opinion of the case. He was uncertain as to whether or not he could bring in a verdict of first degree if it were not shown that the defendant had actually fired the shot. He was challenged for cause.

John H. Elliott, married, resident of the first ward and employed at the Shenango tin plate plant, had formed an opinion, but believed that he could lay it aside and try the case on the law and the evidence. He was accepted as the first juror.

Clyde Hackett, farmer of Big Beaver township, married wife and three children, had formed an opinion but believed he could lay it aside. He was challenged peremptorily.

Woman Has Scruples.
Mrs. Alceha Wallace of Union township believed that she could lay her opinion aside, but she did not believe she could bring in a verdict of first degree murder with the death penalty. She was challenged for cause.

Earl Flanagan of the first ward was acquainted with Martin and McDevitt. He had known Martin for some time. He was challenged for cause.

John W. McHattie, seventh ward, married, three children, was acquainted with Clarence Patterson, attorney for the defense, but did not believe that would interfere with his trying the case impartially. He was accepted as the second juror.

Bertha Hainsworth, Taylor township, wife of Arthur Hainsworth, was not sure that she could bring in a death penalty. She was challenged for cause.

John Semple, New Wilmington, had formed an opinion from what he had read, but believed he could lay it aside and try the case on the law and the evidence. He was accepted as the third juror.

Other jurors examined were Hattie Forbes, South New Castle; C. J. William Gustafson, Neshaunock; Katherine Johns, Slippery Rock; Lottie Mattiand, Neshaunock; William Mattocks, Jr., Ellwood City; Dora Marshall, Perry; William Whieldon, fourth ward; Ida Wooten, Neshaunock, and Eli Yoho, Wayne. From this list Dora Marshall was selected as the fourth juror and William Mattocks, Jr., as the fifth.

death was a distinct shock. There being no Sunday newspapers in Spain, the general public learned it only through reports in the streets. Then it was announced in the churches.

Jose Antonio, the only son of the general now in Madrid was so stricken that he was unable to see any of the hundreds of visitors to his father's modest apartment and Maria, the former premier's sister received the visitors for him. King Alfonso sent a note to Jose Antonio, which though not made public, was said to be a sincere message of regret at the death of the man who had ruled the country for six years.

Funeral Escort
A large delegation of the general's friends left this morning for the border, to meet the funeral train which leaves Paris late this evening and escort the body to Madrid. The train will leave Irun, on the border, Tuesday morning, arriving here Tuesday night.

Arrangements for the funeral will not be made until after today's meeting of the council of ministers. Military funerals may not be held, according to the Spanish law, when the king is in Madrid, but it is believed that this rule may be waived by the council so that the former premier may receive the honors due a captain general of the armies.

Three Filipinos seized are to be arraigned today.

HAITI

SO FAIR, honest and promising is the program drafted by the Haitian commission and approved by President Hoover and the Haitian leaders that the senate will hardly dare reject it. Public opinion here and in Haiti is behind the program.

This program is a genuine triumph for the spirit of goodwill and for the American genius for diplomacy and getting things done.

Five salient points in the program call for abolition of the office of American high commissioner, election of a provisional president, selection of a legislature by a popular election of a president by the new legislature and a new treaty with the United States.

This program involves no sacrifice of American pride or power, in fact, it simply carries out the terms of the treaty whereby we entered Haiti.

But it would prove to Haiti and the world at large that Washington is not imperialistic and show the sincerity of American protestations of belief in self-determination and self-government of nations.

Whether the Haitians are intellectually and socially prepared for complete independence and self-government they man soon have a chance to prove. With or without American occupation, Washington cannot guarantee that the Haitians will live happy forever after like the lovers in the fairy tale.

LIMITING WESTERN HEMISPHERE IMMIGRATION

In view of the objections that have arisen in some quarters to the proposed legislation regulating immigration from the Western Hemisphere, including Canada, it is worth while to consider the following facts:

Regulating of admission from Canada is already in operation. Every Canadian who comes over the line to reside already has to account for himself and pay a tax, and must conform to numerous immigration requirements as to character, freedom from disease, liability to become public charge, etc. Moreover, we make no objections if Americans have to do the same when they go to Canada. There is, therefore, no principle violated in further regulating Canadian immigration and there are several good reasons for doing so.

The relations between Canada and the United States are a model for the rest of the world, and Canadians, when they come over the line, make our best citizens. Nevertheless, we are two separate and independent countries, and friendly relations are going to be helped, rather than hindered, by a frank recognition of that fact, and of its consequences.

It is not desirable to regulate immigration from the Western Hemisphere except in terms applying to all countries, and some regulation is necessary.

We have a most serious unemployment problem affected especially by Mexican immigration. The whole standard of living of our working population and the prosperity of many of our industries, are being seriously affected, both directly and indirectly, by the unlimited importation of Mexican labor. This labor, penetrating into nearly all parts of the country, is driving down wages and is causing widespread and increasing unrest, and unemployment. It is desirable to limit this immigration, as we have limited European immigration, in a way that will not appear to cast any stigma on our southern neighbor. A bill has, therefore, been introduced applying quotas to all countries of the entire Western Hemisphere.

By allotting to any country in this hemisphere, to which Americans emigrate, an addition to its quota based on the numbers of Americans so emigrating, the bill introduced accomplishes what is needed without materially affecting the amount of Canadian immigration, for Americans go into Canada in large numbers and they do not go into Mexico to any great extent.

No piece of legislation is more needed, and those who may be inclined to oppose it should remember that by doing so they are not helping Canada, but are playing into the hands of certain interests who are seeking to profit by the exploitation of cheap labor at the sacrifice of all the rest of us, whether workers or employers. Our friendship with Canada is in no danger.

OH, THESE WOMEN!

By LEOLA ALLARD

I receive another earnest plea from a man who tells me to let the subject of bachelors alone and stick to the women.

But the bachelors it seems to me, know more about women than even I do, and I'll admit that's something. Every bachelor letter lets in light. And you will have to admit that the woman who wrote this letter retaining her perfect balance and her superior sense of humor, contributes something to the subject of both women and bachelors. I haven't the heart to let you miss her observations: She lives in the country, and her first name is Margaret. I won't give her away.

"You're wrong for once Leola, bachelors are not pink. They're purple. I have known several bachelors from the lean, purposeful type to the fastidious gentleman of ennobled. You say you find them fascinating, amusing, but you should feel sorry for them. Do they ever get any of those biscuits you wrote about? And if so, WHERE? Far be it from me to pry into the past, present or future of any bachelor, I have fed them everything from biscuits, to cream puffs, dumplings, shortcake, (I'm some cook Leola) and PIE. They have admirable digestions. They are appreciative. Occasionally one finds one that is careful, but they CAN be domesticated. And how! Have you never had a bachelor around underfoot? They are not dangerous. I've fed them right out of my hand. Of course they are set in their ways and cats make much nicer pets.

"Anyway, I know a terrible secret about bachelors. They are not monogamous. If polygamy were allowed tomorrow, say for their being 'contented cows'—I admire esteem cows.

"Did you ever see a gentleman cow on a rampage? There are bellows and showers of mud. Walking along a country road in Colorado I came upon some cows grazing, and among them the largest, ugliest looking bull with horns a foot long. "Good-night," I said. "I see my finish." I was wearing a red flannel skirt and khaki trousers. Coming alongside of the bull he didn't look at me, but through me. Apparently he didn't see me. I proceeded unmolested. He ruminated. There are bulls and bulls, Leola, but believe me contented bulls are more important than contented cows. Cows can be stampeded too. A herd of 200 yearlings were turned out to graze in the park through which I must walk to get the mail. They were a quarter of a mile away when curiosity propelled them in my direction—with speed. I was scared stiff. When they were close. I charge them, yelling and waving my sombrero. In about three minutes the last yearling has disappeared around a hill.

"My husband and I riding horseback stopped at a farmhouse where a number of small children were playing about. A wizened shrump of a man came to greet us. Enured this colloquy: "Are there your children?" sez I politely. "My children, are looking out of other peoples windows," sez he. When we rode on I asked my husband "Was that fellow drunk? What did he mean?"

"Husband answered: "That was old M. K., an old bachelor who lives on the lake. Was it my faux pas or his? In that bachelor infested neighborhood I should have been wary.

GALUP, N. M. March 15
Going through Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona, and on to the Pacific for the hundredth time, is as interesting as on the first journey. You feel that you are in a BIG country.

A. L. Wathen of the Interior Department of Indian irrigation service, in connection with looking after the Coolidge dam, says with conviction, "no place East of the Rocky Mountains is fit to live in." He would not have said that when in the army, across the ocean a while ago. He is sure of it now.

On both sides of the track, just now, is desert country, waiting for water to make it magnificently fertile. Plenty of water goes to waste in the ocean and gulf. A perfect cement road runs through the desert beside the track. Going up grade a small automobile easily passes the train the driver waving his hand in triumph.

An old Indian with a bright orange ribbon tied around his hair, sits high on a load of baled alfalfa, driving two white horses. He does not wave his hand and probably has no high opinion of trains or white men. But his horses are hauling about three tons. He could not have hauled half that on the old desert road. It will take him three or four days to deliver that load and get home with about sixty dollars. A low-priced automobile truck would do the work for him in a forenoon carrying a bigger load.

Dante tried to describe heaven but couldn't. In face his description is rather dull and doesn't compare with his description of hell. It is impossible to describe this western country. The sky is different from other skies. As the ceiling of St. Peter's dome in Rome, is different from the ceiling of a bungalow.

At Albuquerque, N. M., Pickrell is at the station. He is editor, T. M. Pepperday, is publisher of the Albuquerque Journal which is a success. Wants you to know that the Rio Grande conservancy project, nothing to do with Boulder Dam, will soon irrigate 120,000 acres of fertile land above and below. Albuquerque, providing jobs and prosperity. A natural gas well, on its way to Albuquerque, will secure the establishment of a big glass factory. Albuquerque, healthiest place in the world had 17,000 population a little while ago, has 35,000 now, and will soon double that.

"Such an editor is Pickrell is a whole Chamber of Commerce in himself.

The value of an energetic local editor is not often fully appreciated by his community, nor is the value of his advertising columns appreciated by national advertisers as they should be. His readers buy everything from paint on the roof to cement in the cellar floor, buy more automobiles per capita than city dwellers, have time to read about the latest products, clothes, foods, time-saving devices and buy them. An Indian sitting on the ground beating a little tom tom to attract attention is indifferent to population, glass works or irrigation projects. He sells you for 25 cents, a pipe with a face in front of it as good as anything that Hoya ever dyed. That sale makes his day a perfect success. Everything is comparative.

How grateful a nation should be that has for its chief worry the fact that it possesses TOO MUCH of everything. Too much wheat is the wheat problem, too much water ready to irrigate thirsty acres, too much wealth in the soil is the farm problem. To say that the hat not dealt so with any people is putting it mildly.

Unfortunately we haven't too much INTELLIGENCE, therefore we don't know enough to bring in millions more of the kind of people that created this country, to conserve the wheat, use the gasoline, buy second-hand cars that are the automobile industry problem and later buy the most expensive new cars.

This nation is great because it has 120,000,000 people with more than they need. It would be 10 times as great if it had 240,000,000 people to consume the surplus, creating at home the markets for which we struggle abroad.

In the dining car, early, you look at the paper and read that, at about that hour, keepers and witnesses in San Quentin prison will climb two flights of stairs outside an old brick building, take Alphonse Reilly 22 years old, from his death cell and strap him in the electric chair in a room adjoining. He killed a man, the state will kill him.

You see from the window of the car a high tableland reaching for miles, without population, white clouds floating above it. And you believe that a better civilization in another age will find a way to eliminate crime, as disease germs are eliminated by sunshine.

TEACHING MARRIAGE

More than companionate marriage, easy divorce, or any other new-fangled ideas, the country needs a marriage school or a marriage course in our established schools to teach boys and girls how to make a success of matrimony. Kathleen Norris, writing in Smart Set, says there is nothing in today's education of girls and boys to prepare them for the supreme adventure of married life. Code and duty, distribution of income, cooking, parenthood, self-denial, and consideration of one another can all be taught. Successful marriages rarely make news while the most unsuccessful ones frequently do. And so the attention of young folks is generally directed to matrimony at its worst rather than at its best.

Ruling Of Freedom Of Press Lauded As Public Safeguard

Ohio Appellate Court, By Overruling Lower Decision On Contempt, Declared To Have Established Great American Principle

The safeguards of liberty were reinforced when the Ohio appellate court overruled a lower court which held two newspaper editors in Cleveland in contempt. This is the conclusion of editors who comment on the case which arose over criticism of an injunction against a sheriff's interference with a race track where gambling was alleged.

We live in an age of pitiless publicity, says the Ohio appellate judges. "An age when freedom of speech and a free press are paramount issues. People should be allowed to say what they please, and newspapers to print what they please, always making themselves liable under the laws of slander or the laws of libel."

"If it has seemed," according to the LOUIS GLOBE-DEMOCRAT, "that judges have of late been increasingly inclined to make an improper use of their authority in such cases, doubtless this appellate decision will serve wholesome purposes. There is a well-defined offense constituting contempt of court, for which fitting remedies are available. To extend its scope to include acts not only authorized but encouraged by law, is to invite a prevalence of great abuses. That, for sound reasons, the press is reluctant to criticize the bench is well known to newspaper readers, and when it does offer criticism, it is seldom harshly and almost always expresses deep public conviction. Should it be unfair or based on distortion of fact, judges have their remedy in the libel laws, as well as other citizens."

"The courts are entitled," declares the RICHMOND NEWS LEADER, "to the respect and sympathetic cooperation of the press in the performance of their difficult duties, but when judges step beyond the limits of powers conferred and use their official positions to bring men to book because of criticism, it is only fair that persons who are the objects of the judges' anger should be given a trial before an impartial tribunal. Not to permit this is to ignore the demands of justice and to display a lamentable lack of sportsmanship."

"Judges are men, subject to the same prejudices as other humans," says the HARTFORD DAILY COURANT. "Because they are, they can scarcely be expected to render impartial verdicts in cases which they themselves have initiated and in which their own interests are at stake."

"This ends another attempt on the part of constituted authority to mark the ROANOKE WORLD-NEWS, 'to misuse that power for the sake of upholding personal dignity against criticism before the public. Either the judge's armor was not very thick or he was not altogether sure that his granting of the injunction was fully justified to begin with. His decision to bridge the freedom of the press, guaranteed in the constitution, has met with a well-deserved rebuke."

The BIRMINGHAM NEWS holds that "here is what may be characterized a landmark in the struggle to insure the freedom of the press" and that "the decision handed down by the appellate court deserves praise beyond words."

Welcoming the decision as "a good court precedent," the GRAND RAPIDS PRESS states that "any other precedent merely places a muzzle of legal intimidation on the telling of what newspapermen regard as the truth about judicial officers." That paper asks: "Why should the elective judiciary be exempt from the power of publicity which protects and enlightens the public in the case of every other public servant they choose?" The YAKIMA DAILY REPUBLIC, asserting that the case "involves a principle of free speech which newspapermen have jealously guarded in their function as spokesmen of the people," points out that the appellate division stressed the fact that the editorial could not be construed as an attempt to subvert or obstruct justice, since it appeared after the judgment had been handed down."

The upper court's suggestion that a judge is a person of temperament and that there would be danger in his "setting himself above the rest of mankind" inspires the comment from the MILWAUKEE JOURNAL: "It is tremendously significant that a court, sitting in judgment on another court, lays down as its own opinion the very platform on which the press has stood." The BOSTON TRANSCRIPT feels that "the least the offended judge should have done would have been to ask to be relieved of conducting the trial of his own complaint." The ASHEVILLE TIMES contends:

LET US REMEMBER—

That greatness is really usefulness—that fame is only opinion. That character is eternal—that reputation is vapor in the wind. That honor is the foundation—that advertising is the flag on the pole. That love is strong enough to forgive—that jealousy is decayed love. That the patriot lives for his country—that the profiteer lives for himself. That success must keep on growing—that graves only need not grow. That religion is a personal experience—that church membership is an expression.

"It is time that the sound rule for the judiciary should be applied to members of the judiciary in all cases where alleged contempt does not consist of an overt act committed in the presence of the court and tending to obstruct the administration of justice." The CHARLESTON DAILY MAIL concludes: "The press as well as the court has duties and obligations to law, public order and the public good. When there is a conflict with respect to the two, an impartial tribunal should decide."

"Former Secretary of War Newton D. Baker," recalls the ANNISTON STAR, "represented the press in this case, and his argument constitutes one of the ablest pleas ever made for a free press in a free country." The ST. Senate Committee To Hear Plans Of Dry Enforcement

MILITANTS PLAN WITNESS GRILLING

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff

WASHINGTON, March 17.—The Hoover administration's detailed plans to improve prohibition enforcement may be disclosed to the senate judiciary committee meeting in secret session today to hear Attorney General Mitchell and Chairman George W.ickersham of the law enforcement commission.

They were called to aid the committee in determining whether to recommend a senatorial investigation of prohibition enforcement, as demanded by Sen. Norris (R) of Nebraska and Wheeler (D) of Montana.

Opposition Seen.
Both Mitchell and Wickersham are understood to be opposed to opening the whole question of enforcement by an investigation while the congress is considering the administration's reorganization program and the Wickersham commission is still delving into the crime situation in the nation.

Despite the refusal of Mitchell and Wickersham to appear in a public session of the committee, Sen. Borah (R) of Idaho and other members were insistent that a stenographic record of the proceedings be made.

Militant dries and wets alike on the senate committee were prepared to grill their witnesses.

Joshua pressed the switch the cross stood out in all its glory and Helen Twaddle and Gladys Thompson, robed in white, stood in attention at each side of the cross, bearing the Christian and American flags. The ceremony was most impressive with the choir softly chanting "Rock of Ages" throughout.

labor leaders here will not be surprised if he hands out a verbal spanking to the faction which met here last week. Others look for him to adopt a "hands off" policy in the hope that the coal diggers themselves eventually will bring order out of chaos, especially so far as Illinois is concerned.

Before bringing the "reorganization" convention to a close, delegates here endorsed a proposal to send a letter to Green "most earnestly" requesting him to "bring to the attention of the delegates at Indianapolis the proposals for the reorganization and upbuilding of the U. M. W. of A., embodied in this communication."

During council session today several measures were reported favorably from committee. One calls for the widening and establishing of a building line in North street between Shesapeake street and Neshannock avenue. The width will be increased five feet. Another widening ordinance extends the width of Cascade street between Croton avenue and the paper mill road to 50 feet.

Council also favored the ordinance which provides for the construction of sidewalks in Scott street between Court street and Croton avenue. The measures were ordered printed pending passage.

Two Youths Enter Pleas Of Guilty To Murder Charge

McDevitt And Llewellyn
Make Pleas In Session
This Afternoon

LIFE IMPRISONMENT
SENTENCE PASSED

Dramatic Scene In Court As Youths Come Into Session To Plead

Charles Llewellyn and Jack McDevitt were adjudged guilty of murder in the first degree with life imprisonment as the penalty in a decision handed down by Judge Chambers at 3 o'clock this afternoon after he had heard evidence to fix the degree of the Clark Rea murder. Judge Chambers' decision was made after both young men had entered pleas of guilty.

In fixing the degree of the crime and the penalty Judge Chambers said that it had been clearly established by the evidence and by the pleas of the defendants themselves, that the killing of Rea was done during the commission of a robbery. That being the case the court had no discretion as to the degree of the murder.

Prior to the act of 1925 the penalty for first degree murder was death, said the court. Had it not been for that act the court would have been without discretion as to the penalty. But the act referred to provides that the court may exercise its discretion as to the death penalty or life imprisonment.

Sentence Passed.
In this case an accomplice of the two boys was tried by a jury and a verdict was returned of murder in the first degree with the life penalty attached. There is nothing in these two cases that would warrant the court in being more harsh than was the jury in the case already tried. We therefore find Charles Llewellyn and Jack McDevitt guilty of murder in the first degree with life imprisonment. Sentence will be passed later.

When court convened at 1:30 p. m. Llewellyn, McDevitt and Jesse Martin were brought into court, the impression being at that time that all three were going to enter pleas. Martin was represented by Attorney Clarence Patterson. Llewellyn by Attorney Thomas W. Dickey and McDevitt by J. Norman Martin and R. L. Wallace. Special District Attorneys George W. Muse and Walter Abraham were at the commonwealth's table.

As the three boys were brought in, Mrs. Martin, mother of Jesse Martin, one of the defendants, his wife and baby were in the front seat of the court room.

Mrs. Martin, the mother, started to weep hysterically. Big Pete Hillers, giant of the police force, used as he is to the tragedy of criminal cases, was touched by Mrs. Martin's emotion. He went to her side and tried to comfort her.

"O my God," she sobbed. "Take me instead of my boy. To think that my boy, whom I have raised from a child, should now be facing a charge of this kind, I cannot stand it. I God, take me in his place."

After some kindly words by Hillers, Mrs. Martin quieted down a little. Indictments were then read separately to Charles Llewellyn and Jack McDevitt by Deputy Prothonotary Jack Edgar. At the close he asked, "What say you, guilty or not guilty?"

"Guilty," was the response in both cases.

Have Conference.
Edgar was about to read the indictment against Martin when he spoke to his attorney, Patterson then asked the court if Mrs. Martin, the mother, and Martin's wife could speak to Martin in the corridor, leading from court room No. 2 to the law library.

The court granted permission. Martin started out with Attorney Patterson, followed by Mrs. Martin, the mother, and Mrs. Martin, the wife. Mrs. Martin, the mother, was scarcely more than across the threshold of the door leading into the corridor when she threw up her hands and fell to the floor, her head striking on the brick on the north wall of the court room. She was rigid and unconscious when Patterson and some of the others present stopped over her.

Mrs. Martin was carried into the law library and laid on a cot which had been prepared for the use of Irene Schroeder. She was still unconscious. Deputy Sheriff Will Reynolds ran down to the sheriff's office for a bottle of smelling salts.

By the time he returned Mrs. Martin had regained partial consciousness but was crying and trembling. In the meantime Martin sat down in the law library, where he was joined by his wife and baby. He took the baby in his arms, kissed it again and again, while he talked to his wife in low tones. He did not break down, but appeared to be greatly agitated as was also his wife.

Mrs. Martin, Sr., became calmer, but her face was twitching and she was trembling violently. Deputy Sheriff Reynolds directed that a physician be called.

After Attorney Patterson had conferred with the court, Judge Chambers directed that Martin be brought back into the court room. It was announced that he had decided not to plead. Judge Chambers directed Deputy Sheriff Reynolds to take him back to jail, at the same time announcing that he would be called for trial on Monday morning. Soon after he had been taken back to jail Mrs. Martin recovered sufficiently to leave the library with the assistance of some friends.

After the Martin case had been disposed of Judge Chambers started to take testimony in the cases of Llewellyn and McDevitt to determine the grade of the crime.

Elias Rae, brother of Clark Rea, the murdered man, was the first witness called to the stand. He told about the occurrences at his home in Neshannock township on the night of Jan. 15. He said that he and his brother were warming their backs by a grate fire when they saw a flashlight at the east window. Clark Rae, his brother, picked up a chair and hurried it through the window. Shots were fired, three men entered. His brother Clark fell on the floor with a bullet in his brain. Rae's testimony regarding subsequent events was the same as in the trial of William Grimm.

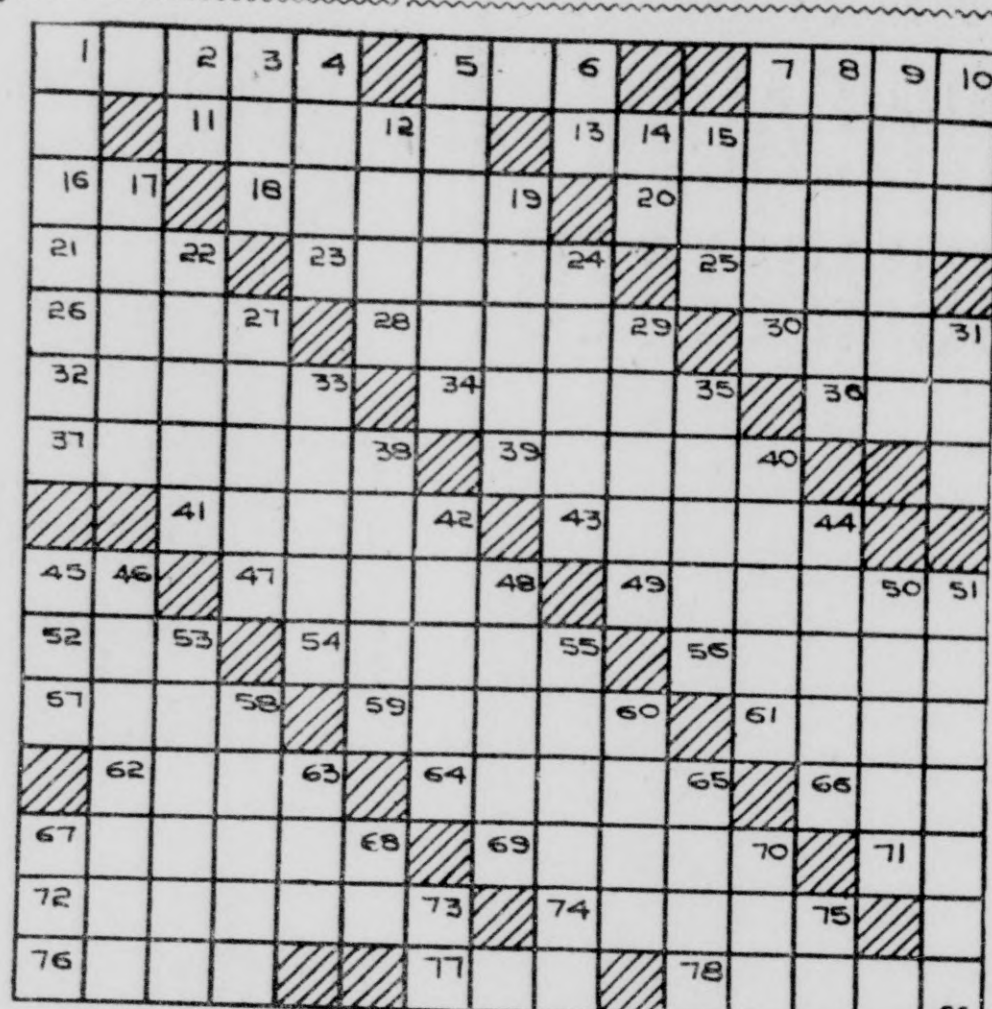

Louis McAnaney told about his work in the case and of having secured confessions. Attorney George W. Muse read the confessions.

Llewellyn and McDevitt were then sworn and told the story of the hold-up and murder. They both claimed that on the way down to the Rea house they had stopped and discussed the proposed robbery. They had agreed that no shooting was to be done. Neither of them knew who had fired the fatal shot. The first that they knew that Rea had been killed was when they entered the house.

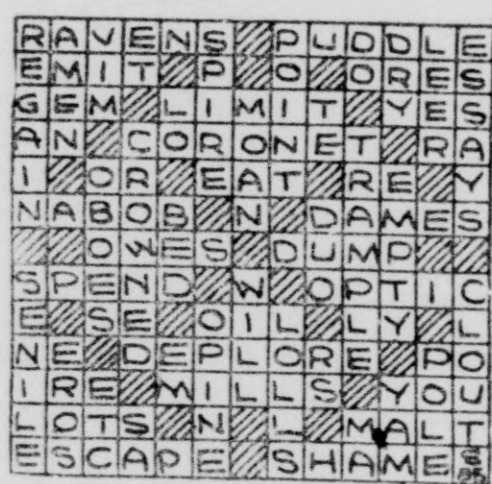

McDevitt told about taking 50 cents from Elias Rae at the point of a gun and of having taken a pocketbook, containing about $43, from Clark Rea. The money was divided on the way in to town.

John Young, city policeman, told about having arrested McDevitt at Indiana Harbor.

DRAGON-FLY MAKES A SAFE LANDING

Peter could scarcely believe his own eyes. Fat Bumble-Bee and beautiful Butterfly had run away from Dragon-Fly, as afraid of him as could be. Yet fierce fellow as he was known to be by all the little folks of field and forest Dragon-Fly had been so kind to Peter!

"Do you like to have all the flyers afraid of you, Sir?" asked Peter, respectfully leaning over to make sure Dragon-Fly would hear him. But Dragon-Fly did not reply. Likely he was too busy trying to make a safe landing. Certainly just as Peter spoke, Dragon-Fly sharply swooped downward. Directly beneath him Peter saw himself on the flyer's back reflected in the blue mirror of the pool.

For a second Peter wondered if Dragon-Fly intended to play a trick on him and with him take a nose-dive into the water. The boy held his breath. However Peter need have had no fear. Dragon-Fly had no intention of wetting his lacy wings. At precisely the right moment the clever flyer swerved from his downward course and alighted gracefully upon a fern leaf that with many companions grew on the pool's bank.

"Hurrah," cried Peter. "If anyone knows his business it is yourself Dragon-Fly. Gee, but I wish I had wings!"

"Too bad you haven't," said Dragon-Fly. "I couldn't get along without them. Of course you have sturdy legs for walking but I always say that folks who have to stay on the ground miss half the fun there is in life. Do you know where you are, boy? And would you mind slipping down from my back? You're quite a heavy weight and I've a bit of cramp from carrying you."

"Oh, I'm sorry!" hastily Peter slid to the fern leaf and seated himself on the stalk. "I never had such a ride as that, old chap. It's something to remember for the rest of my life. Why did you ask me if I knew where I was? Why should I? Have I ever been here before?"

Dragon-Fly laughed as loud as a Dragon-Fly can. And the fern leaves rustled with merriment to hear him.

Organization Of Girl Scouts Is Growing Rapidly

There Are 205,834 Girl Scouts In United States, According To Official Report

An idea of how widespread the Girl Scout movement is in United States, can be obtained by some of the figures in a statistical pamphlet recently sent by the Girl Scout Research Bureau, to Miss Nancy Pugh, New Castle Girl Scout director.

There are 205,834 individual members in the organization. This includes 13,143 community sponsors, 12,955 captains and lieutenants, 9,028 Brownies and associate Girl Scouts and 170,706 Girl Scouts.

There are 8,266 Girl Scout troops. Of this number, 2,378 troops were newly registered, while 5,888 re-registered in 1929.

Another interesting fact contained in the pamphlet, is that there are 423 camps for Girl Scouts in this country, 189 of which are large permanent camps.

This year marks the beginning of the five-year development program. At its close in 1935, the Girl Scout organization hopes to have an active membership of over 500,000. By December 31, 1930, its aim is 233,000 members.

The New Castle Girl Scout organization has increased tremendously in membership during the past two years since Miss Pugh has been supervising the work. New troops are being organized at schools and churches, and this city has been helping greatly in the development program.

Girl Finds Germ Of Brain Disease

LONDON, March 17.—The Lancet, British medical journal, today announced discovery of what may prove to be the germ of "disseminated sclerosis," a degenerative disease of the brain and spinal cord.

The discovery was by Miss Kathleen Chevallier, a young pupil of Sir James Purves Stewart, widely known British medical authority. It substantiated the Lancet believes that it will rank among the foremost achievements of bacteriology.

Disseminated sclerosis is often responsible for paralysis. It usually steadily progresses, chronic nephritis to tuberculosis frequently developing, causing death. Its causes hitherto have been obscure and its treatment unsatisfactory. The Lancet said experiments are being made in treating the disease with vaccines prepared from cultures of minute bodies which Miss Chevallier discovered.

Call Easton Scout Head As Successor To J. Lee Calahan

H. G. Horton Choice Of Nominating Committee At Close Of Conference

COMING TO ASSUME DUTIES NEXT WEEK

Herbert G. Horton, chief scout executive at Easton, Pa., will on Monday morning, March 24, assume the post of chief executive of the Lawrence county Boy Scout council, succeeding J. Lee Calahan, who vacated the post for a regional scout position some time ago. It was definitely decided by scout leaders Monday afternoon.

L. B. Round, chairman of the special nominating committee appointed to select Mr. Calahan's successor, made public the committee's decision immediately. With Mr. Round on the committee are Dr. H. S. Gold of Ellwood City, Herbert Christian and DeLace Cole of this city.

Mr. Round stated further that the committee's selection is subject to the approval of the county board, but it is felt that the committee's selection will be confirmed.

The Easton executive came to New Castle on Saturday after being informed by Mayor Roy F. Seymour, head of scout work in region three, as to the situation here. Mr. Seymour suggested that he come and confer with officials here over the week-end, and he did.

The new executive will leave a splendid record remaining behind him at Easton. During the several years he has been located there one of the liveliest councils in eastern Pennsylvania has been developed. His record at the national scout leaders' training school is such that would almost be a recommendation enough for Mr. Horton, it is said.

It is expected that the Lawrence county scout board will convene shortly to act on the nominating committee's choice.

Former Chief Executive Calahan left to accept the deputy regional scout directorship for region three, in charge of sea scouting. He is now located at Philadelphia.

Firemen Kept Busy With Grass Fires

Epidemic Of Burning Grass Starts With Nice Weather Saturday Afternoon

Local firemen were kept extremely busy over the week end, answering grass alarms, six blazes of such nature being reported to them.

Two still alarms were sounded Saturday afternoon around 3:30, one from the vicinity of the old Paper Mill, while another came in from along the Wilmington Road. Neither were threatening property and they were allowed to burn themselves out.

An alarm from Box 76 at 1:30 Sunday afternoon called Seventh ward firemen to Montgomery avenue where a small grass fire was in progress.

At 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon a still alarm was sounded calling Central and Fourth ward firemen to the vicinity of Scott and Vine streets, where the whole field running from Scott street to Vine street was found ablaze.

Part of it was allowed to burn, while the firemen extinguished the blaze where it threatened to do damage.

This morning firemen were called to the same district, where permission had been given to burn off the grass on the old Elder property. Neighbors feared it was beyond his control and called the firemen.

Another alarm was sounded from Box 72 at 10:40 this morning. A woman residing at 213 East Clayton street was burning some rubbish and the sparks ignited grass in the vicinity of her home. She called her husband and he thought his home was on fire and sounded an alarm from Box 72. No damage resulted.

Man Attacks Woman; Wanted By Police

Proves To Be Man Against Whom Charge Had Been Made Some Time Ago

Answering a call to West Falls street Sunday night, where it was reported that a colored woman had been attacked by a colored man, who was armed with a hatchet, Lieutenant of Police Hillers and Officers Dukes Lockard and Johnson found and arrested John Taylor, colored, the man in the case, hiding in a cellar on Bridge street.

They also discovered that he was a man wanted by the department on a liquor charge. Last September a woman residing at 213 East Clayton street was burning some rubbish and the sparks ignited grass in the vicinity of her home. She called her husband and he thought his home was on fire and sounded an alarm from Box 72. No damage resulted.

An information was made at the time against him before Alderman L. C. Mantz, the charge being violation of the Snyder act. He now not only faces that charge but also one of felonious assault and battery made by Daisy Holt, the woman whom he attacked.

Hot Coals Are Cause Of Blaze

Firemen were called to the property of J. V. Travers at 206 Shenango street at 10:30 Saturday evening, where hot coals dropping from a stove set fire to the floor.

The blaze was extinguished in quick order, after damage of approximately $10 had been caused.

"MEN SHOULD GET MARRIED AND GET RICH"

"The great majority of all men who come for food and clothing, to the offices of local charitable organizations, are unmarried. Without wives, men get down and out, cannot save their money, and tramp all over the country. They are poor money managers."

And that is the firm opinion of a well known local woman who has spent quite a number of years in charity work. She has, day in and day out, given baskets of food, meal tickets, suits of clothing and shoes, to thousands of men, and women. Each one of these must give their names, nationality, occupation and whether they are married or single.

She has found that most of the men are unmarried. They need managers.

Costa Rican At 114 Still Rises At 4 A. M.

He Says He Never Gambled Or Danced, But Always Liked A Little Drink

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, March 17.—By living 114 years and being ill only once in that time, Felix Alvarado Sandoval of Tobosi, a mountain village near Cartago, who goes to bed with the chickens and gets up at four a. m., has proved part of the old adage about "early to bed and early to rise." He has had no desire to be wealthy, and so probably proves the part of the adage about "making a man wise."

In an interview for the Diario de Costa Rica, he placed his birth as "six years before the earthquake of San Esteban in 1822," when James Madison was President of the United States. His father was a post runner and Felix began following him over the trails at an early age. He doesn't care to ride a horse and could not dream of riding in an automobile or train. He has not visited Cartago, a few miles distant, for five years, because he says he is getting to old to walk.

Twenty years ago he walked to San Jose to see a trolley car. "I never returned there and I never will," he said, "because I was disgusted with the noise, and as my legs trembled from the long walk, I believed I was drunk and hoping to take me to jail."

Discussing his life, he said: "I have cared only for my wife. I never gambled or danced, but I have always liked a little drink and in my time I was a famous singer."

"Father has never had a special diet," one of his daughters added. "He has never worn a coat and in-clement weather (Cartago is 5,000 feet above sea level and cold for the tropics) has never troubled him. He has never been ill except once when he had a little fever that was cured by one pill given him by a doctor."

As the interviewer left he saw the old man hobble into the barnyard and kick a pig that was stealing food from some chickens. The last view was of a shriveled, aged man, five feet tall, with a sparse gray beard, white hair, sun-tanned face and a severe look. He was smoking a large black cigar made of strong native tobacco, with his conscience tranquil and his memory wandering back through the years to the time when "everything was purchased with cocoa beans, as those years were very different from the present time, when everything costs so much."

Punch tells of a Hollywood film star who refused to be maid of honor at her friend's wedding because she was madly in love with the bridegroom-to-be. Hadn't she ever heard of the film colony's matrimonial waiting list?—The Shreveport Journal.

The Parent Problem

by GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

Jealousy In Children Only Can Be Reduced

"How may I cure my child of jealousy?" a parent sometimes asks. "Chloroform him," is my stock reply. "Either may be just as good."

Jealousy belongs to life. There is no such thing as a cure for jealousy. All we can hope to do is to decrease its force and frequency. We can reduce the number of situations which are likely to arouse it.

Be it known that all sorts of bad behavior and unhappiness in children often have their source in jealousy. One may suspect it as the cause of almost any kind of uncooperative conduct, although it is about the last thing which parents will look for.

See that the first baby does not get undue attention; let him early learn to wait upon himself and to develop independence. If he is the only child he then will not be so easily hurt by unfavorable comparisons which inevitably will come as he competes with other children. If a second baby is expected prepare the first; announce the fact that another child is going to arrive. Speak of the expected child as "our baby". Make its coming a family interest.

Remember that the older child is going to experience a tremendous shock when he finds the baby getting nearly all the parents' attention and nearly all the adoration of the relatives.

Force yourself to devote considerable attention to the older child. Let Dad read or tell more stories to him than usual, play with him a great deal and lose no opportunity to celebrate successes in this older child. Persuade your friends not to neglect the older child.

As soon as baby is old enough to use a toy, give the older child money with which to buy gifts occasionally for the younger. Lead the older to do things for the baby in helping in its care. Approve such assistance very generously.

As the children older grow, avoid comparisons, and see to it that each has an opportunity to enjoy success and consequent approval. If one naturally attracts more attention than the other, help the other to find ways of winning worthy praise. Never hold up one child as a model for the other.

Proceed in like fashion if the number of children is larger. Work out ways whereby all children earn as nearly as possible, about the same attention from adults. Just as soon as you find any one child getting more punishment than another, expect jealousy. As he is punished relatively more he grows more jealous and, in consequence, does more bad things to be punished more, to grow more jealous and so on in the same bad direction. Discover ways, therefore, of reducing punishments.

See that individual property rights are respected and protected and that there are no over-lapping of home duties. Don't send one child with an unpleasant message to another child.

Let your children settle their own quarrels or separate them for a definite period of time without attempt to fix the blame. Don't punish one child upon the testimony of another child. When you command or request one child to do something, let not another voluntarily take his place.

Every time one does a kind thing toward another of whom he is likely to be jealous, reward him warmly by approval or by more substantial means. Celebrate success.

Thrills by the hundreds are yours when you see "The Bishop Murder Case." Capitol, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, this week. 15113

"Although I am only 22 years old, I have four babies to care for. Before my first baby was born my mother urged me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because I was so terribly weak. I had to lie down four or five times a day. After three bottles I could feel a great improvement. Tells Council He Paid Officer For Protection

BLOOMSBURG, Pa., Mar. 17.—Allegations that he had "paid for protection" and failed to get it were made by Peter G. Rupert, Central Hotel proprietor, before town council at its monthly session and will be investigated by the public safety committee of council.

Rupert said he appeared before council to substantiate statements made on the street alleging he had bribed the chief, the charges being made following his arrest recently on a charge of possessing liquor.

A day or two after the raid, Rupert met the officer on the street, and declared "If I go to jail, you'll go along." Rupert told councilmen he had witnesses to back up his statements, but President of Council Moyer declined to turn council into a trial court and said he would inform Rupert when the committee would hear the charges.

Chief of Police Leonard Spaid when asked if he wanted to make a reply to the charges, said: Not at this time. Let him broadcast until he's through. Then I'll have my say."

Purim Party Plans Complete

Hadassah Will Present Mrs. A. H. Vixman Of New York, As Speaker Thursday

The New Castle chapter of Hadassah has completed preparations for its annual Purim party to be held Thursday evening, March 20th, in the assembly rooms of Temple Israel, in celebration of Hadassah's eighteenth birthday.

The gifts to be brought to this party will be in the form of muslin, "Milk bottle bags", whose cash contents will be devoted to Hadassah's Infant Welfare fund, through which the twenty-one health welfare stations are maintained in Palestine.

William Blau, local chairman of this fund, with her committee is in charge of contributions.

On this occasion the local chapter will be honored by having as its special guest Mrs. A. H. Vixman of New York City, national vice-president of Hadassah. Formerly of this region, Mrs. Vixman is known as the Mother of Western Pennsylvania, having organized many groups in this section.

Mrs. Vixman spent last summer in the Holy Land and during the August riots gave invaluable assistance to the Hadassah Medical organization.

Infant Welfare work in Palestine is part of Hadassah's comprehensive program of preventive medicine. Its work over a period of eight years had reduced infant mortality and taught thousands of mothers how to care for their children properly. Two years ago about six thousand mothers and babies visited the centers monthly; while last year more than twice that number visited the stations every month.

To assist Hadassah, such an internationally famous philanthropist as Nathan Strauss presented Hadassah with the Strauss center in Jerusalem, which is the headquarters for Hadassah's health work and from which all of the activities of Infant Welfare are conducted. In a recent report the Department of Health of the government of Palestine commenting on the low mortality of infants among the Jews of Palestine said that the Infant Welfare clinics of Hadassah should be credited with this "economy of life".

Mrs. Eli Kaplan, chairman of music, is presenting Mr. M. Newmark in a series of appropriate Purim and Palestinian music. Other novel arrangements in keeping with the occasion are being planned by Mrs. Charles Levine, chairman of hospitality.

Teacher Convicted Of Whipping Child

BUTLER, Pa., March 17.—Charles A. Sherman of the Saxonburg road, teacher of English in the Lyndora public schools, was convicted by a Butler county jury for alleged abuse of Nick Nazak, 10, when inflicting corporal punishment. Miss Margaret Percy, another teacher, who was called in to witness the punishment, testified that she did not think it was severe. Attorneys for Sherman filed a motion for a new trial when the verdict was announced.

THE QUESTION BOX

CENTRAL PRESS WASHINGTON BUREAU

Answers to questions of information and fact can be obtained by writing to Central Press Bureau, P. O. Box 126, Washington, D. C., and enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. No answers will be given to marital, medical or legal questions.

How the date of Easter Sunday is determined interests many correspondents at this season of the year. The Council of the Christian Churches at Nicaea adopted the present rule for determining the date of Easter in A. D. 325. Easter falls on the first Sunday following the Paschal full moon which happens upon or next after March 21. The principal reason, says George Eastman, for placing Easter Sunday on this date was that pilgrims needed moonlight to travel on their way to the great yearly Easter festivities. The date of Easter may vary at present between March 22 and April 25. If a Paschal full moon falls on a Sunday, then Easter Day is the next Sunday. Easter this year is on April 20.

What is the world's largest city? Next largest? New York, counting the recognized metropolitan district with 9,422,500 population, according to the July 1, 1926, estimate, is the largest. "Greater" London, with 7,742,212 according to it in 1925, is next.

Is any boy born in the United States, of white parents, presidentially eligible in this country?—or must his father, too, have been born an American citizen?

The answer to the first question is "yes"—if he is at least 35 years old, has "been 14 years a resident within the United States" and has not otherwise forfeited his citizenship. A girl also would now be eligible, and the United States constitution does not even specify white parentage. For instance, Vice President Charles Curtis, who might conceivably become president, is partly Indian.

Is the "installment plan" a benefit to the people or not?

The "installment plan" simply is "credit," which is a great convenience to some people and the ruin of others. Judiciously used, it permits the supplying of needs in advance of income. Overworked, it ends in bankruptcy.

Why are the people of the United States called Americans, but not Canadians or Mexicans?

Simply because the people of the United States were so called first, and the habit having become too strong to break, the others had to be called something else to distinguish them.

Is population increasing or decreasing?

Woman Is Killed By Lion's Claw

(International News Service) CASSEL, Germany, March 17.—A woman lion tamer's heroic attempt to separate a battling lion and bear in a circus menagerie wagon proved fatal to herself and to the beasts today.

The tamer entered the cage, armed only with a wire whip and succeeded in wrenching the bear from the lion's deadly claws.

Suddenly the lion leaped upon the woman and clawed her fatally. Her dying cries attracted attendants, who dragged her from the cage only after shooting the lion. The bear also died from his injuries.

The battle between the beasts started after the lion had crushed a wooden partition in the cage.

Shower Of Cards Acknowledged By Dr. Harry Wilson

Greetings Mailed Former Resident On 80th Birthday Appreciated

Acknowledgment of the shower of congratulatory birthday cards which he received from scores of New Castle friends on the occasion of his 80th birthday, was made by Dr. Harry R. Wilson, one-time resident but now of Burgettstown, in a recent issue of the Burgettstown Enterprise.

The congratulations he received on March 5, not only by birthday cards but by other gifts of remembrances is evidence that he has a host of friends who have not forgotten him. Dr. Wilson is a native of Lawrence county, having been born in New Wilmington in 1850 and had resided and been a practitioner in this county, New Castle in particular. Five years ago he retired and left to make his home with a sister, Mrs. Bessie Wilson of that place.

SCIENTIST HAS PARROT FEVER

Dr. Francis, Famous Discoverer Of Tularemia, Latest To Be Stricken

WASHINGTON, March 17.—The eighth victim of parrot fever in the ranks of the public health service laboratories was reported Sunday.

Dr. Edward Francis, discoverer of Tularemia or rabbit fever, and a vital figure in the present research, is the latest to be stricken by the baffling psittacosis.

Considerable alarm was felt in medical circles today because of the strange fact that none of the eight persons afflicted to date have had any actual personal contact with the infected birds. Scientists stated that the germs may have been carried out of the laboratory by roaches, waterbugs or rodents.

Publication Of Story Of Irene Is Protested

PITTSBURGH, Pa., March 17.—The Congress of Clubs and Club Women of Western Pennsylvania passed a resolution protesting the publication of the story of Irene Schroeder, who is now on trial at New Castle, accused of slaying Highway Patrolman Brady Paul.

The resolution said that the stories had a vicious effect on the community and that many papers are glorifying the deeds of the blond.

MERCER NEWS

The Leesburg Community club met Tuesday evening in the assembly room of the centralized school, and there was a large attendance which was very pleasing to the committee. County Farm Agent W. S. Hagar was the speaker of the evening, talking on community life and activities. Commissioner Harry Hunter also gave a few remarks. The men of the club then served a chicken dinner.

This community club of Leesburg, composed of men of that district, is one of the best organizations of its sort around.

Dr. M. G. Yeager is expected to arrive home today from a vacation in Panama, where he visited with Mr. and Mrs. Preston Mercer. Lieutenant Mercer is stationed at the present time in Panama.

The Reznor Manufacturing plant hopes to open soon, but can not say yet as to what date it will be possible. The salesmen that have returned from their trips state that business is good considering the condition of the country. It is the uncertain outlook of other businesses that keeps the Reznor officials from completing their plans. They hope to be able to say in a week or so as to what the outlook for the business year will be, and get the plant started at work again.

Tuesday and Wednesday are the days for the voters of Mercer to go to the voting place of their precinct. The registration assessors will be present and those who are not enrolled should register, and anyone wishing to change their party affiliations may do so.

If you are in doubt as to whether you are registered correctly or not be sure and inquire on Tuesday or Wednesday, don't wait until time to vote.

Had Difficulty Getting Into Court For Trial

It's a tough racket getting into the court house this week if you don't have any business there.

And it was just as tough last week. Even if you had business there it still took a good old college try to crash your way through that wall of deputies.

Which is why Carrie Landrum had a complaint Saturday.

Carrie is not a blonde which may have something to do with it. She did have business in the court house.

Not monkey business either. Carrie was due to stand trial for this or that, over in court room number two. Her attorney was waiting at the bar for her. Carrie didn't show up. Which was rather peculiar for she always had before.

Down stairs Carrie was having no luck at all. The deputies on the doors weren't going to let her in.

"But," said Carrie, "I have to get in there. I'm on trial this morning."

"That's a new reason for getting in," said the deputy, "but even that one is out."

In the meantime Attorney Edwin K. Logan was notified that his client was down stairs trying to get in and finally after a note was written by him, Carrie was allowed to come in and have her trial.

Famous Chain Bridge Over Thames Passes

Structure At Lambeth Followed Old Ferry That Paid Archbishop's Fees

Demolition of the old chain bridge at Lambeth is almost complete. In its place will stand a beautiful and substantial structure, stretching across the Thames between the Archbishop's Palace of Lambeth and the gardens west of the Houses of Parliament. There has been a crossing of the river at this point for thousands of years. The shallowness of the stream allowed for a horse ferry, the only one permitted in London. The name, Horsely road, is still used. The profits of the ferry went to the Archbishop of Canterbury, says the Detroit News.

When Westminster bridge was opened the Archbishop had to be compensated for the loss of ferry fees to the amount of more than $10,000, but the ferry, with sadly diminished traffic, continued until 1862, when the Lambeth bridge, now being removed, was built by Peter William Barlow. Queen Mary of Modena, wife of James II, crossed the ferry one dark night with her infant child, in her flight to France. Shortly afterward her royal husband, in fear of William of Orange, followed her, and threw the great seal of England into the Thames as he went. It was retrieved a few days afterward in a fisherman's net.

Murder Saves 2,000 Dogs From Death

VIENNA, Mar. 17.—The murder of Joefine Weber in her little store on Gumpendorfer street saved the lives of about 2,000 dogs. Newspapers pointed out that had the woman possessed a watch dog, she might have escaped her tragic fate. The result was that the Society for the Protection of Animals received 2,000 applications for dogs. The society was glad to fill the orders, for it had 14,000 stray canines on its hands and had planned to do away with at least 6,000 of them.

HOW STARS FIGHT FAT

NO STARVING

MOVIE stars must stay thin. That's a part of their contract. But they dare not starve to do it, for that might wreck their health.

They consult the best physicians. And those physicians know that a common cause of excess fat is an under-active gland. In treating obesity or fighting obesity, they supply that lack as they find it.

Nature Sends Its Heralds Of Spring

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Mar. 17.—Although snow flurries are still interspersed with showers, spring arrives on Friday well heralded by nature. Professor G. R. Green, head of nature education at the Pennsylvania State College, said today. Winter birds, the horned lark and pine grosbeak, have reluctantly made their way northward before the arrival of the earliest robins and bluebirds. The downy little song sparrow has been here for several weeks, and the earlier flowering trees have shed their pollen.

Most of the spring wild flowers, trailing arbutus, hepatica, and anemone, may be found in sheltered spots, the Penn State naturalist said, the arbutus buds appearing on the south-eastern slope of a mountain perhaps a month before it blossoms in other places. The spring beauty, blood root, marsh marigold and early trillium are all making their appearance while the buds of cultivated flowers, the lilacs and spiraea have also burst into bloom in many sections.

Hibernating animals of the woods and fields are coming from their winter retreats, the warm weather having brought out the groundhog and the porcupine. Although the turtles are still buried in mud, and frogs have not yet been heard, the early spring peepers have started their chorus and salamanders have become active along some of the streams.

No. "13" Figures In Rivera's Fall

BARCELONA, Mar. 17.—The late Spanish dictator and the number 13 are involved in a numerous series of important aspects, which relate to numerology are the following compiled by a local fatalist.

The name Primo de Rivera has 13 letters.

The name of Martinez Anido, the "iron" ex-Minister of Interior, also has 13 letters.

The dictatorship came into being in the reign of King Alfonso XIII, on September 13.

The dictatorship lasted for 76 months, and 7 plus 6 equal 13.

Counting by days, its length was 2,326 days, and adding these figures together one obtains 13.

The dictatorship ended in 1930; these figures also total 13.

The dictatorship was in power six years, four months and 13 days.

The number of living ex-ministers of the dictatorship is 13.

Bo Broadway by JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

By CENTRAL PRESS
NEW YORK, March 17.—Most of the music masters in New York are admitting that jazz music is dead—and by jazz they mean the old-fashioned orchestral explosion, with each player rollin' his own.

Two reasons are advanced: Radio and music, it seems, had to be played down and sandpapered to meet the peculiar exactions of the "Mike," and the lengthened skirt naturally called for slower and more dignified dance tempo.

Rudy Vallee admits the passing of jazz but says it's because Penelope, prancing the polished parquette, wants lyrics interspersed with her dance melodies. "And," says The King of Croon, "you can't race through your lyrics."

Be the reason what it may, the old ankle-breaking turgid symphonies are as dead as yesterday's newspaper.

STILL THE BEST SELLER.
They're selling Bibles in New York, now, in colored bindings—reds, blues and purples replacing the conservative black of long usage.

The Pastor is the last man on earth ever to kick against "brighter" the corner; but in the case of The Bible, a flossy jacket is just so much waste.

The Bible is the one notable and outstanding exception to the psychology of the attractive package. Practically everything else in the world, from the Park Ave. Deb, stepping out on the Marriage Block, to the latest package of breakfast food, gets an extra merchandising impetus by virtue of a pleasing wrapper.

But not so The Bible. Send it forth, year after year, in the deepest of funeral black bindings and it still retains its place on the publishers' catalogue as The Bonniest of Best Sellers.

You sometimes hear tell of "The Bible Belt." The name's all right. The trouble is, and it's usually applied by some simpering young clinic whose characterization doesn't embrace sufficient territory.

There's hardly a nook or corner of the United States where, one time or another, I haven't stuck my patrician snoot; and from experience I make this statement.

The Bible Belt in the United States comprises a strip of land bounded by the Atlantic on the east, Hollywood on the west, The Dominion on the north and the Gulf on the south.

Fourteen million of The Good Books were sold in this territory last year. I'm not arguing with you. I'm telling you.

The Connolly play sent them squealing into each other's arms, drooling hyperbole; and all you hear now, night and day along Broadway, is chatter about the Connolly play.

Despite the fact that he got the idea from Bradford, Connolly is going to bring out the piece in book form, and Brother Bradford, taking advantage of the Bull Market in Negro Spirituals, is having Harper & Brother rush through a companion piece to his first effort, called "Ol' King David an' th' Philistine Boys."

The "Philistine Boys" should have heard of the lit'ry game as it's played in New York today.

Two Bandits Left "Holding The Bag"

(International News Service)
DETROIT, March 17.—Two bandits today are "holding the bag." It is an empty school bag which they took in an attempted robbery of Charles and Joseph Miramontin, brothers, who are partners in the wholesale grocery business.

As they came from their store they were halted by three holdup men who drew up in an automobile. One bandit covered Charles and another Joseph, who was carrying the bag which had been left at the store by his son, Frank. As bandit No. 1 said to Charles: "Give me your money or I'll kill you." bandit No. 2 seized the empty school bag and shouted: "Come on, boys, I've got it." Then they fled.

SHERIFF WRIGHT GIVES DETAILS OF PURSUIT OF BLONDE IN DESERT

Western Officer Gives Facts On Episodes That Brought Bandit Career To End In West—News- paperwoman Is Held In Contempt

Sheriff Charles Wright, the man whose posse of cowboys, Indians and deputies "shot it out" with Irene Schroeder, Glenn Dague and Joe Wells in the Estrella Mountains, Arizona, January 13th, told his story to the jury this afternoon in Court Room No. 1. Bronzed by the southwestern sun, face lined with the winds of the desert, the sheriff whose domain covers a county 200 miles long by 150 miles wide related the story of how the bandits were taken in a mountain retreat.

The actual gun battle in the Estrella mountains, where Sundust the Indian rode into their retreat on a horse and brought them out was not told today. Sheriff Wright was not present right at the scene of the capture but he did tell of the events leading up to the fight, the kidnapping of Joe Chapman in Florence, the battle with deputies in Chandler, the abandoned car near the Gila River, and the trip from the Estrella Mountains to Phoenix, where Irene, Glenn and Joe Wells were lodged in the Maricopa County jail.

A rather unusual occurrence took place during the afternoon session when Mrs. Ella Kerber Resch, a reporter of the Youngstown Vindicator, was jailed upon order of Judge Hildebrand for contempt of court.

The incident happened when Mrs. Resch was being questioned about a series of articles purporting to be the life history of Irene Schroeder, now running in the Vindicator and other papers. Asked who gave her the story Mrs. Resch refused to answer and upon being asked by Judge Hildebrand and refusing to answer, he ordered Sheriff Johnston to take her into custody.

She is in jail for contempt of court, an offense which is not bailable. Judge Hildebrand expressed his regret at the occurrence but said that under the circumstances there was nothing else to do. The testimony of this afternoon follows:

Afternoon Session

Mrs. Ella Kerber Resch, representing the Youngstown Vindicator was called. After answering the usual questions as to residence, association with her paper and the like she was asked:

Q. Is your paper running what purports to be the history of the life of Irene Schroeder as given out by her?

A. Objected to by the defense and a side-bar conference took place between the court and counsel. The conference lasted 15 minutes. Objection overruled.

Q. Did you personally take that story?

A. No.

Q. Do you know who took it?

A. I do.

Q. Was it written?

A. Yes.

Q. When was it taken, about when?

A. Sometime between January and the present date.

Q. Was that story handed to you?

A. It was.

Q. Where?

A. In Youngstown.

Q. At the time you received it was it written by pencil?

A. It was.

Q. Is the story you have been running in the Vindicator an exact story or a rewritten story?

A. Rewritten.

Q. Who handed you the story?

A. I refuse to answer.

Refuses To Answer

Objected to by defense and Margiotti asked that the court direct the witness to answer.

The court thought for some time over the question. Before he ruled on it Margiotti reframed the question.

Q. Was it a man or woman?

A. I refuse to answer.

Q. Did you quote any part of it?

A. I refuse to answer.

Margiotti: Your honor this woman is no better than any other witness, governors are called, presidents are called and this woman should be made to answer.

Q. Who handed you this story?

A. I refuse to answer. I refuse to betray confidence.

The court directed her to answer and she refused. Said Judge Hildebrand:

There is only one thing to do with persons who refuse to answer questions. Sheriff take charge of her. She was taken to jail.

Margiotti then made the following statement to the court.

"I wish to state that Mr. Dickey and Mr. Jarret had nothing to do with this story."

Sheriff Wright Called.

Sheriff Charles Wright was called. He described how his office had received a call that a deputy sheriff, Joe Chapman, had been kidnapped on January 13.

Q. What more information did you have?

A. We got word that two of my deputies had been in a battle with the bandits near Chandler.

Q. How far is Chandler from Phoenix?

A. About 30 miles.

Q. When did you get the report concerning your men being shot?

A. About 2 o'clock on the morning of the 14th.

Q. Upon receiving that report what did you do?

A. Went to my office.

Q. How many deputies did you get out?

A. About 50.

Q. What did you direct your men to do?

A. Told them to do everything possible to apprehend these people.

Q. When did you next hear of them?

A. About six o'clock I received a report that a car had been found on the edge of the desert between the Salt and Gila rivers.

Q. What did you do?

A. Went to the car and ordered a search made.

Q. Did you go to the scene of the finding of the car?

A. That morning about 6:30.

Q. Then where did you go?

A. Ordered a search and ordered men out to pick up the track.

Q. What time did you go back?

A. An hour or so later.

Q. Have you been to the place where they were captured?

A. Yes it is on the southwest side of the Gila river in the Estrella mountain.

Q. Where they were found is how far from the car?

A. About 14 miles.

Q. Is there a highway near there?

A. Yes the Bankhead highway running from Tucson to Yuma and on to California.

Q. Where did you get the defendant?

A. Near the Gila River.

Q. Who had her?

A. Some of the officers. I transferred her to my car. In the car were Mrs. Schroeder, Mrs. Mott and Mr. Warner.

Q. Which seat did Mrs. Schroeder ride in?

A. In the front seat.

Q. How long did it take?

A. About an hour.

Q. What was said?

A. I asked her her name, she said I could find out. I told her I had her name and Glenn Dague and Tom Crawford. I showed her name to her and she said I guess your right. A reporter asked her name and she said she was the sheriff. I asked her what kind of a gun she had referring to the murder of Brady Paul and she said she had a 38. She said

When a child shows, by bad breath, coated tongue, biliousness or feverishness, that the little bowels are clogged, you know the system needs a prompt cleansing.

California Fig Syrup does the work quickly and gently. In addition, it helps tone and strengthen weak bowels and stomach. So it gives lasting help.

The word California marks the genuine; the pure vegetable product loved by children and pronounced safe and effective by doctors.

they were headed for Yuma, 208 miles away.

Q. Did she make any statement about why they were going there?

A. She said they had had trouble in Texas and were going to Yuma. She also said they had had trouble in Pennsylvania.

Q. Did she say anything?

A. She said that Glenn and her had talked things over and if they got out of this trouble they would live in peace the balance of their days.

Q. What else was said?

A. She said that as they arrived at Chandler they wanted to go around the town. She said at Florence an officer wanted to see her automobile papers, she honked the horn and Glenn Dague and Joe Wells came out and stuck a gun in the deputy's side and forced him into the car.

He guided them wrong she said, once they were bogged down in a river bottom and they made him dig them out. She said Chapman told them there were no officers in Chandler and they could drive through all right. In Chandler they ran into more officers and had a gun battle.

Q. Do you know where Joe Chapman is?

A. Yes, in the hospital in Tucson, suffering from a gunshot wound.

Q. Were two officers shot in Chandler?

A. Yes, Lee Wright and Butterfield.

Q. Where are they?

A. Butterfield is in Arizona and Wright is dead.

Q. Were the prisoners finger printed?

A. Yes.

Q. What did Dague do?

A. He kissed Irene.

Q. When they were fingerprinted did Mrs. Schroeder sign her name?

A. No, she signed Mildred Winthrop.

Q. What did Dague sign?

A. Winthrop.

Q. Were they in each other's presence?

A. They were.

Sheriff Wright identified the guns that were taken from the prisoners. He also identified articles taken from the automobile.

Q. I show you a telegram from Gilligan and Trot, Dillonvale, O., addressed to Irene Schroeder. Did she take it as Irene Schroeder?

A. I don't think she did.

(This telegram was an offer from a company for her life story.)

Miss Cairns' father offered her $1,000 if she brought her golf score down to 90. She came up to the 18th green in 88, with but a half dozen feet of greensward remaining between her and fortune. J. Crawford White Tells Dramatic Tale Of Father's Underground Railroad Station

Four score years ago, in the days preceding the Civil War, when whites were the masters and blacks the slaves, the old Joseph S. White home, on North Jefferson street, was a haven of safety for desperate slaves who fled from their brutal masters in the South.

The sturdy old brick stands a few rods north of Grant street. It was a station of the underground railroad route, which led from the South, to the safety of Canada, and was conducted by Joseph White, owner of the house.

There are most dramatic tales connected with this house, during those never to be forgotten days of slavery. There is, in New Castle, a man who remembers vividly the thrilling trips made from the White home to the next underground railroad station, carrying groups of fugitive, slave fugitives, in a covered wagon.

This man is J. Crawford White, of Euclid avenue, the son of Joseph S. White.

Although he is near the four score mark, J. Crawford has an excellent memory, and his description of the underground railroad days is most gripping. He was a very young lad, when this method of aiding fugitives to make their ways to freedom, was carried on by his father, but remembers every detail.

"During the past years," Mr. White remarked, smilingly, to the writer, "I was informed of the open-eyed wonderment of the scholars of Martin Gantz school, at the stories told them by their teachers, about New Castle's station on the same side of Jefferson street, and that, beginning at the Shenango river, then used as the Erie and Pittsburgh canal, there was an underground tunnel that led eastward to the atorsaid station!"

"Tho' I couldn't endorse all that, it made quite an interesting story. The truth was, the station had been built for a special purpose, to secrete fugitive slaves hoping and trying to make the land of freedom, when pursued closely by their masters. My father, Joseph S. White, was the so called station agent during the later 50's.

The earliest fugitive slave, I think, did not follow the regular line North. She became the maid of Andy Lewis, proprietor of a tavern then standing on the present site of the St. Cloud building.

On a certain day, a gentleman stopped for dinner. He kept cycling the maid that waited on him. When he had finished his meal, he laid hold of her. When she screamed, Lewis' daughter, who had been sweeping, rushed in and hit him with her broomstick.

A burly blacksmith, hearing the noise, rushed in and, asking no questions, laid Mr. Man low. The maid was spirited away and he never got her."

Mr. White remembers that there was a station in Butler county, then in New Castle and the next north was at Indian Run, Mercer county. The agent at Indian Run, according to White, was named Mr. Minick.

When asked about the trips from New Castle to Indian Run, with slaves, J. Crawford White told of two migrations which were most vividly impressed in his memory.

"The first I mention," said Mr. White, "was from way down in the coast town, Savannah, Georgia. This was a very valuable slave—a ship carpenter. He had tried different times to make his escape, but in using blood-hounds, the tracking had always caught him, until this last mentioned time. After each time he was caught, his master would put a ball and chain on his legs.

At dusk of a certain day, the poor fellow came up Jefferson street, easting furtive glances to right and left, like a hunted bird.

When he got opposite my father's home, he thought he had found the place he had been directed to. He was kindly received by father, and was kept in the old brick house until he passed on to Indian Run. The case of this slave so moved the citizens of Indian Run, that a public meeting was called in the district school house.

The poor slave turned up his pants legs and showed where those cruel iron bands had cut into the fellow's muscles. Two fingers could have been placed in those dreadful creases. It made a lot of sentiment in Mercer county against the curse of slavery.

At another time, "J. Crawford White continued, "there occurred one of the most remarkable escapes from slavery that I have ever known of, there being ten in the company. The escape of only one was seldom made from slavery.

In this party, were 5 powerfully built men, 3 women and 2 little children. They were held in slavery in Virginia.

I think it was in Westmoreland county, Pennsylvania, that their masters caught up with them. The whites, having pistols, attempted to take the fugitives, but the five powerful huskies vaded into them with corn cutters, so that the masters fled back to the nearest town for re-enforcement.

During the fight, the women had fled, they knew not where, with the children. The poor fugitives had a few friends in the north, and at this occasion, they came to help them. They "zig zagged" the men, or back tracked them, so that when the "lick spittles," (friends) led the masters along what they knew as the regular route, they ran on and never found the slaves.

It was in Butler county, I think, where the men and women found each other. When they got to our station, in New Castle, they were indeed, a happy bunch.

A part of them stayed with others, and part of them at my father's, during the night, after arriving.

I forgot the name of the man at the Butler county station, who brought them in a big covered wagon to New Castle. Father had a powerful big team, but had no covered wagon. This agent of Butler county let him have the covered wagon to take the blacks to Indian Run.

Long before daylight, the next morning, they all assembled at the station on N. Jefferson street. Myself, then being a small boy, accompanied my father. We started north in the dark. There were two whites and ten colored people in the covered wagon."

J. Crawford White told the writer of a dungeon, in the cellar of the Joseph S. White homestead, which was built to secrete the escaped slaves. There was no ingress or egress to or from this dungeon, except through a secret trap door, hidden beneath a rug, in the pantry of the home. The dungeon is in the southwest corner of the house.

A controversy which is expected to line up the aircraft vs. battleship men has developed over the resignation from the navy of Lieutenant Al Williams, some of whose achievements are sketched above. Senator Millard E. Tydings of Maryland, a member of the senate naval affairs committee, has introduced a resolution for a congressional inquiry into charges that "battleship admirals" had forced the navy's speed king out of the service to block the proper development of aircraft. Lieutenant Williams resigned following orders transferring him from experimental flying to plane carrier.

Rentz Has Memorable Birthday Celebration Out At Los Angeles

In his letter, written at Los Angeles, California, and printed here, Fred L. Rentz, president of The News, tells of the celebration of his birthday in the west, and of the large number of former New Castleites or Lawrence county residents out there for a visit, who aided him in celebrating. Other interesting news for New Castle is also contained in the letter, which follows:

Los Angeles, Cal. March 13, 1930.
George W. Conway,
Editor The News,
New Castle, Pa.

Dear George:

Yesterday was March 12 and it sure was a great birthday for me out here. I do not know how many babies had birthdays back in good old Lawrence county.

The day started off by a friend of ours Mrs. Maude McGurn, a young woman who lived in New Castle for some years and whose name before her marriage was Maude Moore brought in a fine birthday cake. It had sixteen candles on it and when I asked her the reason for sixteen, she replied "For sweet sixteen." I asked her if she saw anything about me that looked like sweet or sixteen. She laughed and said I was sweet anyhow. And just think of that, me SIXTY-TWO YEARS OLD.

Then the visitors began to come to say nothing of the huge bakes. When I came in from lunch at noon I thought someone had died while I was out.

About thirty people called at our room No. 6203 in the Biltmore yesterday. And such visiting I never saw before. The first people to come were Mrs. Laura Linton, Miss Carrie Crawford, Mrs. Carrie Baldwin, Mrs. Walter N. Leslie of Pueblo, Colorado. They brought good wishes and a large bouquet of flowers.

My good old friend, George A. Dickson came up from Oceanside, Cal. He said he had come up to see two things, me and grand opera. He saw a lot of high and low comedy during his stay. We were here until 5:30 and enjoyed seeing many of his old school scholars. And he remembered every one of them and named them when they came in during the day.

Mrs. George Bassett, formerly Mrs. Charles Mehard of New Castle, but married again since coming to the coast called and paid her respects. She had been in California a year and a half.

Mrs. Wilbur H. Wilcox of Los Angeles, a friend of ours called and visited awhile. She is taking us to the great Huntington library tomorrow.

A good old friend of ours paid us a surprise visit. It was Mrs. Harriet Cochran, who was for some years superintendent of the Shenango Valley hospital. We were sure glad to see her. She has charge of the Los Angeles school nurses, a very important position and has held the job for many years. She looks good and is doing fine. Many nurses and others will remember her most kindly.

My old school chum of fifty years ago Wm. D. Clark, dropped in and had a piece of the birthday cake, which was stabbed right at the beginning of the day. "Bill" and his good wife are leaving in a few days for his home at Everett, Washington. He is here with Mr. and Mrs. Bohn. Mrs. Bohn will be remembered in New Castle as Miss Nettie Stephenson, where she lived some years ago.

Will Waddington, who has been here for some years, was here and he said he always thinks of me on my birthday, as it was his father's birthday also. His father was John Waddington, a former sheriff of Lawrence county. We had a real visit with "Bill," he is doing fine out here.

Mrs. Margaret Hice and her daughter Margaret called in to see how things were going. They are here for the winter.

Mrs. John C. Offutt called and we renewed an acquaintance of some years ago. She has been in Pittsburgh and just got back to Los Angeles a few days ago. She is a permanent resident here.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry G. Euwer and their little daughter Nannette called when the time was her. Their contribution of a great big bouquet of flowers added to the occasion. They live at Santa Monica and are permanently located there. Harry is still greatly interested in New Castle and it's people.

Mr. and Mrs. Alf Williams of Long Beach came in. Alf lived in New Castle for some years and went there from Braddock when the steel mill was started. He is in the real estate business in Long Beach and has a fine business and is one of the prominent citizens there, having lived there over twenty years.

Mrs. Carl Wright of Glendale, Cal., was among the visitors. Mrs. Wright was Miss Marie Johnson, when she lived in New Castle. She has lived here a number of years and is a sister of Mrs. Wm. L. Aiken of Sharon.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam G. Linderstein, formerly of New York, but now located here also called. Mr. Linderstein was for over twenty years the New York representative of The News. They have been in New Castle many times and are known to a lot of people there.

Our good friends Mr. and Mrs. James C. Fleming of Santa Anna said they just had to drive the forty or fifty miles to see us on this momentous occasion. They have been living out here for some years and seem to be permanent residents. They were back home in New Castle last summer.

Mrs. Margaret McKee, formerly of New Castle, but now located at Glendale, Cal., called. Five years ago today we had our March 12th birthday dinner at her house in Glendale. She was not at home at the time but Mr. and Mrs. Fleming were living in her home at the time. She is the sister of Fred March in New Castle.

Mrs. Percy McNab and her daughter Louise came in late in the afternoon and had a visit with us. We have seen the McNabs a lot and they sure have been fine to us.

Wm. J. Bigley called. He has been in Los Angeles a year and a half and it looks as if "Bill" was going to make it a stay here. He has a good job and looks fine. We were glad to see him as we have known him all his life. Dr. Lenord Gagely and Miss Lena Hurlie also visited us late as they had tire trouble.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Armstrong of Long Beach called on the telephone and extended kind greetings.

At six o'clock this evening a dinner was given in honor of Wm. D. Clark and his wife of Everett, Wash. and us. It was in Mrs. Joseph D. Clark's hotel, The Berg, by Mrs. Clark and Mrs. James Abbott, assisted by Mrs. Fannie Norris and Miss Rachel Hamilton. Mrs. Norris is here with her sister Miss Myra McBride, for an extended stay. Miss Rachel Hamilton is a former school mate of mine in the Reynoldstown school and has been here for some years and is going to stay. Those at the dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Wm. D. Clark, Miss Rachel Hamilton, Miss Myra McBride, Mrs. Fannie Norris, Mr. and Mrs. George Kennedy and son George, Mr. and Mrs. James Abbott, Mrs. J. D. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Rentz. The menu was fine chicken and all that goes with it. The decorations were green in honor of St. Patrick and the neckties were mostly red. There was some fine music and a lot of visiting. Most of the conversation was about New Castle and New Castle people, but all kindly.

Mr. and Mrs. Claire Sweet are the happy parents of a girl baby, Grandpa Harry Dunlap and Grandma Mrs. Harry Dunlap are here and their joy is great—first grandchild. This little lady came on March 9th, Mrs. Rentz's birthday and she was given five dollars by her. It was not my birthday, but the birth being so near it and as we like Harriet, the mother of the little lady so well, I stretched a point and also contributed five dollars to her first bank account. It was a great day in the Dunlap family and we rejoiced with them.

On Monday evening of this week we were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Chambers at a turkey dinner at their fine home in Santa Monica. Those present were Mrs. Robert Flemming, mother of Mrs. Chambers, and her daughter Dorothy; Mr. and Mrs. Harry G. Euwer, Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Chambers. Two business associates of Mr. Chambers, Mr. Prayer and Mr. Abbott and Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Rentz. After the dinner the time was up discussing things in California and New Castle of course. We had a fine time and were taken out to the Chambers home and back to Los Angeles by Mr. and Mrs. Chambers in the family car. Cliff Chambers was the contractor on the new News building and we hold a warm spot in our bosom for him.

We saw a field of Irish potatoes about a foot high yesterday. We were among the visitors. Mrs. Wright was Miss Marie Johnson, when she lived in New Castle. She has lived here a number of years and is a sister of Mrs. Wm. L. Aiken of Sharon.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam G. Linderstein, formerly of New York, but now located here also called. Mr. Linderstein was for over twenty years the New York representative of The News. They have been in New Castle many times and are known to a lot of people there.

Our good friends Mr. and Mrs. James C. Fleming of Santa Anna said they just had to drive the forty or meetings up to now. The San Fernando Rotary club had 100 per cent attendance meetings for one solid year.

Burbank, the plant wizard, never lived at Burbank. His home was at Santa Rosa, near San Francisco.

From what I see in The News the political pollywogs of Pennsylvania are going to have a great time between now and the November election. No doubt they will make things worse if such a thing is possible. Right now I will say fervently "God save the commonwealth." We have been paid many times for printing that in The News, but this time it costs the taxpayers nothing, but comes from the heart and past experience. From the way the good people have been treating us in California it makes me think I could be elected to something out here if I remained here. That is something that could not happen to me out in Lawrence county as at least the pin head alleged political politicians so well know now.

A long distance telephone call from Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Treadwell of San Diego wound up the birthday. It came just as we were going to bed happy but tired. They called to say good-bye and a safe journey back home.

This afternoon we had the pleasure of visiting the great Huntington library at Pasadena. It is one of the show places of the world, we are told. We were taken out by a good friend, Mrs. Nancy Wilcox, Prof. George Dickson of Oceanside was with us and we sure did enjoy looking at the wonderful paintings and are treasures, to say nothing of the beautiful flowers and shrubbery.

One day recently while paying our bill at the hotel with a hundred dollar bill the cashier noticed the name John H. Lamb, president of the Citizens National bank, on it. She said she was from Moberly, Mo., and a president of a bank in that city had the very same name. It was the last $100 bill we had at that.

I noticed where a well was drilled at the Y. M. C. A. camp and it is called "Jacobs Well." I would rather have a well named after my son than a saloon or race horse at that.

I noticed in a Los Angeles newspaper the following, which gives the building permits issued here since 1925. Each year is given and you will notice how building has fallen off since 1925.

1926	123,006.215
1927	123,027.239
1928	101,678.768
1929	93,016.160
1930 to Mar. 7	71,401.361

On the way from the Huntington library this afternoon we called at the home of Mrs. J. H. P. Cunningham and had the pleasure of seeing her and Mrs. E. I. Phillips, who is with her at her home for the winter. Mrs. Phillips is in fine health.

Mrs. Claire Sweet and her little daughter are both fine as we learned over the telephone from Santa Monica this evening.

Tomorrow morning, Friday, March 14, we leave here for Oakland, Cal., where we will be for a few days at the Hotel Oakland and then we make a bee line for good old NEW CASTLE, PEA AYE.

Yours until nasty murderers do not go to New Castle to commit their dirty murderous crimes.

FRED L. RENTZ.

P. S. I clipped the following out of a Los Angeles newspaper:

Persons born on March 12 are known for their industry, good judgment, devotion to duty and ability. They are generally fond of adventure and may be somewhat impulsive and reckless. These individuals take pride in their homes and delight in the companionship of their families.

Sacred Concert Attracts Crowd

Very Interesting Program Is Presented At The First Congregational Church

One of the most pleasing and interesting sacred concert programs presented here in some time took place Sunday evening at 9 o'clock in the First Congregational church on Reynoldstown street.

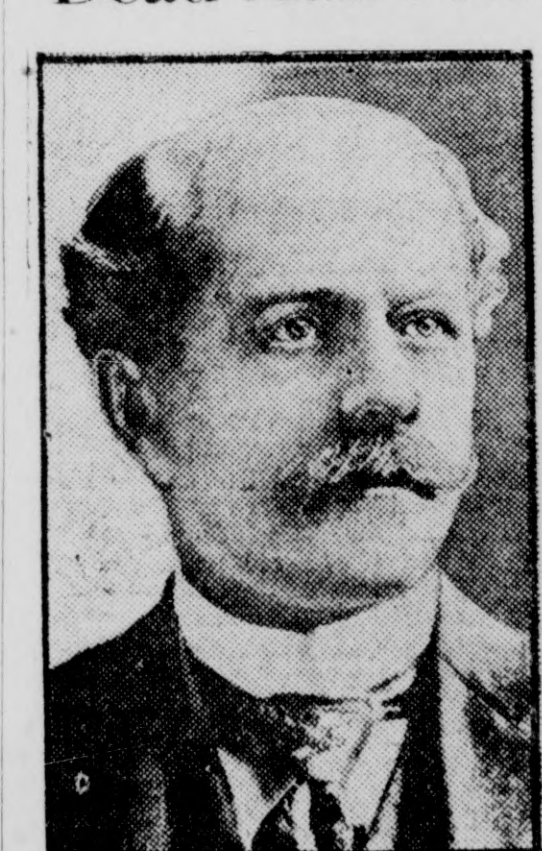

The auditorium of the church was filled to its utmost capacity by an appreciative audience and every number was received with interest and appreciation.

Rev. S. B. Copeland, pastor of the Third United Presbyterian church presided and the program as presented follows: Congregational song, "Diadem"—John Owens, leading. Selection by the New Castle Glee society directed by Prof. Duff. Duet—George Anthony and Harry Evans. Contralto solo—Miss Rebecca Garvin. Selections by the quartette of the First Presbyterian church. Baritone solo—David Lewis. Congregational song—Aberystwyth, John Owens, leader. Duet—Helen Allen and Margaret Preston. Bass solo—Arthur Hulbert. Anthony and party. Solo—Mrs. Richard T. Morris. Selection—New Castle Glee society directed by Prof. Duff. Benediction—Rev. S. B. Copeland.

Prior to the concert and at the regular hour of evening worship, Rev. R. T. Williams, pastor of the First Congregational church, delivered a most interesting sermon on the topic "Fools." This was heard by a large and appreciative audience.

The members of the Congregational church feel very appreciative of the kindness of the artists of many churches of the city in assisting in the program.

Lindbergh Exploits Glider Advantages

By JOEL Y. RICKMAN
International News Service Special Correspondent

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif., March 17.—What is the importance to aviation of the development of the glider and sailplane?

What are their practical uses?

What are the hazards of operating them?

The answers of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, America's ace of aces, to these questions today shed an interesting light on some of the major developments which may be expected in aviation in the early future.

His answer to the first question, in effect, is that it will permit "mass production" of airplane pilots at a greatly lower cost than the existing one.

Important Factor

His discussion of gliders, in this connection, would also strongly indicate that sailplanes may well prove to be an important factor in the training of pilots in time of national emergency.

To the second question, the answer is, that although they afford a novel form of sport, their greatest value, aside from their use in training schools, will be their adoption by colleges.

"It is my belief that ultimately they will come into use in schools and universities, not alone for practical training, but for the designing and construction of aircraft and for the study of meteorology and aerodynamics," Colonel Lindbergh declared.

His reply to the third question is: "There is practically no danger in operating a sailplane of the type, with which I am now experimenting."

Meanwhile, an inquest was to be held today. Mrs. Doyle's skull was fractured and her face was battered, apparently with a heavy weapon.

Mrs. Doyle's purse was missing, and her wedding ring, blood-stained and apparently torn from her finger, was found in an empty house near the body. The amount of money taken was not revealed.

CELL-MATE OF IRENE IN JAIL AT PHOENIX TELLS OF HER BOASTING

Says Mrs. Schroeder Related Whole Story Of Shooting Of Corporal Brady Paul—Deputy Sheriff Coor Tells Of Capture Of Irene And Dague—Commonwealth Is Near Conclusion Of Case.

Like Banquo's ghost, Irene Schroeder's words came back to haunt her this morning in court room number one. The story she told in bravado, if bravado it was, to her cell mates in the Phoenix jail was told this morning by one of those cell mates, Mrs. Mattie Jackson, a colored girl who was incarcerated in the cell in which Irene was placed. In her testimony she told of Irene's boasting that she had killed an officer in Pennsylvania, wounded another, robbed a lot of chain stores, battled with a policeman in St. Louis and later battled with officers in Arizona.

Mrs. Jackson was a prisoner at the time, but subsequently was acquitted by a jury on the charge of the possession of opium. She is here, not as a prisoner, but as a citizen who has agreed to come across a continent to repeat the words of a woman who Mrs. Jackson says, confessed to murder and robbery.

Story Clearly Told

Mrs. Jackson's story was told simply, and intelligibly. The story she told this morning, coincides with a story which the New Castle News published shortly after the return of the party of officers from Phoenix, Arizona, with Irene and Glen Dague. This story was written as a result of a conversation in Phoenix, between the representative of the New Castle News and a Phoenix newspaper man.

The story told by the former cell mate of Irene's appears in the article below. It needs little explaining. It is the story of an humble colored girl who knew nothing of the case before the capture of Irene, and had read nothing of it since. As she sat up in the witness chair, Irene's eyes hardly left her.

The story of the capture of Irene Schroeder, Glen Dague and Joe Wells came from the witness stand this morning from the lips of Deputy Sheriff Hance Coor, the deputy who was in active charge of the group that went into the mountain fastness and brought out Irene, Glen and Joe Wells.

Columns have been written about that colorful capture of the bandits. Long eulogies have been penned of the fearless manner in which they braved the bullets of the trio, but Hance Coor, big and brawny and bronzed, made no attempt at coloring the episode. To him, an officer of Maricopa county, Arizona, it was just another day's work. Not for him to tell how those westerners crept down the rocky incline of the Estrella Mountains, not for him to depict in glowing terms the capture that caught the fancy of a nation. His job was to tell just what happened and he did.

Perhaps to Hance Coor the capture was just another day's work, but to the world at large it was a daring piece of work, a valorous deed that ranks with the work of those old timers who captured Billy the Kid and the Earps.

Two High Spots

The testimony of Mettie Jackson and Hance Coor were the high spots of the morning's testimony. They came as the capstone of a pillar of evidence that has been piling, piling, piling since last Wednesday, evidence that is aimed to bring Irene Schroeder to the deserts where she is meted out by the law of the state.

This afternoon will see the cleaning up of the testimony for the commonwealth. Rosie Smith another cell mate of Irene's and Mettie Jackson's expected to go on the stand and newspaper men will be called to testify to certain things that happened in the Phoenix jail and on the train eastward.

Before nightfall it is expected that the commonwealth will be through, or at least by tomorrow morning. Then comes the turn of Irene Schroeder to attempt to break down the mass of testimony that has been offered.

What her defense will be is still a mystery. The testimony of the morning session follows.

Morning Session

Sheriff Charles Wright was recalled as the first witness of the morning. He identified finger print sheets made in the Phoenix jail signed by the defendant as "Mildred Winthrop." The sheets were offered in evidence without objection.

Q. After the defendant signed the card did she at any time admit her identification.

A. She never did admit it after that.

Q. She didn't make any admission either way?

A. No.

Q. Was there a telephone message concerning Donnie talking to Irene?

A. There was. I put the telephone in her hands and she refused to talk.

Q. Was there any talk of a reward on the trip back to your jail?

A. Yes, Warner said there was $3,000 on her and she said her stock must have gone down, there was $2,400 before.

Q. Where is Joe Wells?

A. In the Phoenix jail charged with the murder of Deputy Sheriff Lee Wright.

Q. Who was Tom Crawford you were looking for?

A. He is supposed to be a brother of Irene Schroeder.

Q. Did you have a conversation with her about a 38 revolver?

A. Yes, were were talking about New Castle.

Q. Did she say what they did with any guns?

A. She said they threw the guns away after the trouble with officers in St. Louis.

Q. Do you know Jimmy Warner?

A. I do.

Q. Did he have any conversation with her?

A. That is absolutely false.

Q. Did you keep her in the finger expert room from 7:30 p. m. to 2:00 a. m. the night before the Pennsylvania officers arrived?

A. Absolutely not.

Q. No Third Degree

Q. Did you say you were going to get a full confession from her?

A. No sir.

Q. Did one of your men twist her finger and thumb?

A. Absolutely not. There is no third degree in Arizona.

Q. Any newspaper men present?

A. Yes.

Q. What kind of language did the newspaper men use in order to get a confession?

Objected to by Margiotti and the question withdrawn.

That's all.

Q. Where do you live?

A. Maricopa county, Arizona.

Q. Are you an officer?

A. I am a deputy sheriff.

Q. On January 14 were you a deputy sheriff?

A. I was.

Q. Were you called on to perform duties that day?

A. I was.

Q. Were you given any instruction and what did you do?

A. Got in my car to look for two men and a woman.

Q. What did you do?

A. I called the sheriff and was instructed to go to Buckeye road.

Q. How long did you remain there?

A. About 10 o'clock in the morning.

Q. Then what?

A. I was instructed to go one mile west and south to a ravine.

Q. Then where?

A. About six miles west to the Gila run and found two duck hunters.

They said they saw some people cross the river. I crossed the river in the direction they instructed us. Other deputies were ahead of us. We overtook two deputies at the foot of the mountain. Two were to our right. Three were part way up the mountain.

Q. What time did you get to the mountain?

A. About one o'clock in the afternoon.

Q. What time were they arrested?

A. About four o'clock (M. T.) in the afternoon.

Q. Was there any shooting?

A. Yes, by the defendants. They were shooting at the deputies.

Q. Did they return the fire?

A. No.

Q. Was there any shooting in their direction after you got there?

A. No.

Q. How many shots did the defendants shoot after you got there?

A. Eight.

Q. What did you do to apprehend them?

A. Went up the side of the mountain concealed above them. There were six of us in the party. Three would advance and three would stay back and cover. We advanced to their hiding place. Oscar Roberts, Bob Carter and an Indian boy Sundust were with me. The Indian pitched a pebble onto my hat and motioned with two fingers that there were two people below. Then I heard Jack Carter order them to throw up their hands. Joe Wells was about 15 feet away. I told them to keep their hands up or we would plug them. I went over Dague for a gun but he didn't have any gun. Irene said "Don't be rough with him. I'm the cause of all of this." Wells said he had been trying to get them to give up.

Q. You speak of Sundust being on top of a rock. How big is it?

A. About the size of a box car. The top of the rock extended out over.

Q. How high was the rock below and around them?

A. Three or four feet high.

Q. How close were you to them when the Indian boy held up his fingers?

A. About 10 feet away.

A. From the shooting which took place. Jack Carter and George Pruett located them.

Q. Did you find any articles at the place of capture?

A. I found a 38 Smith & Wesson and a 38 Colt near them.

Q. Did you find anything else.

A. The 38 Colt had six loaded cartridges in it.

Q. Did you find any fired shells about the place?

A. I noticed some. Must have been 40 or 50.

'Moon Romance' Is 'Bunk,' Noted Astronomer Declares

Planet Is As Devoid Of Life As A Billiard Ball And A 'Frigid Globe Of Raw Crags,' Scientists Assert

"O Moon, Lady of the Night, where sleeps my princess, whisper now my love for her."
And the fanciful young maiden sighs in turn, gazes at the moon in wistful longing, and somehow pictures there a paradise for her and her swain.

But it is just a lot of bosh, bunk or what have you, according to the astronomers.

The moon, they say, is as devoid of life as a billiard ball, and is cold enough to shiver the timbers of a brass monkey.

It is a "terrible desert," they say—a frigid globe of raw crags, a whirling grindstone that would tear the heart and life out of anyone approaching it.

Close Enough for Study
Their conclusions are based, they say, on scientifically accurate observation and careful deduction. First, they point out, the moon is close enough to the earth for every feature to be studied in the minutest detail.

Therefore, if there were any lakes, forests or larger bodies of water on it they would be easily visible. But none can be seen, they aver.

It is no more than "a fanciful place for romancers," according to Dr. Charles P. Olivier, professor of astronomy at the University of Pennsylvania, director of the University's Flower Astronomical Observatory at Highland Park, Delaware county, and president of the American Meteor Society.

"Five factors determine the possibility of life existing on any planet. These are atmosphere, temperature, water, period of rotation and a group of highly technical and involved details.

Does Not Rotate
"The moon does not rotate. One side of it is always facing the earth. It is as much as the period of rotation must be short for the existence of life. It is impossible on the moon, which does not rotate at all.

"We do find," Dr. Olivier says, "large dark, relatively smooth areas on the surface of the moon which were first thought to be seas, but which are now known to contain no water. If there were any water, it could be seen. Out on one more point.

"We can also see rigid plains as large as 80 miles in diameter which look volcanic in origin, and also some high ranges of mountains, but nowhere can there be seen any sign of erosion by either water or wind. This indicates the absence of atmosphere."

The temperature point is cared for by the lack of rotation. One side is always frigid, the other slightly warmer. No life could exist in such temperature, it is said.

And we are assured by the astronomer that the fifth group, technical in its nature, points just as strongly to the absence of life from the moon.

Sheriff C. H. Wright
Speaks To Men's Class

Arizona Sheriff Is Guest Speaker At The First Baptist Church Sunday

The Men's Bible Class of the First Baptist church had the honor of having as its guest yesterday morning, Sheriff Charles H. Wright of Phoenix, Arizona, who played a most important part in bringing to justice the murderers of Corporal Brady Paul of the State Highway Patrol.

Sheriff Wright was introduced to the class by Harry L. Remley. In response to an invitation to speak to the class, Sheriff Wright stated that he has been made to feel more at home in New Castle than in any other city in the United States which he has visited with the exception of Phoenix.

The Sheriff is a regular member and attendant of the large Men's Bible class taught by Dr. Day, pastor of the First Baptist church of Phoenix. The class showed its appreciation of Sheriff Wright's words of greeting and commendation, by the enthusiastic applause of the one hundred and sixteen men present. They were most gratified to find an active Christian in such a responsible position as that held by Sheriff Wright.

Next week the teacher of the class, George M. Landis, will present the story of the passover, using an object for the enforcement of the truth. The subject will be "A House in Egypt." All men not otherwise engaged are cordially invited.

LEWISBURG, Pa., March 17.—Forty-four of the 400 women students of Bucknell University may not walk on the campus nor have dates for the next six months as a result of their admissions that they smoked in their rooms during the present year.

The penalty was meted out by the women's student senate, the self-governing student organization, after the forty-four had found themselves unable to sign a pledge that they had not smoked in their rooms.

While the non-smoking rule is a college order, the investigation was made and the penalty imposed by the self-governing body without the college authorities being involved.

Original Mail Carriers Ranks Thinning Out

Since Annual Gatherings Have Been Held, Two Of Five Members Have Passed On

On October 1, 1887, five young men of that time, Douglas J. McIlvenny, Daniel Mooney, George Dufford, W. S. Rice and Luke Egan, started on their duties as the first mail carriers of the city of New Castle.

As time passed on, they engaged in other activities but they never forgot the time that they started to work for Uncle Sam many years ago.

In October, 1927, they decided to gather about the festive board once a year in memory of the anniversary of the time when they started to work as mail carriers and that same year held the first of the series of such gatherings, planning to continue them as long as there was any of the group living.

When the group held the third annual event last October, there was one vacant chair, for Daniel Mooney, one of the original group had passed on.

Today the death of the second member of the group is announced. Douglas J. McIlvenny dying Saturday evening after a short illness.

This coming October, when the fourth annual gathering is held there will be two vacant chairs.

It is still planned by the survivors to carry on as long as there is any of the group living.

LONDON, W. 1

WHEN women come to me for advice on the care of the skin," says Madame Bertha Jacobson, of London, "I always impress on them the need for soap and water, as cleanliness of the skin is the first step to beauty."

"But," Madame Jacobson goes on to say, "I warn against the harsh effects of soaps not made exclusively of olive and palm oils."

The delicate lather of Palmolive is the chosen method for keeping skin free of those blemishes which threaten skin beauty... the preferred method of more than 18,900 world-famous experts.

Madame Jacobson, of Maysfair
Both as teacher and beauty specialist, Madame Jacobson is deferred to by members of her profession, many of whom have studied the essentials of beauty culture under her tutelage. And among London's smartest society women, her superiority as a beauty specialist is unquestioned. When Madame Jacobson urges the daily use of Palmolive that recommendation carries the weight of authority. Here is her advice:

This treatment, night and morning

Make a creamy lather of Palmolive Soap and warm water. With both hands massage this well into the skin two minutes, allowing it to penetrate the pores. Then rinse, first with warm water, gradually with colder. A final rinse with ice water is refreshing as an astringent.

To get the full benefit of salon treatments, you should co-operate with your beauty specialist by using Palmolive Soap twice a day. By beginning tomorrow you will hasten the return of natural loveliness. And since Palmolive costs so little, why not enjoy it for the bath as well as the face? Millions already do, in 48 countries the world over.

A vast professional group of 18,900 beauty shops advise the daily use of one soap—and only one—Palmolive.

OH, THESE WOMEN!

By LEOLA ALLARD

Jimmy of Chicago is certainly getting heavy support as the bachelors all over the country bring on their forces to support him. He contends men are better off as bachelors as they are when they are married.

I take it the idea has occurred before, because the bachelor ranks, file into my office in the form of correspondence. That's about the only kind of correspondence a bachelor dares, in the days of breach and balm suits, and how they enjoy it!

New York furnishes this bachelor named Fred, who says:

"Jimmy of Chicago hit the nail squarely on the head, when he spoke of the blessings of bachelorhood. Being one may not be the nicest thing in the world, but it is preferable to being tied down to a vixen who has engaged in matrimony merely to escape from the dullness of office drudgery. This type of womanhood is plentiful. And why shouldn't it be? So much is made of the modern gold-digger that even the low class factory girl has come to believe that charm and gold-digging develop hand in hand and are inseparable."

(You're right, Fred, they are being glorified to a disgusting extent. But it's the men who are glorifying them.)

"The current idea of love gives me a laugh. If there is any love between the sexes more pure and true than the love of a healthy man, I'd like to see it."

"The healthy man's love has no 'ifs' or 'buts' about it. It's there and that's all there is to it. Of course you will say the woman has no love out for her children. Balmoney! The women who are so clammy about premarital statistics are just as reluctant to have children."

(Right?)
"Two of my married friends haven't tasted a home cooked meal since the day they stumbled out of the church. I can eat at the same restaurant and enjoy myself while they are getting grey worrying over next month's bills. What's the advantage of matrimony?"

"In former days marriage was, almost invariably, an end. Nowadays it is almost as often an end—alimony means to another end—alimony."

"Cheerio girls! There are plenty of suckers loose on the range, but someday the light shall pierce man's thick skull, meantime they will be comforted by the delusion that they have given women equal rights with themselves. If they could sense the truth they would realize that long suffrage came in women had more elemental rights than they."

Fred says more. Just as interesting. But this gives you the idea. What idea?

"Thanks a Lot, Everybody!"

HIGHLIGHTS OF HISTORY

By J. Carroll Mansfield

Important Acts Of Wilson's Administration

OCTOBER 3, 1913, THE UNDERWOOD TARIFF ACT WENT INTO EFFECT UPON ITS SIGNATURE BY PRESIDENT WILSON. THE UNDERWOOD ACT WAS INTENDED AS A TARIFF FOR REVENUE ONLY, THE AVERAGE OF ITS RATES BEING MORE THAN ELEVEN PERCENT LOWER THAN THE PRECEDING TARIFF. THERE WAS LITTLE OPPORTUNITY TO OBSERVE ITS EFFECT ON BUSINESS AS SHORTLY AFTER IT WENT IN FORCE CAME THE OUTBREAK OF THE WORLD WAR, WHICH PRECLUDED FOREIGN COM-PETITION.

HAVING DISPOSED OF THE TARIFF QUESTION, PRESIDENT WILSON DEVOTED HIS EFFORTS TO SECURE THE PASSAGE OF LAWS TO CONTROL THE "TRUSTS" IN AN ADDRESS TO CONGRESS (JANUARY 20, 1914), HE URGED THE ADOPTION OF MEASURES THAT SHOULD FORM A "CONSTITUTION OF PEACE" IN INDUSTRY. TWO IMPORTANT LAWS REGULATING THE ACTIONS OF CORPORATIONS AND PROTECTING COMPETITION WERE ENACTED.

THE FIRST OF THESE WAS THE "COVINGTON BILL". IT CREATED THE FEDERAL TRADE COM-MISSION, COMPOSED OF THREE MEMBERS AP-POINTED BY THE PRESIDENT WITH THE APPROVAL OF THE SENATE. THE CHIEF FUNCTION OF THE COMMISSION WAS TO INVESTIGATE ALL PERSONS OR CORPORATIONS ENGAGED IN INTERSTATE TRADE, WITH THE EXCEPTION OF BANKS AND COMMON CARRIERS.

THE SECOND WAS THE CLAYTON ANTI-TRUST ACT, SIGNED BY THE PRESIDENT ON OCTOBER 15, 1914. THIS ACT WAS DESIGNED TO BRING ABOUT A STRICTER ENFORCEMENT OF THE SHERMAN ANTI-TRUST LAW OF 1890. TOMORROW—THE FEDERAL RESERVE BANKING ACT.

BY RUBE GOLDBERG

Duquesne Too Good For Locals Saturday

Harapas Stars For Winners
With Five Field Goals
And Four Fouls

New Castle Plays Poorest Basketball They Have Played
All Season

PITTSBURGH, Pa., March 17.—Playing the poorest game of basketball they have enacted all season the New Castle high school floor combination finally lost a game when they were defeated by Duquesne High on Saturday night at the Pitt Stadium in the semi-final round of the W. P. L. A. L. title race.

Close to 4,000 fans saw the Coach Phil Bridenbaugh machine crumble and as a result return to Lawrence County with a 22-14 defeat. The defeat was the first in 19 games and ended the best record ever made by any New Castle floor team. Inability to make fouls from the free line cost New Castle the game and probably the schoolboy tourney. Out of 17 tries from the charity line New Castle made 4 count.

Too Much Harapas
Saturday night was a case of too much Harapas a lanky fast cager. He called it a night with 5 field goals and 4 fouls out of 4. He scored a total of 14 points. Captain Beck was the other star performer for Duquesne. He was small but mighty. He scored twice from the field and tossed 2 out of 3 fouls. Francis Wainio seemed to be the only Castleite in the game. He tallied three times for the losers. Captain Alexander and Hannon managed to sneak in the scoring column with one field goal each.

Locals Miss 13 Fouls
One of the reasons New Castle lost was that they couldn't make the fouls count. A team that can't make more than 4 out of 17 free throws is certain to lose. And this is one of the main reasons why Duquesne is playing on next Tuesday night in the finals instead of New Castle. Another factor that sent the Lawrence Countians home "without the bacon" is that defense that had molested 13 other schoolboy teams previous to this wouldn't harmonize on Saturday. Duquesne got through the defense numerous times—the result being field goals. The Red and Black quintet broke the winning team's defense time and again but the ball wouldn't go through the cords.

It was a case where Duquesne had an "on night" while New Castle was off. We aren't here to offer any alibi or any "if" New Castle lost this and that they would have won. But on Saturday night the best team on the floor was Duquesne. They passed better and made the foul tries count. They only missed four out of 13.

First Quarter 5-4
New Castle lead twice during the game. Both times by one point. That was at the start of the first quarter and at the start of the second canto. McAuley started the scoring by making good a foul try. Hannon had a chance to give New Castle a two point lead but missed his first foul of the game. Harapas made good a foul to tie the score. A minute later he made a nice goal from the side and 2 fouls. A pass Alexander der to Wainio resulted in New Castle's first goal.

McAuley attempted two shots from the center of the court which hit the rim went around a couple of times and decided to come out. Alexander made one of two fouls as the first quarter ended with Duquesne leading 5-4. In this chapter New Castle started just like a week ago against Waynesburg. They missed numerous shots from all angles that would have won the game by a mile. But they couldn't locate the hoop. The quarter was fast and both teams were tired.

Captain Beck missed a foul for the winners at the start of the second quarter. New Castle led for the second time when Wainio made one of his famous side shots. The score was 6-5. This lead didn't last long as Duquesne made two goals and a foul in rapid order to give them a 4 point lead. Beck, scored twice and Harapas counted a foul as New Castle called time out. Play was fast and both quintets appeared tired. Harapas dribbled to the foul line and scored from there to give Duquesne a 6 point lead. New Castle had a chance to gain some ground on foul tries but failed. Wainio missed one, and Hannon missed two. McAuley made a foul as the second quarter ended with the Dukes ahead 12-7.

Third Quarter Ends 14-11

The third quarter was just another case where New Castle could have taken time out but those fouls were being missed repeatedly. At the start of the third quarter Hannon missed one foul. McAuley missed another and Captain Alexander missed 2. Service annexed two points for his team from the charity line. Wainio out the Dukes lead down to 5 points when he registered his second goal of the fray. At this stage of the game Luther Rowe was injected into the game replacing Hannon. With this lad going into the game the local high boys seemed to harmonize better. Shortly after he got in the game he made a pretty pass from one end of the court to the other to Wainio who made a goal and cut the lead down to three points as the third quarter ended. The score was Duquesne 14, New Castle 11.

Harapas started the final canto by making another goal. Alexander missed two more fouls. The Dukes commenced freezing the sphere at this early stage of the quarter. Coach Bridenbaugh again sent Hannon in for Rowe. Rowe removed from the game via the four personal fouls method. Meir replaced him. Harapas just about put the game on ice as he came through with his fourth tally of the game.

Hannon came through with one from the side for New Castle as Duquesne called time out. Play was resumed again and Harapas made his fifth and final goal of the game. Beck registered a foul to give the Dukes a seven point margin. Wainio missed a foul. Johnny Uram replaced his brother Nick at guard for New Castle at this time. Harapas fouled Hannon and as a result was removed from the game with four personal fouls. He had already done the same age. Hannon made his first foul out of 6 tries count to give the Lawrence Countians their 14 points. Beck made one foul out of two fouls for Duquesne's 22 points. With but 40 seconds of play remaining Duquesne took things easy and it was not long until the gun sounded ending the tilt. The final score was New Castle 14, Duquesne 22. Most of the fans from Duquesne crowded the floor to congratulate Coach Henry and the boys for the basketball performance. Despite the win Duquesne did not look so impressive. But they were better than New Castle Saturday night. The win marked the third time a team from the steel city has sent a local high team down to defeat in the tournament. New Castle appeared to be like the New Castle of 2 years ago which couldn't locate the hoop.

Rocco-Friedman Ready For Gong

Managers Opine Heavyweight Fight May End In Knockout; Cauton Battles Huske; Two Other Bouts; Expect Crowd To Swarm Into Bowl To See Battles Which Start At 8:30 P. M.

Emmett Rocco, heavyweight idol of Western Pennsylvania and Eastern Ohio will make a Herculean bid for fistie prominence when he meets Al Friedman, Boston, in a 10 round heavyweight extravaganza tonight at Jolly Bowl. Should Rocco score a knockout his name will be emblazoned on every sport page in the country and he'll occupy a berth alongside Maloney, Griffiths, Paolina, Campolo, Risko, Carnera, a boxer who is in pursuit of Max Schmeling and Jack Sharkey.

Rocco has been training here and is in the "pink." Friedman polished off yesterday at Jimmy Dime's gym and fans who have witnessed both in training believe that the bout will be one of the most gruelling tilts staged at the bowl. Here isn't a fan who has visited that place who will not agree that "fighters fight" in that palace.

Recently Friedman received a lot of "scares" when he fought Tufty Griffiths at Boston. They gave Tufty the award but the newspapers maintain he didn't deserve it as Friedman had him practically out in the seventh and all the news associations said the bell probably saved him from a knockout.

Seized Opportunity
Up until that time Friedman had been galavanting around the country smacking boxers right and left but he availed himself of the "big opportunity" by tackling Griffiths and that fight is now history. As a result he has been offered bouts with Walker, Maloney, Paolina, Carnera, Risko, Campolo and all the "big shots."

Naturally Rocco realizes that a victory over Friedman will steal Al's thunder and he's going into the ring tonight determined to win by a knockout, if he can put over the sororific. Of 39 fights he has scored 14 knockouts and lost only five times. Included in this is a defeat by Risko whom Rocco beat in their first encounter. Al Lippe, manager of Friedman opined today that Friedman will win by a knockout. "He had Griffiths grabbing, holding and stalling to escape a knockout at Boston and I figure that if Friedman can do that to Griffiths, one of the 'big shots' he most certainly can get to Rocco. At any rate, it is going to be a mighty sweet fight," said Lippe.

Rocco's Pilot Confident
"There is no question to what Friedman did to Griffiths isn't Rocco?" said Al Zill, manager of Rocco, in reply to the information carried to him. "This boy Rocco is stronger than the ordinary heavyweight, punches like a friend and if Friedman will exchange punches I believe that Rocco will bring home the 'bacon'."

Friedman is more clever than Rocco but he does not "sock" as hard according to fans who have seen them in fights and also in training. Rocco depends upon rights to the chin at long range and fast infighting to the stomach. Friedman has a rapping left jab and hook and a short right to the jaw.

They're aggressive, game to the backbone and Friedman must win to stay amongst the "big shots," a position acquired recently. Rocco is matched to fight Knockout Christner and he hopes to punch out a victory tonight. According to fandom the heavyweight whirl should be filled with action until the fight ends and it may terminate in a knockout.

Arnold vs. Murphy
Ralph Cauton, Cleveland and Knockout Huske, Akron, middleweights will cavort in the six round semi-final. Dick Evans pleaded illness Tuesday and Red Jadaberg was flattened Wednesday night by Huske so the bout was removed and instead, Cauton, a challenger of Firpo was calendared to meet the Akron Knock 'Em-Gold.

Frankie Lands, New Castle and Don Morse, Jamestown, N. Y., 122 pounders are listed for a six round preliminary. Tommy Carnold and Billy Murphy, local junior welterweights are scheduled for the first six rounder and if all the fighters carry out managerial opinions there may be four knockouts. The show will start at 8:30 p. m.

Interest in the Rocco-Friedman tilt is widespread and today when they weighed in at the Jolly Bowl, promoters from many cities were present. They report that delegations of fans are coming from various points in Eastern Ohio and Western Pennsylvania and a crowd that will tax the capacity of the bowl is anticipated. The bowl can seat 5,000 fans.

Doors Open Early
Promoter Bill Jolly today said that the doors would be open at seven o'clock so that fans who want to get their seats before the "last minute rush" can do so. The reservationists however will crowd into the choicer sections later. It is not known who will referee, the appointment being in the hands of Commissioner Haverly Boyle.

FOR THE WELTER CROWN
AND THEY MAY YET MEET FOR THE LIGHT HEAVY TITLE!

SOMETHING also as powerful as destiny would seem to be dooming Maxie Rosenbloom, big time boxing's most active playboy, to a seat other than the light-heavyweight throne. The New York State Athletic commission hands that world title to Jimmy Slattery, of Buffalo, on a silver platter because he outpointed Lou Scozza, another Buffalonian, who all but put the snore on the clever "Slats" in the thirteenth stanza of their fifteen-round bout a few weeks ago. True, "Slats" won a close hometown decision from Rosenbloom during the winter, and, on the strength of that shade, Maxie was all but eliminated from titular lists.

But the unorthodox boxing genius ducked that doom by slapping rings around such Slattery-smashing opponents as Jimmy Braddock, Ace Hudkins and Leo Lomski—all within a few months. Such a winner could not be ruled entirely out of championship lists. When all but Pete Latzo were ob-

College Town Firemen Winners By 22-20 Score

Special To The News

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Mar. 17.—The basketball game of the age transpired in New Wilmington Saturday evening. A revival of players rules and old time actions was witnessed by some 600 fans, when the Volunteer firemen tackled the Minter Construction team.

The final score of the game was 22-20 in favor of the volunteer firemen, but just the same, there was little left in the minds of the fans to warrant the game not being a triumph for either team.

"Red" Anderson, former Westminster college star, was the hero of the game with 11 points to his credit. He was just as good as he was ten years ago when he played for the college and set more than a few modern players on their heads. Playing with a style not to be surpassed by any one on the floor, he was by far the best player in the game.

Jim Pitzer, Ballhawk Skillin and Karsten were the best for the winners with H. Eagleson contributing seven points to the victory. During the time that Skillin was in the game, he was in every play, assisting the others to score. Pitzer started the scoring and Karsten pulled the game out of the fire in the closing minutes of play with a pair of fouls.

Ben "Bunny" Elliott handled the game in an approved style.

The old scholastic team of New Wilmington started the game for the firemen but were replaced by other players. Jim Pitzer, old scholastic center, played nearly all of the game, proving that he was able to stand the gaff.

RITTICISMS

Before the training season is over a lot of these rooks are going to find out that their proper position is on the bench.

At that it's a better place to be than riding the green plush back to Sauerkraut Center.

A big league manager calls spring training a success if he finds at least two peaches on the annual lemon tree.

Many a March home run sensation finds himself back of the pickle counter calling up for the scores on opening day.

At that, being a rookie isn't so bad. Many a lad has been satisfied just to have his picture taken in a second-hand Yankee uniform.

And then think of the sensation when the rook tells the home boys that Florida isn't really pink as it appears on the map.

After all, life could be worse. In training camp they pay off with three squares and a pillow and that's the pre-season salary of everybody, including Babe Ruth.

"YOU WOULDN'T TURN A DOG OUT ON A NIGHT LIKE THIS!" wailed NELL

Big League Teams Having Hard Time In Finding Cobbs

None Of Present Day Crop Of Rookies Can Make One Forget About Ty-rus, The Great

Plenty Of Rookies Up For Trials, But Reports From South Are Not Encouraging

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, March 17.—If Mendelsohn had been a baseball writer, he probably would have written his Spring Song about a young man from Fort Wayne who was going to make posterity forget Cobb, so there is something almost ominous about the fact that, to date, the silence on this subject has been well nigh deafening. Somehow the matter, doubling in from the press boys at the training camps lacks the pompos note of other years; it is almost austere. If one didn't know better he would suspect that baseball has no confidence in its ability to produce another Cobb at every training camp.

Lot Of Milk Weed
As a matter of fact, the flowers that bloom in the Spring seem to have turned out to be a lot of milk weed. The press boys haven't been writing about them because you can't make anything heroic out of the third out. All you can hope to do in a case of this kind is to point with pride to the young man's outstanding love for his mother.

The Giants, for example, thought they were ready to go with Eddie Marshall at second base but, so far, Edward hasn't hit anything except maybe the hay at night. Of course, this is all a bit premature and maybe the young man is only what they call a slow starter. But I notice that the slow starters in the training camp usually gather speed as they go. In fact they go very rapidly when the times comes.

However, the Yanks have declared themselves for an opening game line up that includes Chapman and Cooke, the St. Paul recruits, at third base and in left field respectively and Berger, the Coast League hitter, seems to have caught on definitely in the outfield of the Braves. At that, this is only Boney for the course. If you don't catch on with the Braves, you go on back to Council Bluffs and start all over again.

Rookies Fail To Hit
Neither Chapman nor Cooke is hitting, the latter being so inept to date that he has the press boys writing their eulogies about the great speed he shows in going from first to second on a single. The tip on Cooke is that he can't hit left handers but that he has overlooked his consistency. Apparently he can't hit right handers, either. I suspect Cooke of being another slow starter, for a man can't hit up around 370 in the American Association without being a pretty fair "country" ball player. Smead Jolley hasn't reported to the White Sox yet, so nobody knows whether he is as good as they say he is or as bad as a lot of misanthropists suspect. Finn and Slade, another Coast League combination, have done nothing with the Dodgers. Slade being out with a bad heel and Finn being out because of a very hard bench. They haven't given this young man a chance to show yet. The Dodgers, however, seem to have picked up a live one in Lopez.

Bonura On First
In the absence of Fonseca, the Indians are playing Bonura, from New Orleans, on first base and he seems to be something of a hitter. Unless I am mistaken, he used to be a javelin champion and I was going to say that he had better look out for the hammer throwers in the stands, but I won't.

The Pirates are too far away for anyone to get anything definite on another young first baseman, Gus Suhr, but all you hear from the Tigers is a paean on a youth by the name of Greenberg, who for some reason comes from the Bronx. He also is a first baseman.

Other good ones are Sigman, who hit .317 in ten games with the Phils last year; James and Moore, of the Braves, and McNair, a kid shortstop with the Athletics.

All in all, however, the situation is most disquieting. For once, there seems to be several training camps that have no Cobb and that naturally leads to the supposition that all of their good ones must be downright terrible.

Gerson Jewelers Trim Champions

Gerson Basketball Team Noses Out Akron Y. M. H. A. Champs 31 To 30

The Gerson Jewelers basketball team of New Castle made quite a name for themselves in a game played at Akron on Saturday night. The Akron Y. M. H. A. quintet, champions of northern Ohio, were the victims of an over-time period game. The final score was 31 to 30. It was one of the fastest and finest games played on the Akron court this year and drew a big crowd.

It was quite a feather in the cap of the locals to dust off the champions. Things looked bad for the locals in the first half when the Akron boys took the lead 20 to 14, but a last half rally that netted them 17 points to 10 for Akron gave the VanFossen coached boys a most deserved victory. The Akron team made eight field goals in the first half, but were cut to just half that many in the second half through great guarding on the part of Plant, H. Levine and Joe Solomon. Eph Solomon and Joe Solomon did the scoring for the locals in the second half, both boys casing three field goals. Rogovin had one bucket.

'Sac' Levine Stars
The end of the regulation game was 29-29. This was made possible through the fine work of Sac Levine, who caged one from mid-court to follow it up with a foul that deadlocked the count. In the over-time session the Akron boys made a foul, and Plant and Eph Solomon matched with two fouls and a victory for the locals. The entire Gerson team played a great brand of basketball and their followers are proud of them.

After the game Jack Gerson, local jeweler, who escorted the team to Akron, gave them a fine banquet in honor of their victory, and which they rightfully deserved. Both Mr. and Mrs. Gerson accompanied the Gersons to Akron and were interested spectators at the game.

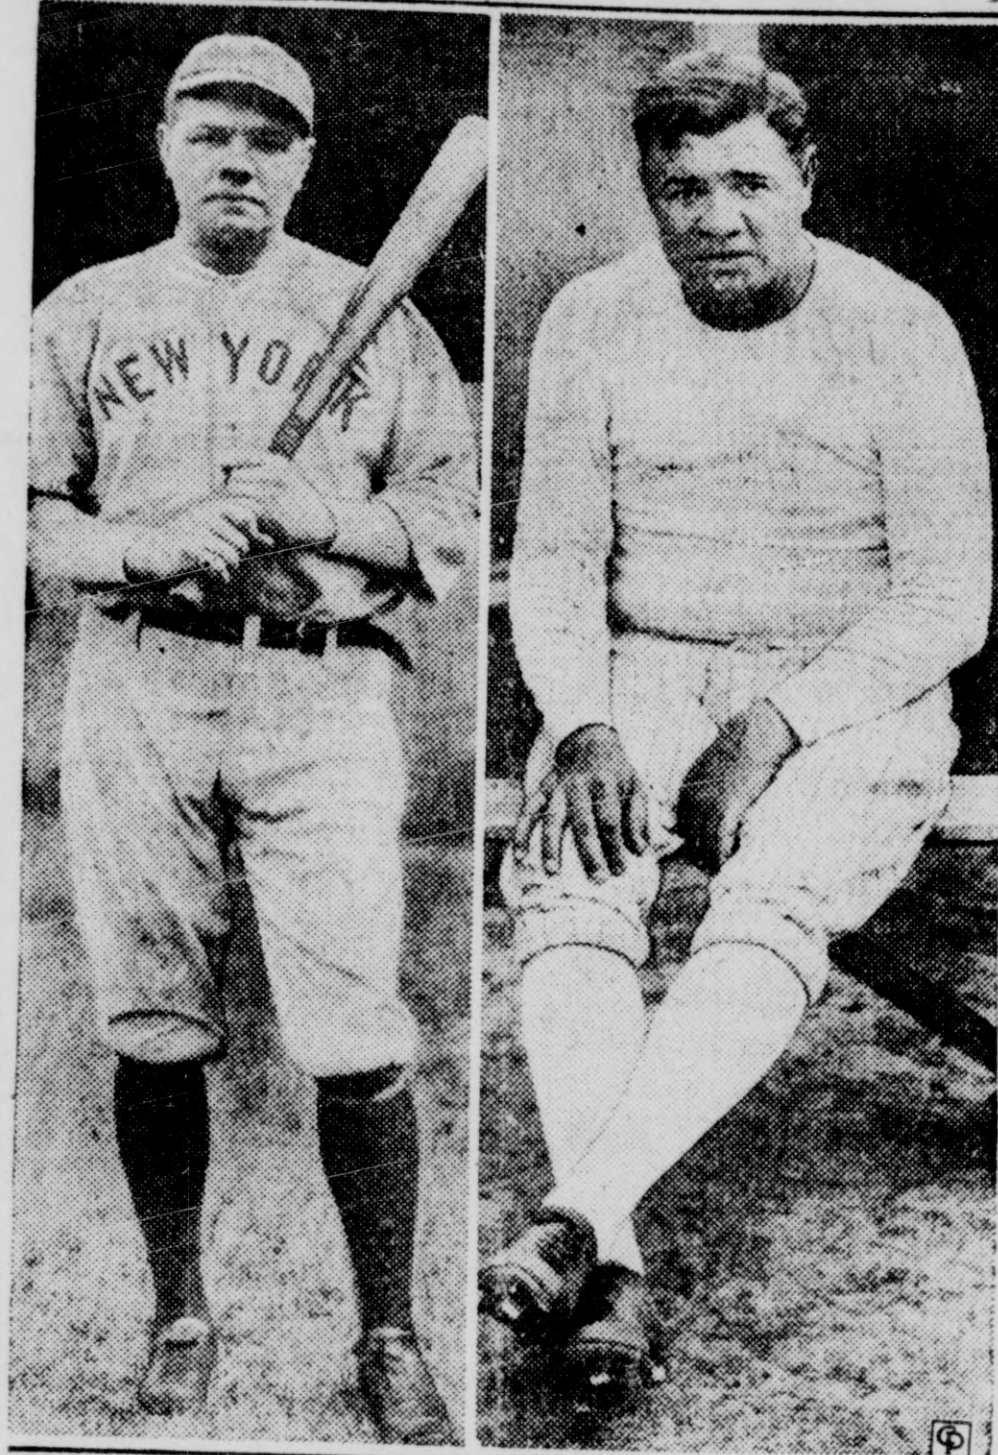

Summary:
Gerson Jewelers 31 Y. M. H. A. 30

First Fresh Fish 'In' At Sandusky

Tugs Bring In Gill Nets' Catch; Many Buyers Disappointed

SANDUSKY, O., March 17.—The first fresh fish of the fishing season, "on" in Ohio since Saturday morning, were brought into port here Sunday afternoon aboard the Schacht Fish Co.'s steam tug F. M. Wheeler from Lake Erie, off Kelleys Island.

They represented the yield of gill nets, as did the catches that followed aboard the oil-burning tugs Ethel S. Steve V. and Junior, other Schacht boats.

The fish were mostly of the perch and sauger varieties, although occasionally pickerel, ciscoes, bullheads and eelpouts were found by the sorters.

The entire catch did not amount to much more than a ton but the fish men expressed themselves as satisfied that the fish are "running" and that getting them is, accordingly, but a matter of proper fishing.

The trap netters expect to make their first hauls Tuesday or Wednesday. The gill netters, however, are anticipating catches tomorrow considerably larger than they brought in Sunday.

There were buyers on hand today for all the fish brought from the lake—and then some.

Several Cleveland wholesalers had trucks on the docks waiting for the boats to pull in. The most of them were disappointed, for the Schacht Co., already had booked plenty of orders.

Many motorists drove far from inland Ohio to find upon arrival that it was "too early" and that there were no fish to be had.

It is understood that the tug Wheeler was the first boat to bring 1930 fish from Lake Erie to an Ohio port.

It makes no difference whether you stand behind a counter all day, or boss a gang; pore over a ledger or hit the streets as a salesman. To get there, you have to do a real day's work. And you get hungry. Hungry for real food—and for real chewing tobacco.

Mail Pouch is real tobacco with a real tobacco taste—not all doped up with sweet stuff and artificial flavoring—choice tobacco does not need it.

Mail Pouch is the cream of the crop from four famous tobacco states, blended according to an exclusive formula. And because it is not over-sweetened you can chew it without fear of indigestion or heartburn.

SAYS AVIATION INDUSTRY WILL ADVANCE IN 1930

By HOMER H. METZ, International News Service Aviation Editor

NEW YORK, March 17.—The aeronautical industry will show great progress in 1930—simply because engineering science is constantly improving the flying dependability of the airplane and is adding better ground equipment and more efficient communication between the two.

So declares H. B. Crouse, President of the Crouse-Hinds Company of Syracuse, who believes that many who attempt to interpret the future of the airplane do so upon the basis of irrelevant facts.

"Aeronautics is a science that always has progressed in direct relation to its engineering achievements. The airplane was made possible by the genius of two engineers, and has been brought to us today through successive improvement that have evolved in the engineering laboratories.

"Pioneers of the air have learned of the faults and shortcomings of the airplane—with many of them sacrificing their lives to do so—and the engineering laboratory has answered these needs, as they are discovered," Mr. Crouse stated.

PA NEW OBSERVES

doesn't seem to affect the number of autos that are to be found on the highways. This spring promises to see more traffic than ever in the history of this region, if the first few days of spring are any criterion, large numbers of shiny new autos are also to be seen in the line-up of tourists.

This is St. Patrick's day.

Dirt roads in Lawrence Co. which have been in bad condition following the thaw and succeeding rains, are now rapidly drying up. Some of the roads need to be dragged while work has already been started on a number of them.

Another sign of spring was noticed Sunday afternoon, an airplane being noticed hovering over the city, presumably coming from one of the local airports.

Local people who motored to the game in Pittsburgh Saturday evening, report that a group of boys worked a neat racket, assisting them in parking their cars, after which they demanded some remuneration. Fearful that they might damage the cars or tires, most of them paid.

Several beds of flowers on the Kurtz property, East Washington street, are in bloom. The bright colors are attracting a lot of attention from passers-by.

A fire-escape is being erected on the front of the Dollar Savings Association building, on East street.

Will Come To A Close On The Feast Of St. Anthony June 13th

Annual Novena to St. Anthony, better known as the bog novena of the year, will be inaugurated Tuesday at St. Vitus church and continue for thirteen consecutive Tuesdays until June 13, the Feast of St. Anthony.

Indications are that as in former years, hundreds of people not only of this city but other places throughout the country and surrounding cities and towns will participate, as St. Vitus church is the only church in the county having a relic of St. Anthony and enjoying the privilege of conducting the special services from Rome.

It will open at 8:30 a. m. Tuesday with Solemn High Mass when it is anticipated that many will take communion and participate in the devotion then and throughout the entire period of the novena.

There will be special devotions each Tuesday night for thirteen consecutive Tuesdays at 7:45 o'clock and the blessing of the persons participating with the relic of St. Anthony. It is anticipated that many will be benefited especially those who are sick.

Moore's Estate To Total Near Million

Late Ambassador Alexander P. Moore Gives Spanish Queen $100,000 For Charity

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Mar. 17.—Alexander P. Moore, late ambassador to Poland who died in Los Angeles recently, left an estate worth at least $500,000 according to his will which was filed for probate here today.

Outstanding bequests in the testament were a gift of $100,000 to Queen Victoria of Spain for her charity work among the poor and sick of her country, and $25,000 to Mrs. Enrico Caruso, widow of the late Italian tenor.

Dorothy Russell Calvit, daughter of the late Lillian Russell, the ambassador's wife, receives a legacy of $1,000 under the terms of the will.

While the personal property is valued at more than $500,000 and the real estate at $3,300, it is believed an inventory of the estate will increase the estimate of the personal property to possibly $1,000,000.

Scarecrow Cop Ties Up Traffic

(International News Service) PARIS, March 17.—Suburbanites at Saint Cloud solved the speeder problem but only for a day.

Upon approaching the town automobilists take a flying start in order to climb the hill of Saint Cloud without shifting gears.

Inspired by the success of a lake policeman who presumably aided the kidnapping of General Koutieff of the indignant pedestrians of Saint Cloud dressed a scarecrow in a cop's uniform and placed it at the foot of the notorious hill.

The effigy so impressed Parisian drivers that a traffic jam developed. When a real policeman came along to clear the road he saw the scarecrow and "arrested" it.

Aversion To Derbies Leads To Man's Death

(International News Service) HOUSTON, Texas, March 17.—His aversion to derby hats led to Ike Calloway's sudden demise.

Seated in a restaurant here, Calloway made disparaging remarks about derbies in general. Jack Casey, who sat near him, owns a derby and resenting Calloway's derogatory statements regarding them. They argued. Carrying their difficulty into the street, Calloway was shot through the head. Casey was jailed.

EUROPE DEMANDS TALKING FILMS IN OWN TONGUE

(International News Service) LOS ANGELES, March 17.—It will be a nip and tuck race from now on between American and European producers of talking pictures predicts Arthur Loew, foreign manager for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

"Europe will have a hundred per cent increase in sound wired theatres before the year ends," Loew declared. "There are now 3000 wired theatres, 750 of them being in England. The need for foreign talking versions of American films is becoming more and more acute."

"Spanish speaking nations, which return the bulk of our foreign revenues, demand pictures in their own language. 'Titles no longer suffice.'"

The result will be, in Loew's opinion that American films will be made with several casts, one speaking each language. This will make more valuable the services of actors and actresses who speak several languages. Greta Garbo, for instance can speak Swedish, German and English. Ramon Navarro is a master of English, Spanish and German. Antonio Moreno's ability to speak Spanish is not doubted by anyone who saw him in "Romance" of the "Rio Grande."

Maurice Chevalier speaks English and French.

Examples could be multiplied. It is interesting to observe that whereas foreigners' prospects looked dark for a while, after the sound revolution, they now are brighter than are American hopes.

Council By Three-Two Vote Passes Measure At Day's Session

Council met formally in city hall today and passed finally Councilman Louis Genkinger's bill which regulates the practice of city employees appearing in court as witnesses. The measure was passed by a three-two vote. Councilmen Genkinger, Reeves and Treser voted for the bill but Mayor Gillespie and Councilman Burns cast negative ballots.

According to the ordinance when city officers or employees are summoned as witnesses in civil or criminal action they are compelled to sign an order to the city treasurer to collect witness fees and the money is to be used by the city.

They are compelled under the law to give the order turning over the fees to the head of their department within five days from the time they appear as a witness unless they obtain permission from the head of their department for leave of absence for which they will not receive pay.

Should any officer or employee refuse or neglect to sign such an order or procure a leave of absence for the days he is engaged as a witness in court they shall be subject to immediate dismissal, the ordinance provides.

Scion Of Noble Line Arrested As Thief

(International News Service) PARIS, March 17.—The name of a family that was raised to nobility in 1765 by Pepin the Short has found its way to a police court blotter.

It was brought there by Enguerant de Marigny whose forefathers knocked the crowns off would-be kings and gave the royal headwear to Pepin.

He went down the Marne Valley and after trying his hand at various enterprises became a private chauffeur.

It was in this last capacity that de Marigny cast a blot on the Carolingian name. Police say he stole his employer's limousine.

(International News Service) CAIRO, March 17.—The inheritance law in Egypt is now under fire. This law, which is the Mohammedan canonical law, bestows double the inherited amount on the male as on the female.

It is argued by those against any change that the English custom which gives everything to the eldest son, is less favorable than the Moslem law.

Dr. Hassan Fakhr, a political and social reformer well-known throughout Egypt, is making a strong attack on the Egyptian inheritance law, contending that there should be equality between the sexes in regard to inheritance.
